MEDALS PRESENTED BY MAYOR WALKER

With such fierce-sounding places as Blagoveshohensk, Khabarovsk and Novosibirsk behind, they faced the showers of ticker tape and confetti, screaming sirens and boat whistles, hurrahs of thousands and the stares of lines of humanity along Broadway and Fifth avenue.

Only the Winnie Mae herself, sturdy maid of the world skies, had a chance to take the day quietly. She stood, like a patient charger, in her Roosevelt Field hangar, into which she had been rolled when the world-rounding flight ended last night after 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes. She could have started out and done it all over again, mechanics said, if she'd wanted to.

Wife's Kiss Awakens Gatty.

The day began for Harold Gatty, navigator of the flight, when his wife, after a plane-train trip from Glendale, Calif., crept into his room at his hotel and awakened him with a kiss shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Mrs and Mrs. Gatty and Mr. and Mrs. Post, together with Florence C. Hall, millionaire oil man who backed the flight, breakfasted lightly and then the procession of welcome began.

There was no privacy for the fliers or their wives. New York's enthusiasm over their feat was too great for that.

On the tug Macom, which took them from the foot of Forty-fourth street to the Battery for the start of their triumphant ride to City Hall and then back to their hotel, they were photographed again and again. Between trips from the pilot house to pose for the newspaper photographers or to record for the "talkies," they were besieged by reporters and members of the mayor's reception committee, all desirous of learning the details of their flight.

They told little, however, and probably thanked the nearly incessant roar of sirens for the "quiet" it gave.

Fliers Add to Noise.

Both fliers helped make some of the noise of their own reception. They pulled the levers that released blast after blast from the Macom's siren and Post, especially, enjoyed the experience.

At the Battery New York gave its loudest greeting. Scores of tugs, boats and ferries joined in adding to the roar as fireboats threw streams of water into the air and crowds ashore waved.

Up Broadway to City Hall the fliers rode by an automobile, while ticker tape fell about them in an endless stream. Mrs. Post and Mrs. Gatty, with F. C. Hall, the flight backer, followed in another car in which also rode their official New York hostess, Miss Evelyn Wagner, secretary to Mayor Walker.

Mrs. Post wore a dark blue dress with white polka dots, a blue turban and black shoes. Mrs. Gatty was dressed in the white coat, dress and beret she wore when she arrived.

Gatty and Post were hatless, the former in a light tan suit and Post in Navy blue.

Walker Presents Medals.

Strung out in a long line behind came two score automobiles bearing members of the mayor's committee, newspaper reporters and photographers.

At City Hall, Mayor Walker extended the hand of official greeting, saying they had "written another page into the history of science, a page which would make for greater progress, greater happiness and greater thrill to civilization itself."

"When you left Roosevelt Field your ship was known as the Winnie Mae," he said. "When you got over Ruisa I think it was decided that the name

Bronx Beer Baron Freed in Shooting

Jury Deliberates 5 Hours to Acquit Schultz; Is Still Held.

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer, Bronx beer runner, was acquitted by a jury tonight of a charge of felonious assault. The jury deliberated five hours and twenty minutes.

Schultz was accused of having tried to shoot Detective Stephen Di Rosa when Di Rosa and Detective Julius Salke met Schultz and several of his henchmen at 101st street and Fifth avenue on June 19. Daniel Iamascia, Schultz's bodyguard, was slain in the encounter.

An assistant district attorney told the court that another indictment accusing Flegenheimer of violating the concealed weapon law June 19 also is pending, as well as a concealed weapon charge.

New York hasn't forgotten how to extend the glad hand, as evidenced by the reception accorded Wiley Post and Harold Gatty yesterday in their triumphal ride up Broadway to City Hall. Try to find the globe fliers beneath the maze of ticker tape, streamers and scrap paper showered upon them.

DREDGE MAN HELD IN GIRLS' SHOOTING

Enraged because of 14-year-old Elsie Bryant's attentions to James Wilmer, 16 years old, William Owens, 70 years old, yesterday allegedly shot the girl four times and then turned the pistol upon the girl's sister, Mrs. Gertrude Campbell, 17 years old.

The shooting occurred in the Campbell home, on M street near Four-and-a-half street southwest, when the girl is said to have informed Owens, a dredge captain, that she intended to marry Wilmer.

The girl is near death in Emergency Hospital, and her sister, less seriously wounded, is in Casualty Hospital. Owens is under arrest at the Fourth Precinct.

Mrs. Maggie Owens, 62 years old, wife of the alleged assailant, was in another room at the Campbell home with young Wilmer when the firing began. She told police that her husband became infuriated because of the girl's attentions to other men, and that her husband had been "going with the girl for five or six months." Wilmer, who lives on Thirteenth street near B street southwest, was detained as a witness.

According to Mrs. Owens, she and her husband came to the Campbell home to talk with Elsie regarding the disappearance of a box of money from his house.

The money was missed, she said, last Tuesday night, after a party of five girls and youths had stopped at their house in Capitol Heights. Her husband took the money from the box and hid it, she told police, and when he looked for it later it was gone.

In the bedroom of the Campbell home, the argument began which ended in the shooting. Four shots struck the girl, one striking her in the neck, and in the chest, stomach and leg. Mrs. Campbell was shot in the left arm and shoulder when she attempted to defend her sister from Owens' alleged attack.

Owens surrendered to Patrolman W. A. Link, of the Fourth Precinct. The Owens have been married 41 years and have one daughter. Mrs. Owens said that Elsie had been given the use of Owens' automobile for the last few months. She expressed her

U. S. Greatest Nation, MacDonald Declares

British Prime Minister, Speaking at Independence Day Dinner in London, Also Pays Warm Tribute to Hoover Debt Holiday Plan.

London, July 2 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, speaking tonight at the Independence Day dinner of the American Society in London, called the United States "the greatest Nation which now exists on the face of the earth."

Referring to the Boston tea party, he said:

"That historical incident means that you are able to celebrate this day, that you are able to look back on your history with pride. It means that you are able to lift up your heads to the world, that you have been able to build up by patient labor, by courage and self-respect the greatest Nation that now exists on the face of this earth."

He paid a glowing tribute to President Hoover's moratorium proposal, which he described as an act of "great wisdom, courage and deep insight."

"I am perfectly certain," he said, "that to whatever political party you may belong you will excuse me if I say that the recent action of your President to alleviate and soothe the wounds and unhappiness of Europe is an action of great wisdom, of great courage and of deep insight."

Describing the world's economic difficulties as a result of overproduction in the Western Hemisphere and underproduction in the Eastern, he declared:

"Those of us who have been bending our heads in front of those difficulties, confessing that we are baffled by them; those of us who have gone through those experiences now begin to lift up our heads, to seek a way out to see hope, to get new energy and new courage to face those problems.

"If that is so, it is very largely owing to that wise and courageous action of the President of the United States.

"There is a very mysterious link," he said, "which binds us to each other. It is not an alliance, nor a declaration, nor a treatise. It consists in those eternal spiritual kinships and relationships which defy all quarrels, all oppositions, all separations.

"It is that extraordinary indefinable hankering after the same sort of things—our pleasures, our appreciations, our essential characteristics are the same. You can deny and I can deny it, but the eternal verities remain unmoved either by your denials or by mine."

"Without abating one shadow on your Monroe Doctrine or your great Declaration of Independence," said he, "we are discovering that in the great moral causes, the great causes of righteousness, of liberty, of peace—the great causes which mean the establishment of the spiritual things of life in the world—America and we are going on, keeping step with each other.

"Not hampering each other, not dominating nor conspiring with each other, but going on keeping in step with each other because in the essential things America and ourselves are in absolute and hearty agreement."

"In the recent negotiations which we were conducting on naval affairs," said the prime minister, "we shall never cease to be grateful to your people for their hearty cooperation.

"The cause of disarmament, the still greater cause of universal peace was the subject of our deliberations. There were details of differences, but

CORUNA MONASTERY SET ABLAZE BY MOB

Monks Flee as Rioters Apply Torch; Several Hurt in Police Charge.

Coruna, Spain, July 2 (A.P.).—Surging out of a bull ring through the busiest section of the city, a mob of several thousand tonight set fire to the San Jose Monastery of the Capuchin Order of Catholic priests.

They had met during the afternoon and listened to orators denouncing what they called the "reentry of the religious orders into Spain." As evening came on they charged out of the ring in a rioting mass and swept to the monastery, where some of them applied torches.

The civil guard was unable to check the mob's first rush, but reinforcements massed at the monastery and charged the crowd with sabers and rifles.

The rioters were pressed back after three had been wounded and several arrested, but firemen were unable to check the flames immediately.

The monks had fled as the roar of the crowd drew close and before the fire started most of them had found refuge with friends in the city.

Police were hurried to the Jesuit college and church in another section of the city, where many of the crowd gathered to jeer after they had been fought off from the burning monastery.

ACES TRAILING OBSCURE GOLF PROS IN OPEN

Dutra, Guest, Barron and Williams in Lead With Cards of 71.

NOTED CONTENDERS ARE WITHIN REACH

Compston, Unfit to Play, Is Disqualified; Threat of British Diminished.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

Inverness Club, Toledo, Ohio, July 2 (A.P.).—Four Dark Horsemen of the American links, unconcerned by the inferno of Invernes sand unchecked by its hazards, galloped out in front today to establish a four-cornered tie for the lead in the United States open golf championship.

While the British forces experienced a series of staggering setbacks and American favorites struggled to survive the heat wave and stay within striking distance, the quartet of unheralded and unattended competitors rode the fairways to finish in a deadlock with Old Man Par with scores of 71 each, for the first 18-hole round of the 72-hole championship chase.

The four leaders—Mortie Dutra, of Long Beach, Calif.; Charles Guest, another Californian now located at Deal, N. J.; Herman Barron, of Portchester, N. Y., and Eddie Williams, of Cleveland—charged into the fray from the East, Midwest and Far West to take temporary command of the battle to determine the successor to Bobby Jones.

Post Cards of 71.

Guest and Williams posted cards of 36—35—71 for their first-round efforts. To vary the monotony, Barron and Dutra came in with 35—36—71, to duplicate exactly the par layout of Inverness.

None of the four has ever been in front before at any stage of the American open championship. Their tenure of leadership this time may be brief, with the pressure and possibly the heat adding to their difficulties in the second round tomorrow, but they outshot the best in the world today.

There were heavy casualties all along the line in the opening round, especially among the invading Britons, who saw the giant Archie Compston disqualified for reporting an hour late, Abe Mitchell pick up on the 13th hole and withdraw, and all save two of their dozen tarters finish so poorly as to be virtually out of the running.

W. H. (Billie) Davies and Fred Robson saved something out of the British wreckage by posting 73 each, comfortably within reach of the pace setters.

Compston Mysterious.

Compston's case was the sensation of the day. The big Briton, after having telephoned U. S. G. A. officials he was hurt in an accident and thereby delayed from reporting at the course on time to start off with MacDonald Smith, suddenly appeared shortly before noon. After admitting the accident story was a hoak, Compston likewise told officials he was not in proper condition to play. Later, he denied this and protested he was treated unfairly, but the association president, H. H. Ramsay, refused to reconsider the ruling of disbarment.

The British cause, which last was carried to triumph on these links by big Ted Ray in 1920, met further reversals in action. Percy Alliss, who represents a Berlin club, shocked his many followers by soaring to a 78. His compatriot, Henry Cotton, equally well regarded, blew himself to an 80. Bert Hodson took an 83, Aubrey

FRANCE WILL JOIN DEBT CONCORD ON FAVORABLE BASIS, IS REPORT IN PARIS

OUTSTANDING POINTS AT ISSUE NOW BELIEVED IN AGREEMENT

Time for Refunding of Unconditional Payments By Germany to Be Extended; Loans to Other Countries Dropped; England to Aid In Guarantees Problem.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, July 2 (A. P.).—Settlement on a very favorable basis of the Franco-American negotiations centering about President Hoover's proposed war debt holiday tonight was expected within a few hours.

Although no official announcement was likely before tomorrow, it was learned from reliable sources that an agreement had been reached on certain of the outstanding issues on which the French and American viewpoints disagreed.

This information was that France has agreed to give Germany more than five years to refund a loan based on the unconditional reparations, and that ten or more years probably would be granted.

France also was said to have reconsidered her suggestion that some of this money be loaned to Jugoslavia and other small European nations whose needs would be provided for by other means.

It was learned also that France and Great Britain are approaching an agreement on the question of the guarantee fund under the Young plan. This was one of the points about which France was most concerned.

A conference scheduled for tonight between Secretary Mellon and the French representatives in the negotiations was postponed this afternoon so that Mr. Mellon and Ambassador Edge might confer with Washington on counter-proposals submitted unofficially by the French government.

The Havas News Agency said, however, that Mr. Mellon and Pierre Flandin, French finance minister, conferred during the afternoon, issuing no statement when Mr. Mellon left the minister's office. The American representatives were to meet Premier Laval again tomorrow.

Cabinet Meeting Held.

The French proposals were drafted at a special meeting of the cabinet, with President Doumer attending, today.

An announcement by Great Britain of her "willingness" to call a conference of the most interested nations had no apparent effect on the determination of the French and American representatives to continue their negotiations, particularly as the nations referred to in the Britain offer are signatories to the Young plan, of which the United States is not one.

The prevailing impression tonight was that the conversations were proceeding satisfactorily and that a special conference of the Young plan powers is not necessary.

Wireless Phone Busy

The wireless telephone between Paris and Washington was worked hard tonight, and reports circulated that representatives of the two nations had approached a point at which all differences would be ironed out.

Tomorrow's meeting is looked forward to with the keenest interest, for it is believed that this might be the decisive session at which the negotiations would be concluded.

The fact that M. Flandin and not Premier Laval or M. Briand conferred with Mr. Mellon this afternoon was taken as an indication that the discussion now centered entirely upon the technical financial aspects of the problem.

A semi-official note was issued tonight saying only that the negotiations are progressing in a satisfactory manner and that it is possible that an accord will be reached quickly.

Optimism Spreads

"It would not do to call out the brass band too soon," said one well informed observer tonight, "but we are hoping that great things may be achieved tomorrow."

As the night wore on the feeling of optimism spread and the belief became general that a definite accord might be announced at tomorrow morning's meeting.

Several points are still to be adjusted and there may be some difficulties at the last minute, but it is thought that, despite these fea-

PARIS AND U.S. NEAR CONCORD, IS BELIEF HERE

Success of Negotiations Discerned in Spirit of Optimism.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

An agreement between France and the United States on President Hoover's proposal for a one-year holiday on war debts appeared imminent last night.

If France agrees, the Hoover plan will go through, all the other nations involved having agreed to it in principle.

The French evidently have made new counter proposals that point to the smashing of the deadlock and to an agreement all around.

The American officials who are conducting the negotiations from this end have always said that they were confident of an ultimate agreement. At no stage, however, have they been so visibly optimistic as they were late yesterday.

Castle Voices Optimism.

Acting Secretary of State Castle issued the following statement:

"The negotiations in Paris are continuing in an admirable atmosphere, and we are very optimistic of the outcome of the negotiations."

Mr. Castle made the statement after he left the White House. The assumption is that while he and others were in the President's office, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon talked to President Hoover over the transatlantic telephone and told him about the concessions that France is willing to make in order to bring about an agreement.

It is further assumed that President Hoover gave Secretary Mellon instructions as to how far the United States will go to bring about a compromise and therefore an agreement.

State Department Conference.

At any rate, if the expressions on the faces of Mr. Castle and the others meant anything, the prospect for an agreement is very bright indeed.

After leaving the White House the Acting Secretary of State, Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills and

Slavery in Liberia

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

Missionaries Silent On Liberian Outrages

Churchmen Utter no Protest Over Forced Labor, Mistreatment of Boys, Debauchery of Native Women and Drudgery of Children.

The findings of the recent International Commission, starting as they were to the outer world, were really old stuff to Liberians. It was like announcing in Chicago that Al Capone's men had "bumped off" another rival gangster.

The Fernando Poo "boy" traffic had been in operation for almost a score of years, pawning antedated the settlement of the country by the freedmen from America, domestic slavery had been practiced since the earliest days when the recently-landed colonists turned right around and virtually enslaved the unfortunate Negroes taken off slave ships by British men-o'-war and dumped on the beach at Monrovia, and forced labor was as ordinary as the annual rains.

If these practices are so shocking and reprehensible and have been going on so long, one wonders why there has never been an outburst of protest from the missionaries who overrun the country. As a class they have sat serene and complacent and observed the forced labor of whole tribes on the government roads. They have stood with closed mouths and seen "boys" returned from Fernando Poo who were unable to walk because of sleeping sickness and elephantiasis. They have never seen fit to protest to the outer world about the debauchery of native women living as concubines in the homes of many of the leading Liberians. The spectacle of hundreds of little children enslaved as drudges in households has never aroused their pity to the point of protest. If they observed the socially harmful custom of pawning, they kept it quietly to themselves.

If these missionaries were the representatives of some savage cult that favored slavery, pawning, concubinage and forced labor, there would be no occasion for comment at their long silence, but they are Christian missionaries. Most of them are good Baptists, Methodists, Catholics, Lutherans and Episcopalians, and almost all of them come from the Land of the Free! With the exception of the Catholics, they are running back and forth to the United States all of the time. It does seem that during the past 70 years, during which time they have been operating in Liberia, at

Capital-to-Persia Hop Ends On Hangar; Pilot, Wife Hurt

Proposed 16,000-Mile Flight Comes to Grief Atop Hoover Field Shed as Plane Strikes and Sticks; Pair Not Badly Injured.

A proposed 16,000-mile flight from Washington to Teheran, capital city of Persia, ended before it began last night on the top of No. 2 hangar at old Hoover Field. The pilot of the plane, Ali Schirazi, and his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Schirazi, who was accompanying him, were slightly injured in the crash.

The plane, a two-seater, open cockpit job, had been flown down from Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., late yesterday afternoon by Pilot Schirazi. He was attempting to land the plane when it grazed the top of the abandoned building, bumped along for a few feet, and stopped dead on top of the roof. At a late hour last night it was still perched on the abandoned hangar.

Mr. and Mrs. Schirazi were both shaken and Mrs. Schirazi was cut about the face and neck from flying windshield glass. They were both taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment, where they were met by a relative, who refused to reveal his name. The pilot and his wife were taken to the home of the relative after they left the hospital.

The side of the damaged ship bore the legend: "Persia to India." Mr. Schirazi is said to have been planning an ocean flight for some time. He flew here from the New Jersey air-

Curtis' Farm Board Attack Keeps Politicians Guessing

Kansas Observers Feel Vice President, Acting as Spokesman for Wheat Growers, May Be Candidate for Seat in Senate.

Topeka, Kans., July 2 (A.P.).—Speculation as to whether Charles Curtis will be a candidate again for Vice President, or for his old seat in the Senate, became intensified tonight as he assumed the role of spokesman for Kansas wheat farmers who are dissatisfied with sales policies of the Federal Farm Board.

After a conference here today it was announced the Vice President and Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), would seek a conference next Monday with President Hoover and the Farm Board to urge anew a clear cut statement by the board that wheat holdings of the Grain Stabilization Corporation will not be sold until the price reaches 85 cents a bushel at Chicago.

Mr. Curtis previously had stated his belief that the board made a mistake by not acceding to demands of the growers and announcing instead a policy under which an average monthly maximum of 5,000,000 bushels of stabilization wheat will be placed on the market.

When interviewers suggested his attitude might be interpreted as a break with the Hoover administration and an indication he had decided to run for the Senate, Mr. Curtis said: "I had no intention to criticize tures, the negotiations can be terminated successfully and quickly.

It was learned that satisfactory progress has been made on the problem which offered one of the greatest difficulties—that of how France will handle the guarantee funds for which she is responsible under the Young plan in case Germany should declare a moratorium. It is understood that the basis of the proposed agreement on this point is that France will deposit French treasury bonds with the Bank for International Settlements.

Sackett Phones Edge, Castle on Debt Plan

Berlin, July 2 (U.P.).—Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett conferred by telephone today with Ambassador Walter E. Edge in Paris and Undersecretary of State William Castle in Washington regarding negotiations in Paris for acceptance of President Hoover's debt plan.

Rumors were circulated here that an agreement, in principle, had been reached at Paris to permit the Hoover project to go into effect, and leaving only minor technical points unsettled.

FRENCH AGREEMENT WITH AMERICA SEEN

Senator Morrow, of New Jersey, held a conference in Mr. Castle's office in the State Department.

Leaving the State Department after dark, they went back to the White House, where Senator Morrow is a house guest.

"We are very cheerful," said Acting Secretary Castle.

They were asked whether this country had sent any instructions to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in Paris.

Constant Touch With Mellon.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills said that instructions were constantly being sent to Paris, and the inference was that Secretary Mellon had been told that the United States would accept the new counter-proposals that have been made by France.

Premier Laval evidently made these proposals to Secretary Mellon after he and the other members of the French ministry had read the memorandum which the American Government sent to France Wednesday.

Of course, there remains the question of what the French Parliament will have to say about a compromise. It is assumed here, however, that M. Laval undoubtedly knows just how far he can go and still retain the support of the Parliament.

At the White House conference in the afternoon, there were present in President Hoover's office, in addition to Acting Secretary of State Castle, the following men: Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills, Senator Morrow, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and Eugene Meyer, head of the Federal Reserve Board.

Loans to Balkan Countries.

The presence of Mr. Meyer revived reports that the United States, through the Federal Reserve Board, might, in conjunction with the Bank of England and the Bank for International Settlements, extend loans to those Balkan countries that would be affected by a suspension of reparations payments by Germany.

France originally proposed that part of the money that Germany placed in the Bank for International Settlements to cover her unconditional reparations payments be loaned out to these Balkan countries.

The United States, in its memorandum to France two days ago, insisted that all the money Germany puts up this year be loaned back to her and suggested that the smaller countries in Central Europe that would be affected by the debt holiday be taken care of through loans by banks outside of Germany.

No doubt was felt that this question could be ironed out.

Compromise on Time Limit.

Nor has there been any doubt that a compromise could be reached on the question of how much time should be allowed for the payments of the debts and reparations that President Hoover proposes be postponed for one year.

France has suggested that the postponed payments be paid back in five years. The United States has suggested 25 years. If France has now suggested a reasonable compromise on this point, say ten years or so, there is little doubt that the United States has accepted.

The most difficult question at issue, it was pointed out in the American memorandum of Wednesday, concerned the guarantee fund required by the Young reparations plan.

Germany, under the Young plan, can declare a moratorium on conditional payments, but must make good on what are known as unconditional payments. France gets the major share of unconditional payments. The Young plan provides, however, that in the event Germany declares a moratorium on conditional payments that France put up a big guarantee fund that will be apportioned among the other nations to whom Germany owes money.

British Suggest New Parley.

France suggested that the unconditional payments which Germany makes this year be used to cover the guarantee fund that France would have to put up in the event of a German moratorium.

The United States, in its memorandum to France on Wednesday, pointed out that this was a matter that had to do with a modification of the Young plan; that it was a question that France would have to settle with the other creditors of Germany.

In view of the optimistic spirit that was in evidence here yesterday France must have agreed to take this question up with the nations that would share in the guarantee fund that she would have to put up.

Great Britain, according to press dispatches, has suggested that she might call a conference in London, and it is entirely possible that an agreement on the guarantee fund might be worked out at that conference.

RITES FOR MRS. YEOMANS.

Widow of Former I. C. C. Member Dies After Month's Illness.

Mrs. Eunice Cornelia Yeomans, 1301 Massachusetts avenue, widow of James Dallas Yeomans, who was a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Cleveland administration, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital following a month's illness. Mrs. Yeomans was 85 years old.

Native of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Yeomans came to Washington with her husband in 1893, and has resided here since. She is survived by two sons, George D. Yeomans, New York attorney, and James H. Yeomans, of this city.

Funeral services will be at Hysong's Funeral Home, 1300 N street northwest, at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Dr. H. H. Harmon, pastor of the National City Christian Church, will be in charge. Interment will be in East Aurora, N. Y., where Mr. Yeomans is buried.

BERLIN HOLDS FAITH IN GETTING DEBT AID

Leaders Confident France Will Accede to Plan; Stock Prices Gain.

Berlin, July 2 (A.P.).—However nerve-racking the delay in the negotiations over the Hoover war debt plan may be to Chancellor Bruening, Foreign Minister Curtius and Germans generally, confidence remained unshaken today in well-informed circles that a one-year moratorium was about to emerge in one form or another.

This confidence was strengthened by private conversations, considered by influential Germans not connected with the government, with persons in France who sympathized with Franco-German rapprochement.

One suggestion frequently made is that if Germany were to indicate her willingness to continue to make such deliveries in kind as already have been arranged for with France, France might waive her objections to the Hoover plan.

Deliveries Under Plan.

These deliveries during the present Young plan-year should total 700,000,000 marks (about $175,000,000), of which by far the greatest part would go to France. Until now orders for only about 400,000,000 marks (about $100,000,000) are said to have been placed.

On this proposal, as on all attempts to draw Germany into direct discussion with France, the German government takes the position that it must not mix in with President Hoover's affair. It is believed, in political circles, that if United States Ambassador Sackett, on behalf of Mr. Hoover, should suggest that deliveries in kind offer a basis for compromise which would not contravene the principles of the Hoover plan, Germany would be willing to accede to the limit of her financial ability. On the assurance of outside help, financing the great part of these deliveries in kind would then be forthcoming, it is believed.

Those who in France and Germany favor some such scheme for breaking the present deadlock, say that once the deadlock is broken the road will be clear for Aristide Briand, France's foreign minister, who throughout the present discussions has been almost completely effaced.

Briand Remains Silent.

Briand's silence is looked upon as significant. This past master at cancellation is conserving himself, it is believed here, for the international negotiations which must inevitably begin as soon as the Hoover year of respite takes effect.

While awaiting the outcome of negotiations in Paris over the Hoover debt proposals, Germany studied with more than usual interest the weekly report of the Reichsbank published today.

Covering the week ended June 30, the report showed that the Reichsbank, on June 27, had drawn more than 318,000,000 marks (about $76,320,050) against 420,000,000 marks (about $100,800,000) of rediscount credit placed at its disposal by international banks of issue for the short term ending July 16.

Bank's Credit Studied.

Since the bank gave out an additional 100,000,000 marks in foreign currency between June 27 and this morning, it was assumed in financial circles the rediscount credit had been further drawn against for a similar amount. This would mean that the whole rediscount credit had been used up to tide the bank over the end of the half-year demands.

While the very fact that the banks of issue extended credit, amounting to 420,000,000 marks, was said to indicate that such an amount was expected to be needed. Nevertheless, it was declared to be apparent that the Reichsbank was again near the danger line. If this should be passed, it would be compelled to resort to credit restriction measures.

In financial circles it was pointed out that if the uncertainty over the Paris debt negotiations is prolonged, a perilous situation is likely to result.

The general behavior of the boerse today, however, indicated that there is general confidence that the Paris conferences will reach a satisfactory, or at least not a tragic end. While the opening of the exchange was irregular, there seemed no eagerness to sell, and gains of two or three points later were general.

Bryan Alleges Plot In Banking Dispute

Nebraska Governor Ousts Official of Bank Department.

Lincoln, Nebr., July 2 (A.P.).—Gov. Charles W. Bryan today announced he had discovered a plot to remove records of the bank receivership division of the State department of trade and commerce from the State House.

He discharged I. D. Beynon, assistant counsel for the banking department for "insubordination," and criticized Clarence G. Bliss, receiver for about 200 State banks, for his activities.

Bliss and three other receivers, all holding office under district court orders, issued a statement that because of the governor's "interference," hereafter they will "conduct the affairs of the failed banks without further expense to the department of trade and commerce."

FREE TEXTBOOKS PLEA IS REJECTED

Alexandria School Board Opposes Appeal From Potomac Group.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Citizens of the former Town of Potomac, through C. H. Strader, principal of the George Mason High School, failed yesterday to win free school books and free health clinics, provided when the town was a separate corporation, but discontinued since annexation proceedings made Potomac a part of Alexandria.

Their plea, read to the Alexandria City School Board, brought a statement from Urban S. Lambert, chairman, that he opposed free textbooks for Potomac, since this would mean they also would have to be furnished other schools.

The board also declined to grant a request of Mount Vernon School teachers for free desk copies of textbooks. New readers for the pupils from the first to the fifth grades were authorized, in compliance with State law, effective at the reopening of school, September 9.

Announcement was made that all teachers employed have signed contracts for next year.

Dr. John T. Ashton, member of the board, reported that the estimate of the city for grading the clay bank at the west end of Maury School was $1,680, but that a contractor here had told him the necessary work, less curb and gutter, could be done for $700 to $800.

The board appropriated $115 for the purchase of equipment by Physical Director Giben.

Plans for painting various school buildings were submitted by Mr. Lawler.

Chairman Lambert stated he did not think the school survey now being made by three Virginia educators would be completed before October, and he understood a number of changes in the interiors of school buildings would be recommended by the commission making the survey.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Jennifer Broaddus and Mrs. John H. Abraham was appointed to arrange for obtaining window shades for the school buildings, and the superintendent was authorized to have necessary repairs made to the furnaces at a cost of $1,672. The superintendent also was authorized to purchase heat controls for the Mount Vernon School building and to have necessary repairs done before the opening of school in September.

The severe windstorm Wednesday night demolished a 150-foot wooden tower on the wharf of the American Agricultural Chemical Co., between Queen and Princess streets. The only parts salvaged were steel buckets and rods. The loss is estimated at $20,000 by E. W. Jenkins, manager of the company's plant here. The tower was used in unloading fertilizer material from ships.

A delegation from the local Business and Professional Women's Club will leave today for Richmond to attend the annual State convention which opens there this morning and will continue through Saturday. The biennial national meet will convene Monday. Gov. John Garland Pollard has loaned the Governor's Mansion for the evening reception.

Those who will go to Richmond today and Monday are Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, president of the local chapter; Mrs. Mary Troth, past president and member of the State board; Miss Florence A. Long, corresponding secreary; Mrs. Otis Hullings, past treasurer; Miss Adelyn Apperson, treasurer; Mrs. Rathbone Smith, Miss Orean Bruce, Miss Maida Foster, Mrs. Charles Power, Mrs. Charles A. Strauss, Miss Alice Whitton, past president; Mrs. D. C. Book, vice president; Mrs. Albert M. Briggs, Miss Bertha Allison, Mrs. Elizabeth Keegan.

Miss Margaret Germond, first vice president of the Virginia Federation, left yesterday for Richmond. Other members will go on Monday to remain until Friday, when the national pageant will be staged, with Miss Alice Gronau, chairman of the pageant committee, in charge. A group of Alexandrians will dance the minuet, in colonial costume, and others similarly costumed will act as ushers at the pageant.

The Kiwanis meeting yesterday in the George Mason Hotel was well attended by sons and daughters of members. The program was in charge of Charles D. Shackleford and J. Preston Merchant. Entertainment was furnished by the "Mullane Masqueraders," of Washington, through the courtesy of J. J. T. Mullane. The participants included Leslie Byron, boy tenor; Miss Ida Clark, piano-accordionist; Miss Margaret Eglesby, of New York, in a skit, and Mr. Mullane, in songs of long ago.

Fireworks for the Fourth of July celebration will be on sale today and tomorrow in many stores and stands, but their use except on the Fourth is prohibited by city ordinance. All persons discharging fireworks at any time except tomorrow will be subject to arrest and fine.

A majority of the stores of Alexandria will close all day tomorrow, although a few will remain open until noon. In order to accommodate their patrons, several of the larger stores have arranged to keep open tonight until 10 o'clock. Banks, city and Government offices will be closed all day tomorrow.

BRITAIN FOR PARLEY IF PARIS HOLDS OUT

Favors Meeting of Powers on Hoover Proposal if Negotiations Fail.

London, July 2 (A.P.).—The British government intervened dramatically tonight in discussions of President Hoover's moratorium plan by announcing its "willingness" to hold a conference of the powers chiefly concerned if the negotiations at Paris should break down.

The Associated Press learned that Great Britain has advised France that the French proposal regarding the Hoover plan constitutes an entire alteration of the Young plan in regard to the question of guarantees, and it is understood that the proposals are unacceptable to Great Britain.

Officials would not confirm this information.

British official anxiety concerning the trend of events, and its opinion that the matter is one of extreme urgency, are reflected in a brief communique which announced the government's decision.

Believes Delays Dangerous.

"Should no early solution be found," the communique said, the government "have expressed their willingness—in order that an agreement should be reached with a minimum of delay—to hold a meeting of the powers chiefly concerned at an early date."

Commentators agreed tonight that the phrases, "early solution—minimum of delay—early date," gave a clear indication of the government's belief that delays are dangerous.

A curious feature of the communique is that it makes no mention of a site for the proposed conference, but the natural assumption is that a gathering held under British auspices would occur at London.

Moreover, despite reports from Paris, it is not "signatories to the Young plan" which are envisaged as attending this conference, but "the powers chiefly concerned" in the Hoover proposal.

It was pointed out tonight in well-informed circles that the difference between what the British government actually said and what the Paris newspapers seem to believe it said might make all the difference as to whether the United States would attend such a conference.

Still Hopes for Success.

It is pointed out meanwhile that the British offer is entirely contingent on a breakdown at Paris, and that the communique begins by expressing an earnest hope that the negotiations there will succeed.

Paris indeed remains very much the center of events, and the British government is keeping in close touch with its ambassador, Lord Tyrell, who is having conversations with Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister, on the rapidly changing situation.

For the present the British attitude may be regarded as unchanged. Great Britain accepted the Hoover proposal with all its implications and made her own contribution by enforcing a moratorium on interimperial war debts.

Today's communique, it can be stated with authority, was an attempt to be helpful. The best informed experts agreed tonight that there is no reason to assume from the fact of its publication that the British government will align itself with any other power in an attempt to induce the United States to accept any proposals detrimental to the general scope of President Hoover's plan.

Two Killed When Bomb Bursts on Freight Train

Rome, July 2 (A.P.).—A bomb was exploded in a freight train today at Portonaccio, a suburban freight yard, killing two persons and injuring one.

The bomb blew the car to bits as freight workers broke its seals and opened its doors for a customs inspection.

ALL EVENTS FILLED IN CULPEPER SHOW

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 2.—Every stall in every barn at the Culpeper Horse Show grounds is occupied tonight in anticipation of the horse show which opens here tomorrow. When the regular horse barns were filled Secretary Huffman commandeered the hog barns and buildings used for poultry displays at the county fairs, and erected temporary stalls in them, but the influx of horses has been so great that he has had to turn down many entries for lack of stall room.

Two classes have 50 entries each and one, the open event for hunters, has 53 entries. Many well-known jumpers are entered in this class, among them Edwin Vaughan's Chestnut Pride, Miss Elizabeth Nesbit's Cathode Ray, Frank Corley's two Ganadore mares, Princess Royal and Duchess O'Dare, and Mrs. D. N. Lee's Rock Arden.

Although the entries for the races do not close until 10 a. m. of the day prior to the race, several races already are filled. Five races are scheduled for each day, four on the flat and one steeplechase, 2½ miles across country. Between twelve and fifteen horses are expected to start in each cross-country race.

Eleven show classes are scheduled for Friday, the first day of the show, and thirteen for Saturday, the two extra classes on the second day being the Corinthian, to be ridden in hunting colors, and the hunter championship, for which all blue ribbon winners of the show are eligible.

Following is the list of classes:

First day—Half-bred sucklers, brood mares; novice saddle horses; open-to-all hunters; saddle ponies, 12 hands and under; 3-year-old hunters; ladies' saddle horses; green hunters; middle and heavy weight hunters; lightweight hunters; jumping ponies, 12 hands and under.

Second day—Half-bred yearlings; half-bred 2-year-olds; thoroughbred yearlings; road hacks; hunters; 4 years and under; open saddle class; touch and out; ladies' hunters; free-for-all handicap; saddle ponies, over 12 hands; jumping ponies, over 12 hands; Corinthian class; hunter championship.

Six Marines, Injured In Crash, Brought Here

Brought to Washington from the Marine base at Quantico, Va, six Marines received treatment at the Naval Hospital for injuries received when a large truck in which they were riding to President Hoover5s camp on the Rapidan from Culpeper, Va, struck a concrete culvert during the storm Wednesday night.

The accident occurred near Haywood, Va. None of them was seriously injured. Those treated were Sergt. Roscoe Swinson, contusion of right leg; Private (first class) L. B. Buffkin, fracture of right knee; Privat J. Guynn, contusion of right hand; Private W. W Murphy, contusion of chest; PPrivate. Philip N. Riester, fracture of right arm, and Private Alfred F. Ethier, fracture of right leg.

The driver of a Washington Railway & Electric Co. bus was arrested and charged with driving while drunk, reckless driving and possession of a half gallon of liquor, which was said to have been found in the vehicle after an accident in Hyattsville, Md., las tnight.

The arrested man is John H. Papley, of M street northwest near Ninth street The bus driven by him, loaded with passengers, is said by police to have struck a car and then a pole at intersection of Oakland road and Franklin street, in Hyattsville, last night No one was injured in the crash, police said, except one woman, who was badly shaken up She refused medical treatment, and her name was not obtained

Woman Falls Through Show Window.

Slipping on an apple peeling, Mrs. Alice Gray was cut on the right arm when she fell and crashed through the plate-glass window of a barber shop at 3421 M street northwest last night. The woman, who lives at 646 South Carolina avenue southeast and is a clerk for the Capital Traction Co., was treated at Georgetown Hospital.

FAIRFAX COW TEST RESULT ANNOUNCED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The report of N. L. Lowery tester for the Fairfax County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, No. 2, for the month of June shows that 679 cows were tested in the association of which 44 were dry. The average production of the association was 765.3 pounds of milk and 30.05 pounds of butterfat. There were 50 cows producing more than 50 pounds of butterfat and 137 that produced more than 40 pounds.

The high individual cow honors for the month were won by a grade Holstein owned by R. L. Harrison and son. The cow produced 2,040 pounds of milk and 85.1 pounds of butterfat.

The high herd honors were won by the herd of Marvin Perkins with an average production of 1,285.1 pounds of milk and 44.1 pounds of butterfat. Second honors went to the herd owned by R. L. Harrison and Son which produced an average of 993.1 pounds of milk and 39.9 pounds of butterfat. The next three ranking herds were owned by E. H. Vosbough, M. H. Middleton and W. M. McNair and Son.

Of the ten high cows four were owned by Marvin Perkins, two by R. L. Harrison and Son, and one each by M. H. Middleton, W. H. Elmore, Ben Middleton and Son and the Ravenworth Farm.

Owners of the cows producing 50 or more pounds of butterfat are listed as follows: Marvin Perkins, eight; Ben Middleton and Son, six; R. L. Harrison and Son and A. S. Harrison and Son, five each; W. M. McNair and Son, four; W. H. Middleton, E. H. Vosbough and Crippen and Riely, three each; H. O. Peck, G. M. James, F. V. Huddleson, J. B. Cornelius and Ravenworth Farm, two each, and F. E. Peck, Allen Beadly and W. H. Elmore, one each.

The Fairfax County Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson stated yesterday that on Monday he will submit the plans for the construction of the proposed Franconia School to the contractors for bids. These bids will be returnable to his office at Fairfax within ten days from that date. The structure is to be of one story brick containing four classrooms and an auditorium. One of the new features of the building will be the inclusion of wiring so that radio speakers can be installed in each of the classrooms connected with a radio receiver in the principal's office. The building is to be modern in every way. The plans were prepared by the office of State School Architect Raymond V. Long, at Richmond.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors has approved the application of citizens of Providence Magisterial District to establish as a county road Chestnut street from the Alexandria-Leesburg pike to Shreve road at Antrim Station. A 40-foot right of way 1,464 feet long was accepted on the recommendation of County Engineer F. N. Larkin.

A delegation from Lee District consisting of Senator Joseph Bristow, M. D. Hall, A. Staub and R. E. Marshall appealed to the board to establish a county road from Burke to connect with the Braddock road one-half mile from the junction with the Rolling road. This road, it was stated, would shorten the distance between Burke and Annandale about six miles. The question was referred to the county engineer for report.

A petition was also received from the residents of Wellington Villa asking that Wellington lane from the new Mount Vernon boulevard to the Fort Hunt road and the Washington-Richmond highway be taken into the county system. This was referred to Engineer Larkin for investigation and report. The question of changing the route of Beattie road between Columbia pike, the Lincolnia road and the Lee-Jackson highway was postponed until the next meeting of the board.

The Sewing Circle of the Pioneer Grange of Masonville will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. W. Thomas, at Annandale.

At a recent election of officers of the junior auxiliary of St. Timothy's Episcopal Church at Herndon, Miss Betty Lucas was named president; Miss Roberta Anderson, vice president; Jean Humme, secretary, and Mrs. Alexander Galt, treasurer. The diocesan State scholarship to St. Margaret's School, at Tappahannock, Va., awarded to the outstanding auxiliary worker, was given to Miss Betty Lucas. Miss Sara Jane Hutchison will attend the school for the summer session as a delegate from the local Sunday school.

The members of Fairfax Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, are planning to attend the encampment in Washington, beginning today and continuing over the week-end, of the Woodmen Foresters from sixteen States.

The last of a series of community flower and garden shows held by the home demonstration clubs of Fairfax County under the direction of Miss Sarah E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, will be held today. This morning at 10 o'clock the first show will be held by the Navy Club at the home of Mrs. Charles Embrey. The second will be held at 1 o'clock by the Floris Club at the Floris Schoolhouse. The next show will be at 3 o'clock, in the Grange Hall at Forestville, and at 8 o'clock in the evening the club at Andrew Chapel will hold its show in the Andrew Chapel School.

At each of the shows D. C. Beamer, garden specialist from the State department of agriculture at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, will address the club members on fall and winter gardens and the storage of vegetables for the winter. Blue, red and yellow ribbons will be awarded as prizes in the various classes at the shows. The shows are not restricted to club members and invitations have been extended to the women of each community to exhibit their produce.

Leniency to Car Drivers Promised by New Board

A lenient policy towards automobile drivers will be followed by the newly appointed judicial board in the matter of suspending and revoking permits, it was said yesterday, as the authority was formally transferred from the hands of M. O. Eldridge, of the department of vehicles and traffic.

Suspensions, rather than revocations, will be the rule in most cases unless the offense is too serious to warrant such leniency. The board comprises three assistant corporation counsels assigned to Police Court; Stanley DeNeale, Edward M. Welliver and Raymond Sparks.

DESK USED IN PACT WITH MEXICO GIVEN

Historic Relic to Be Shown at Monticello Fourth of July Celebration.

Charlottesville, Va., July 2 (A.P.).—The original desk on which was signed the treaty of peace between the United States and Mexico will be placed on permanent exhibition at the Fourth of July Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation reception at Monticello Saturday afternoon.

The reception will be in honor of William Richard Castle, jr., acting Secretary of State; Dr. William C. Dodd, of the University of Chicago; the Monroe Centennial Memorial Commission, and the officers of the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs, who will be here to participate in both the observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the death of James Monroe, and the Institute of Public Affairs.

Among those who will participate in the reception program are Stuart G. Gibboney, president of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation, who will preside; Mrs Rose Gouverneur Hoes, representing the Monroe family; Gov. Pollard, Dean Charles G. Maphis, chairman of the Monroe Centennial Commission, and Miss Fanny M. Burke, of Alexandria, great-great-granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson, who donated the desk to Monticello on behalf of the Nation. Acting Secretary Castle will accept the gift to Monticello on behalf of the Nation.

The desk still contains the original quill pen with which the treaty was signed, and the original draft of the letter written to James Buchanan, then Secretary of State, by Nicholas P. Trist, who was then special agent for the United States, explaining the conditions under which the treaty was signed.

Mr. Trist was private secretary to Mr. Jefferson for a time, and married Virginia Randolph, Jefferson's granddaughter. The desk, pen and manuscript descended to Miss Burke, who is donating the relics through the Monticello restoration committee to the foundation.

Monroe, who Saturday, will be honored on the 100th anniversary of his death, lived for many years at Ash Lawn here, and was a friend, coworker and neighbor of Jefferson.

Dr. Babcock Expires; Noted Dairy Scientist

Madison, Wis., July 2 (A. P.).—Dr. Stephen, Moulton Babcock, world-famous dairy scientist, died at his home some time during the night. He was 88 years old.

Dr. Babcock's body was found lying on the floor of his sitting room this morning by Mrs. E. L. Eaton, a neighbor, and Dr. E. B. Hart, University of Wisconsin professor. A physician pronounced him dead, saying he apparently had toppled from the chair in which he was sitting after suffering a heart attack.

BAPTIST ASSEMBLY TO ADJOURN TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 2.—Four units of the Maryland Baptist Assembly, Maryland-District of Columbia pastors' conference, training school for Sunday school workers, study course for Baptist Young People's workers and the Women's Missionary Union study course and convention, in session at Braddock Heights for four days, will adjourn tomorrow. The enrollment of delegates aggregated 570.

The final unit, Maryland-District of Columbia Bible Class conference, will convene Saturday for two days.

Dr. W. J. McGothlin, president of the Southern Baptist convention and president of Furman University, Greenville, S. C., speaking on "The Reformation," said three causes led to this important event in the religious history of the world. The first was use of the Bible; second, publication of literature, and third, preaching.

Shallow preaching, he said, is one of the menaces the church has to face at present. He added that there is great need for better and more real preaching from the pulpit.

Dr. McGothlin spoke at the morning assembly on "Early Christians at Work." He was followed by Dr. W. Hersey Davis, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., who took for his subject "The Antagonism of Formalism."

This evening a musical recital was given under direction of Floyd Sherman, of Jersey City, N. J. Tomorrow evening Mrs. J. M. Dawson, lecturer of Waco, Tex., will speak. Dr. E. W. Sikes, president of Clemson College, will make the concluding address Saturday evening on "Our Presidents."

About 150 delegates visited the grave and monument of Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star-Spangled Banner," in Mount Olivet Cemetery, and other places of interest about the city.

EPISCOPAL SESSION HOLDS SONG SERVICE

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 2.—The Right Rev. Robert E. L. Strider, Bishop of West Virginia, was in charge of song services on the steps of Coblentz Hall this evening on the fourth day of the sixth annual Blue Mountain conference of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Hood College.

Following the service a general meeting was held in the chapel, addressed by the Rev. S. M. Shoemaker, jr., who spoke on "Capturing This Generation for Christ."

Two hundred and thirty delegates, the largest number since the conference convened last Friday, were registered today. More than one hundred are expected tomorrow, when a special conference for laymen will begin under the leadership of the Rev. Chauncey E. Snowden, rector of Memorial Church of St. Paul, Philadelphia, and continue two days.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held with an evening service in the chapel. A special conference for clergymen, under the leadership of the Rev. F. R. Barry, St. Mary's, Oxford, England, and the Rev. F. W. Fitts, rector of St. John's Church, Roxbury, Mass., will adjourn tomorrow. Instruction groups were held morning and afternoon. The laymen's conference will be for men taking an active part in the work of the church.

The Rev. Robert S. Chalmers will speak on the general convention of 1931, at a meeting tomorrow night. Plans are being made for a debate between teams selected from the delegates Tuesday night. A conference for church organization workers, including women's auxiliary, led by Mrs. William L. Haines; Girls Friendly Society, Miss Florence L. Newbold, executive secretary of the National Girls Friendly Organization; religious education, Miss Helen M. O'Neill; Daughters of the King, Miss Lillian J. Sopher; Church Mission of Help, Miss Mary S. Brisley, executive secretary of National Council of the Church Mission of Help, and Altar Guild, Miss Margaret E. Evans, was held this afternoon on the campus.

SPANISH MOB FIRES CORUNA MONASTERY

the situation as under control and did not call out troops garrisoned near the city.

The monastery which was fired is named in honor of San Josce de la Montana. The devout write secret letters to the saint each month. These remain unopened and at the end of the month are burned at the foot of his statue in the monastery grounds. The faithful say their secret petitions always are granted.

The authorities said tonight's mob was led by an anarchist whose name is Roque. Last May while anti-Catholic riots were taking place elsewhere no churches in Coruna were burned.

Last May there was a series of anti-Catholic riots in half a dozen important cities, during which churches and convents and monasteries were burned, several persons were killed and a considerable number injured.

The trouble was attributed to a pastoral letter issued by Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain, calling upon the people to vote for assembly candidates who would protect and defend the interests of the Catholic Church.

The cardinal left the country, returning after a conference with Pope Pius at Vatican City.

Subsequently he was deported by the government and is now in France.

A preliminary draft of the new Spanish constitution, which will be submitted to the cabinet and then to the national assembly elected last Sunday, would establish among other things religious freedom for all creeds and would abolish a state religion.

DETECTIVE BUREAU DUTIES REALIGNED

Cox to Direct Assignments, Fowler to Start Crime Laboratory.

In a realignment of duties at the Detective Bureau under Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, Lieut. Clement Cox is scheduled to be relieved of desk duty and placed in charge of general assignments, with detective sergeants reporting their progress of investigations directly to him.

In addition to this, Lieut. John S. Fowler has been directed by Maj. Henry G. Pratt to assemble a scientific crime detection laboratory. Lieut. Fowler has been given a room in headquarters which will be used as the laboratory.

Succeeded by Mansfield.

Lieut Cox is scheduled to begin his new duties next week. He will be relieved at desk duty by Lieut. Richard Mansfield.

Under Inspector William S. Shelby's rule at the Detective Bureau, men reported the results of their investigation directly to him. Lieut. Cox is to have charge of assigning complaints to the detectives, and keeping in contact with the result of their work. He will report to Inspector Burke and Capt. Edward J. Kelly, assistant chief of detectives.

Flaherty's Work Recognized.

Detective Sergeant John A. Flaherty will remain as chief of the homicide squad. It was roiginally planned to have Lieut. Fowler to take charge of the squad. In view of the excellent record of Sergt. Flaherty, it was decided to have him remain in charge.

When Lieut. Fowler has completed the establishment of the laboratory, if the work does not occupy the major portion of his time, it is expected that he will be placed in the homicide squad in an administrative position.

In the laboratory Lieut. Fowler plans to have full equipment for ballistics identification work as well as a storeroom for dangerous weapons and facilities in for scientific detection of clews in all cases.

State Vacations Urged.

Phoenix, Ariz., July 2 (U.P.).—The importance of vacation money was officially resognized here this summer when Gov. George W. P. Hunt issued a proclamation asking all Arizonans to spend their vacations in Arizona, thereby "keeping as much money as possible in circulation at a time when economic conditions demand consideration on the part of all citizens."

New York's Welcome Thrills Fliers' Wives

Mrs. Post, "Housekeeper, That's All," Was Sure of Trip's Success.

By MRS. WILEY POST.
(Copyright, 1931, the Associated Press.)

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—Broadway gave me my biggest thrill.

It has all been nice. I've had a wonderful time, but I think that ride up Broadway—well, I'll never forget it!

I have had hardly a moment alone with Wiley, so I don't know how he felt about it. We were in separate cars today. I talked to him quite a bit last night, but he was too tired to answer some of my questions.

Dreamed About Flight.

Perhaps he's too tired to know yet just how he feels. We're all about all in, I guess. When people ask me how I feel about New York's reception I just say, "It's awfully nice, but I'm so tired."

When Wiley started out I'm sure he had no idea it would end like this. He expected to make it, but he wasn't thinking about the end of it—the big reception and all that. I'm sure it didn't enter his head. I know I didn't dream it would be like this.

He dreamed about this trip, and dreamed about it, just like he thought a long time about flying before he took it up.

He was a parachute jumper before he learned to fly. He used to walk about on the wings and do jumps, and in that way he got to know a great many flying people and he wanted to become a flyer himself.

Has Not Objected to Flying.

We talked it all over. That was before we were married.

I went for my first airplane ride with Wiley on his first solo flight. It was an hour and a half after he learned to fly that he flew solo. I was stilly enough to go up with him. At least, in view of what I know now, I realize I was silly. That was in Maysville, Okla., when I was 17. It was six weeks before we were married.

I have known Wiley since I was a small girl. I knew his mother, too. She lives in Maysville now. She is going to be awfully proud of him.

When Wiley told me he wanted to make this flight around the world we had a very sensible talk. I never objected to his going on. I have never once objected to any flying he wanted to do.

Husband Is Home Body.

When he isn't flying Wiley is a man who likes to stay home. He doesn't care for parties or going out.

I never want to be a flier. No, not even like Anne Morrow Lindbergh. I keep house, that's all.

Tonight, after Mrs. Gatty and I have seen all the people who want to interview us—and it seems like there never will be an end to them—we are going to see a show.

I don't know what Wiley's plans are. I really haven't had a chance to talk with him, you see. But I hope he can get some rest. He needs it.

We all do, I guess.

It's Gorgeous, Mrs. Gatty Says, of World Flight and Reception.

By MRS. HAROLD GATTY.
(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—If I had at my command all the words Shakespeare used I couldn't describe my sensations during my husband's flight and this wonderful reception New York has given us.

Not being a poet, but just a housewife, all wrapped up in the welfare of my kiddies and husband, I'll just say it has been wonderful, thrilling, georgeous.

I always knew Harold and Mr. Post would do it. They are a combination nothing can beat, not even the weather, which is just about the worst menace a flier can face.

Thinks of Children's Pride.

All through this exciting day, with ticker tape flying about us everywhere, music, speeches, and shouting crowds, I've been saying to myself how proud our three children are going to be of their father when they fully realize what it is all about.

Alan, who is the oldest, is only 5, but I think he understands a lot about what this means already. Lindsay and Ronald are 3 and 2, so they don't know what a wonderful thing it is to fly around the world, but they will some day. And I guess they'll probably be aviators when they grow up.

Out in California, where the children are now, they sensed something important was happening, even Ronald would run out of the house every time he heard an airplane, point upward with his little hand and say:

"Airplane. Daddy, Daddy."

Was Sure of Success.

I was in California during the first part of the flight, and I didn't get frightened at all. I just told everybody our boys would make it.

I'm disappointed that I didn't get to New York in time to see them land at Roosevelt Field, but I'm also glad, in a sense, that they got here first, because if they had been delayed that would mean the record wouldn't be as low as it is.

I traveled part of the way across the continent by airplane, but we ran into some pretty terrible storms, and we finally were forced down and I had to make the rest of the trip by train.

Both Laughed With Joy.

When the train arrived I just hurried off to the hotel to kiss Harold. I don't remember what he said, but I know we both laughed with joy. He didn't look at all tired. I feel tired, because I haven't slept a whole lot during these last few days, although I wasn't afraid.

I haven't any immediate plans except to go to the theater tonight with Mrs. Post, Elinor Smith and some other people. After that, I don't know. That will have to wait until Harold and I can have a proper talk.

I'd like to be back home July 9 for Harold's birthday. But if I don't get there in time, maybe we can have his party later.

League of Ocean Fliers Proposed

Group to Plot Safest Air Line Over Atlantic Is Urged by Hoiriis.

Copenhagen, July 2 (A.P.).—A league of transatlantic fliers, headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, to plot the safest air line between Europe and America, was proposed today by Capt. Holger Hoiriis, pilot of the airplane Liberty.

He said in an interview in the newspaper Dagens Hyheder that he believed the southern route across the Atlantic via Bermuda and the Azores, supplemented with seadromes, was superior to all others. The route via Greenland is impracticable because of heavy mists and intense cold, in his opinion.

Capt. Hoiriis, who followed the steamship lanes on his flight, said an organization of men who had made the journey could map out the best route and considered Col. Lindbergh as the logical man for president.

had become 'Winnie Must.' And then when you landed back at Roosevelt Field last night we knew that the name was 'Winnie Did.'"

He presented each with medals significant of the esteem in which the city held them.

Air Notables Pay Tribute.

Leaving City Hall, they were again beseiged by photographers and then put aboard their automobile for the ride to their hotel.

Traffic was at a standstill on Fifth avenue as the string of cars passed between curbs filled with shouting thousands and windows from which other thousands peered.

Back at the Ritz, they were ushered in through a side door for the luncheon given by Mayor Walker. Among those to pay them tribute there were Col. Lindbergh, Bernt Balchen, William Brock, Clarence Chamberlin and James Fitzmaurice, all of whom have aided in the writing of aviation's history by transatlantic flights.

POST-GATTY RECORD ALREADY IS MENACED

Pangborn and Herndon and French Team Will Try to Lower It.

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—In the world-squeezing work that Magellan began and gave his life for more than 400 years ago, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty have reduced the circumference of the world, in terms of time, to 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes, but their record is also threatened and may fall within the month.

Post and Gatty went around the world far faster than any man in history, faster even than any fictional character of man's imagining, but already new aspirants have entered the lists in man's never-ending warfare on time and space.

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon are at Roosevelt Field awaiting good weather. They hope to fly around the world in six days. Another pair of flyers, at Le Bourget, Paris, revealed their hope of starting around the globe "in another 24 hours." This sudden announcement came from Joseph Lebrix, former partner of Dieudonne Coste, and Martin Doret. Both are famed French birdmen.

The French fliers said they hoped to lower the Post-Gatty time and would fly "toward Tokyo."

The Pangborn-Herndon Bellance is a slower ship than the Wannie Mae, Post and Gatty's Lockheed, but it has a much greater cruising range. It is equipped to travel 5,500 miles without a halt, and on that fact the newest aspirants for world speed pin their hopes.

Beaten Air Service Official Arrested

Man Clubbed by Policemen at Post and Gatty Affair Held at Hospital.

Mineola, L. I., July 2 (U.P.).—Edward Connerton, vice-president of Air Services, Inc., severely beaten by policemen at Roosevelt Field last night during the reception given Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, was placed under arest in the Nassau Couty hospital today on a charge of disordrely conduct.

The complaint against Connerton, who is five feet three inches tall, was signed by Policeman Herbert Neitlich, who stands six feet three inches and claims Connerton attacked him at the field.

According to Connerton's version, he had just driven up to the press booth at the field with some cameras and movie films when an officer told him he could not stop his car there.

Connerton tried to explain that since his firm holds property at the field he was entitled to be there, he said, but an officer jumped on the running board of his car and shut off the switch. He pushed the policeman off the car, according to his version, whereupon several officers dragged him out of the car, clubbed him to the ground and then jumped on him.

German Air Chief Lauds Post, Gatty

Says Aviators Throughout World Admire Feat of Americans.

"Aviators throughout the entire world deeply appreciate and admire the Post-Gatty feat," he declared.

"It is as significant as the Lindbergh and the Koehl-Fitzmaurice-Huenefeld achievements. When we got a brief glimpse of Post and Gatty here we realized that they were going at the task in the right spirit." The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine said the flight showed a "marvelous exhibition of individual power of strength and spirit."

British Air Secretary Congratulates Airmen

London, July 2 (A.P.).—Lord Amulree, air secretary, today sent the following telegram to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in New York:

"On behalf of the Air Council I send hearty congratulations on your magnificent flight."

HOOVERS WILL LEAD WORLD FLIERS' FETE

Will Give Luncheon to Party; Board of Trade Planning Banquet for 800.

The most thrilling reception the National Capital has staged since Lindbergh came here after his flight to Paris is in store Monday for Wiley Post and Harold Gatty—two men who by now need no introduction.

Feteing of the world fliers will be led by President and Mrs. Hoover with a luncheon at the White House for the fliers and their wives and F. C. Hall, sponsor of the flight. The party will fly here in the Winnie Mae—the monoplane that threw its shadow around the earth in less than nine days.

A delegation from the Washington Board of Trade will greet the fliers and their wives at Washington Airport Monday morning and escort them to the White House. George Offutt, president of the Board, will head the delegation.

The Board of Trade and the National Aeronautic Association will tender a banquet to the air heroes at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the Willard Hotel. Six thousand invitations have been sent out for the banquet, but attendance will be limited to 800. Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautic Association, will be toastmaster.

Will Recommend High Honor.

Senator Bingham announced last night that he would recommend Post and Gatty to the board of governors of the association for honorary membership. This, Senator Bingham said, is the highest honor that can be given the fliers. No decoration can be bestowed by the Government, as Federal recognition is limited to fliers who are members of the Army, Navy or National Guard, the senator explained.

Only five living men are honorary members of the National Aeronautic Association. They are Orville Wright, Thomas A. Edison, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Dr. Hugo Eckener.

Afternoon festivities for the fliers will be featured by a reception at 4 o'clock at the National Press Club. President Hoover is expected to attend either the reception in the afternoon or the one at night. The afternoon reception promises to be so large that Constitution Hall may be obtained for the function.

Speakers at the banquet will include Mr. Offutt, Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, and William P. MacCracken, of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. The fliers also will be called on to speak.

Diplomats to Be Present.

Honor guests will include the ambassadors and ministers and air attaches of the embassies and legations of the countries over which the fliers passed; David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics; Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Charles L. Lawrence, designer of the air-cooled aviation engine and president of the Aeronautic Chamber of Commerce; Luther K. Bell, general manager of the Aeronautic Chamber of Commerce; Amelia Earhart Putnam, vice president of the National Aeronautic Association and one of the famous women fliers of the world; Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former Army chief of staff; Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics; Theodore Joslin, secretary to President Hoover; Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Assistant Postmaster General in Charge of Air Mail Walter Irving Glover, and Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Events Will Be Broadcast.

The designers of the plane and the engine used by Post and Gatty, together with other world fliers will also be invited. The speeches and other events at the banquet will be broadcast over two Nation-wide systems.

All the work of preparing for the banquet is being handled by the Washington Board of Trade. The central offices of the organization were a beehive of activity yesterday with a corps of young lady workers under the direction of Executive Secretary Robert J. Cottrell sending out invitations and receiving answers.

The Board of Trade was host at a banquet to the French fliers, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte after their epochal flight from Europe to this country in September, 1930.

Paris Press Hails "Fantastic" Flight

Paris, July 2 (A.P.).—Parisian editors reached for new superlatives today in commenting on the flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty around the world.

"The decision, energy, determination and mastery with which Post and Gatty conducted their flight," said Ami du Peuple, "has aroused the admiration of the entire world, stupified to have seen two young men progress from day to day with such lightning rapidity and admirable regularity along the line they had traced."

"The famous record is due to the experience, courage and resolution of the team which accomplished this marvelous exploit," said Le Matin.

"We bow down before this fantastic performance which seems to belong yet to the kingdom of dreams," said Auto, leading sports daily.

Fliers to Japan to Get Soviet Permit.

Moscow, July 2 (A.P.).—The Soviet government announced today that permission had been granted the American fliers, R. L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, to fly across Soviet territory on their projected nonstop hop from Seattle to Tokyo by way of Alaska.

Lindbergh's Reception Was 67 Tons Heavier

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—The reception New York gave to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty today wasn't so big as the one for Col. Lindbergh—not by 67 tons.

When street cleaners got through sweeping up ticker tape, confetti and torn newspapers that showered on the globe-girdlers they found it weighed only a little more than 3 tons. For Lindbergh there was 70 tons, but since that time the popularity of paper snowstorms has declined with each new welcome.

MISSIONARIES SILENT ON LIBERIAN OUTRAGES

MISSIONARIES KEEP SILENCE ON LIBERIA

least one prominent missionary might have protested effectively to the world against the evils easily observed in the black republic.

There is no use asking where they have been, for they have been right there in the midst of what elsewhere they are hot to denounce as sin and iniquity. Representatives of the very Protestant sects who in the United States are four-square behind the Antisaloon League and the Lord's Day Alliance actually seek in Liberia to smooth over and apalogize for the acts of the Americo-Liberian ruling class.

"Pooh-Pooh" Conditions.

When I spoke to a venerable bishop of a powerful church about the terrible sanitary conditions in Monrovia, where the new sanitary officer from the Gold Coast actually had raked together 1,000 motor truck loads of trash, tins and bottles in a town of 6,000 people, he pooh-poohed the whole matter and went on to compare conditions today with those 40 years before when he had first come out to the country.

Back in the hinterland near the French border I was telling the missionary with whom I was dining what I had discovered about the huge quantities of rice, palm oil, chickens and cattle exacted from the natives by Liberian officials. He immediately launched into a half-hearted defense of the government men, after advising me that he had been stationed there for ten years.

During my stay in Liberia, I can remember but two missionaries out of the large number I met who did not sound like Americo-Liberians when discussing the aborigines. They were eager to tell how shifty were the chiefs and how watchful they had to be to keep the natives from taking advantage of them. Some of them expressed regret that the evils disclosed by the international commission were in existence, but I met none who was full of Christian zeal to do anything about it. "Our hands are tied," they would say. "What can we do about it?" Then they would tell of their work in bringing Jesus to the savages.

Missionaries Callous.

Missionaries of the Lord sent out to the wilds of Africa to Christianize the so-called benighted native struck me as being singularly callous and indifferent about the fate of the aborigine. They are eager for his soul, but apparently not interested in his body. At least, they have never been sufficiently concerned to protest to the world his enslavement and mistreatment. It is significant that the reports of conditions in Liberia had to be communicated to the outside world, not by these disciples of Christ, but by individuals having no connection with the church.

It is these missionaries who have been in charge of Liberian education for the past three-quarters of a century. Today, the various denominations support some 60 mission schools and stations with a total annual budget of a half million dollars, all coming from the United States. With the exception of five or six small stations in the interior, all of these schools are inside the 40-mile strip which marks so-called civilized territory and they serve principally Americo-Liberians and the few thousand civilized natives. Primary and grammar school courses and some sort of industrial training are given, but most attention is naturally paid to molding good, Christian character.

Schools Limited.

Since the number of Liberian public schools does not exceed ten, which number includes Liberia College, a glorified high school graduating mainly lawyers and receiving $8,000 annually from the government, it is no exaggeration to say that Liberian education is missionary education. The foreign churches are supporting such prominent secondary schools as Monrovia College, the College of West Africa, Muhlenberg Academy, Brierly Memorial School, Cape Palmas Seminary, Cuttington College and St. John's Academic and Industrial School.

Thus, whatever be the character and training of the Americo-Liberians, the missionaries are largely responsible. After 70 years of this excessively Christian education, which begins and ends the day with hymn singing and long prayers, we find products of the system to be the most shiftless, untrustworthy, incompetent and grafting ruling class to be found today anywhere. With some exceptions they display an amazing lack of industry, originality and ingenuity except in the fields of intrigue, evasion, sponging, double-dealing, excessive litigation and exploitation of natives, but are very adept at annoying and interfering with foreign businesses eager to assist in the development of the country.

Incidents Cited.

The following incidents illustrate the point: The wife of an important official of the Firestone Co. asked a group of Liberian boys to stop throwing stones on her veranda. They continued until she grew frantic. Then one of them ran up on the veranda and made faces at her. "Just push me," he yelled, knowing that it is an offense to lay one's hand on another in Liberia. "I wish you would push me. I want to get some of Firestone's money, too!"

The Firestone Co. built an excellent garage and machine shop in Monrovia for the care and repair of passenger automobiles and trucks. It filled a great need as there was no other of its kind in the republic. Liberians and foreigners began to patronize it regularly. Soon the company had to close it down because not a single Americo-Liberian would pay his garage bill. The garage is still closed.

President Barclay, I was told, purchased a limousine from the United States Trading Co. and hadn't paid the first cent on it when I was there. Another high government official wanted to purchase an automobile from the same company, but having no ready money he suggested that he allocate to the company his salary for the months of July, August and September as part payment. Wary, the company officials made a private investigation, and discovered that the applicant had already drawn his July salary. Confronted with this information, the Liberian blandly apologized, saying it was an oversight on his part.

Nobody with sound mind thinks of loaning a Liberian money, for a creditor is subject to all sorts of abuse if and when he insists upon payment. The Liberians are extremely sensitive about being told to pay up. When dunned, they usually reply, "You have plenty of money, why do you bother me about that little debt?"

Former Vice President Allen R. Yancey, one of the chief slave traders reported by the international commission and now living peacefully on his large estate at Cape Palmas, had a unique and characteristic method of paying his debts. Having no desire to pay a sum of $800 owed another Liberian, he detailed one of his numerous minions to get his creditor's account book and throw it into the sea. When the creditor came to collect his money, Yancey boomed, "If you can show me where I owe you anything on your books, I'll gladly pay it." The vice president thus became a public benefactor, since his act automatically freed all of his victim's other debtors from the burden of payment.

Just a week or two before I arrived in Monrovia, the large iron safe in the office of John Loomis, the American, financial adviser to the republic, was stolen. It had been erroneously supposed by certain persons that documents of great importance reposed therein. The police, as usual, were completely at sea. As a last resort, the office clerks decided to call in a witch doctor and see if African magic could succeed where police methods had failed.

Devil Man Gets Busy.

Having received a liberal "dash," the devil man got out his paraphernalia, shook his rattles and gri gri bags, uttered weird cries and squeals and danced about the room. Finally he dived out of the office window and raced down the street followed by an excited crowd of clerks and pedestrians. Suddenly he stopped before a pretentious Liberian residence and, pointing dramatically to it, shouted, "There!" and would go no farther. It was the home of Hon. Edwin Barclay, president of the Republic of Liberia. Great as was the resulting merriment, this is not to say that President Barclay committed or was accused of the theft.

The numerous missionary schools and the millions of dollars dumped into Liberian education by naive church people in the United States have failed to develop Liberian leaders capable of creating a self-supporting state. There are politicians in the republic a-plenty, but no statesmen. They are past masters at levying taxes, fining the unfortunate and raiding the villages of obstreperous aborigines, but missionary education has not taught them to improve the state of agriculture, transportation or commerce, which would in turn have increased the revenues for which they pine.

Figures Speak.

So Liberia today suffers financially as the following official figures conclusively show:

Cal. Year	Imports	Exports	Excess Imports
1924	1,433,184	1,416,896	16,288
1925	2,115,021	1,911,053	203,967
1926	2,251,597	1,757,521	494,075
1927	2,896,081	1,614,671	1,281,410
1928	4,464,546	1,465,768	3,018,778
1929	2,064,439	1,475,356	589,083

*Eight months.

In explanation, it may be pointed out that the jump in imports from 1925 on was due largely to the Firestone Co. bringing in supplies and the expenditure of loan money abroad by Liberian officials who purchased expensive automobiles and had generally a big time as long as the money lasted.

A balance is established by what the financial adviser calls the "invisibles." They are:

(a) Money sent into the country by foreign mission boards.

(b) Expenditures for maintenance and development of the Firestone plantations.

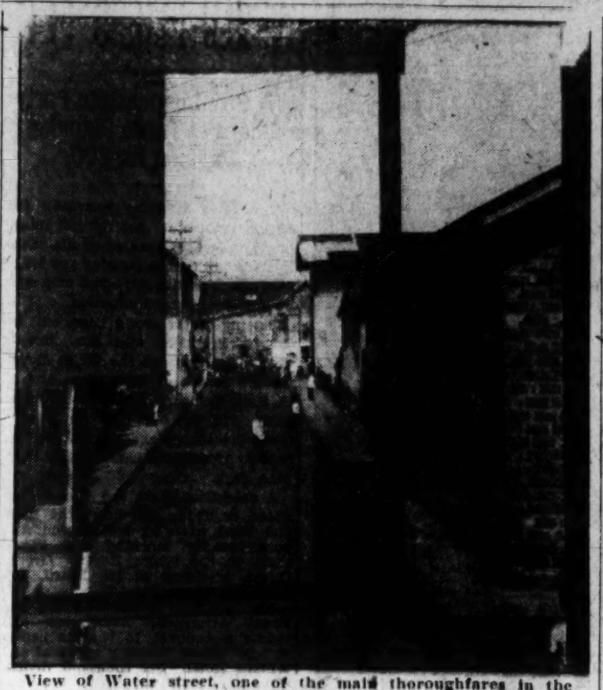
(c) Money brought into the country by the Kru stevedores and deckhands.

(d) Exchange charges of the Firestone bank for transfer of funds to and from Liberia.

(e) Sale of "boys" to Fernando Po.

Graft Methods Increase.

As the missionary money has been cut by the depression and the growing suspicion at home that little progress is being made in Liberia; as the Firestone expenditures grow slimmer and slimmer with the progress of the development; as more and more the wary Kru stevedores take up residence in Freetown, Accra and Lagos to escape plucking by Liberian officials, and as the scrutiny of the outside world has curtailed the Fernando Poo "boy" racket, the necessity for getting funds by grafting, other shady methods and fining grows more imperative.



View of Water street, one of the main thoroughfares in the Liberian capital.

While I was in Liberia a black clerk in the Firestone Bank, who is paid 2 pounds 10 shillings a month salary, was fined exactly 2 pounds 10 shillings for whistling at night in the lanes of Kru town. Shortly afterward another clerk was fined a similar amount, likewise his entire salary, for flashing an electric torch from his window down on two Liberians. Both offenses were called disturbing the peace.

A prior classic case was that of the white motorist who ran over and killed a female dog about to become a mother. The magistrate fined the luckless foreigner 2 pounds for killing the dog and 12 shillings for each of the six puppies she might have had. Since the canine had given birth to two puppies at her first confinement and four at her second, the court felt it was reasonable to suppose she would have given birth to six puppies the third time, and he levied his fine accordingly.

Cuts Government Receipts.

Grafting of the missionary-trained Liberian officials prevents the government from getting much revenue due it. For example, some of the Liberian Consuls in Europe and the United States send in practically no fees at all and the Secretaries of State and Treasury do not compel them to do so. One-half of such fees are supposed to be sent to the government if the officer is not on salary; if he is being paid, he is supposed to send all of them. Although the Liberian government's share of these fees in 1928 was $14,000, the the treasury received but $1,500.

There is no regular assessment of property in the civilized towns, although the natives are taxed regularly. Monrovia hasn't had a general property assessment for fifteen years. Both Great Britain and Germany have suspended postal money order service with Liberia because of failure to get money due them. Almost $10,000 is due the British Postoffice.

With money growing increasingly scarce and no loan in sight, it is hardly to be wondered that the Liberians are now squeezing the natives so tightly. Many officials are forced to do strange things to make ends meet. One of them, a customs official in a small port, boarded a steamer just anchored off the reef and storming up to the captain charged that some regulation had been violated and threatened to fine the company $350.

"Come, come, now," cajoled the skipper. "Can't we compromise this matter?"

Comedy of Customs.

After a momentary reflection the Liberian agreed that it was within the realm of possibility. After considerable dickering the wily Britisher mentioned casually that he had some excellent hams in his cold room. With no great reluctance the customs officer decided to accept the hams in lieu of the $350. At this point the chief customs officer clambered aboard and glanced suspiciously over to where the two men were conversing in low tones. The minor official's manner immediately changed.

"Are you trying to bribe me?" he shouted in the astonished captain's face. "You can't bribe me, sir! I'll fine you 1,000 pounds!"

Surprised, flushed and angry, the skipper was seeking words to reply when the newcomer turned on his heel and walked down the deck. When he was out of earshot, the minor official muttered in a low tone, "All right, captain, I'll take those hams now."

TOLL OF HEAT WAVE IN WEST TOPS 1,100

Torrid Spell Moves East, but May Be Broken Up by Storms.

(Associated Press.)

The heat wave that scorched the Middle West for more than a week moved eastward yesterday into the Appalachian region.

Western Pennsylvania, western New York and parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky felt the scourge of a pitiless sun as the Central States grew comfortable again under clouded skies and occasional showers. It was still hot in most of the Southwest.

Thunderstorm conditions moving down the Atlantic Seaboard gave some relief and threatened to break up the heat wave before it reached the coast.

"It will be hotter in the East," said Government Forecaster W. P. Day, at Chicago, "but not nearly so hot as it was here."

Thermometers in the Middle West that had held monotonously to 90 and 100 degree readings for a week fell down to 70 and 80 yesterday and the sun-baked populace considered it cool.

Death Total Passes 1,100.

There were enough heat deaths, however, to bring the total to more than 1,100. Forty-four died in Chicago, many of them stricken on previous days; Cleveland added five more; St. Louis, where the official temperature Wednesday was 104, reported ten. Additional persons unable to stand the prolonged hot spell succumbed at scattered points throughout the stricken area.

The general forecast issued by the United States Weather Bureau said mostly fair weather with moderate temperatures was indicated for last night and today in the North Central States, preceded by local showers over portions of the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions.

Relief Slow in Southwest.

"Cooler weather has overspread the upper Mississippi and middle Missouri Valleys," read the summary of weather conditions, "but warm weather still prevails over the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region.

"There have been showers from Lake Superior southwestward over the lower Missouri Valley and southern plains. Elsewhere the weather has been mostly fair."

Relief was slow in coming to the Southwest. Showers cooled off parts of northern Oklahoma but most of the State was still hot. Rains and cloudy weather ended a two weeks' dry scorching spell in Missouri and Kansas. Precipitation was as much as 3½ inches, recorded at Glen Elder, Kans. One to two inches in northeast Kansas was considered especially beneficial to the corn crop. Rain brought some relief to west Texas but other sections of the State continued to swelter.

Skulsky Arranges Bond in Rum Case

"Philadelphia Jake" Posts $3,000 on Conspiracy Charge.

Jacob Skulsky, indicted for conspiring to violate the national prohibition law, appeared before Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday, entered a plea of not guilty and posted a $3,000 bond through William P. Ryan for his release.

Skulsky, known as "Philadelphia Jake," was indicted as a member of the ring some members of which were recently found guilty of conspiring to violate the national prohibition law. At the time the others were tried he was under the jurisdiction of a United States commissioner in Philadelphia, and efforts of James R. Kirkland, assistant United States attorney, to get him here for trial were unavailing.

Skulsky and others who were not tried in the first trial will not be brought before the court until next fall.

Attack Is Pressed On Wheat Policy

Republican Leaders Hit Selling of Grain; Ask Further Modification.

(Associated Press.)

Pressure was renewed upon the Farm Board yesterday for further limitation of its sales of stabilization wheat holdings. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, urged Chairman Stone to keep the surplus entirely out of the market for four months.

The board, at the request of President Hoover, earlier this week modified its policy of selling the wheat as the market permits by announcing not more than 5,000,000 bushels would be sold monthly, making a total of 60,000,000 bushels during the present fiscal year.

Meanwhile, the new pronouncement of the board was opposed by three Republicans. Senator Borah, in Boise, Idaho, described the policy as "unfortunate" and proposed holding the wheat until the price reached $1.25. He said it was "ruinous to hold this surplus like a Damocles sword over the wheat market."

the Farm Board. I simply said I believed it had made a mistake and that I could not understand where the members got the information which induced them to take the course they did."

He reiterated he would have no announcement to make concerning his candidacy until "next winter."

He said a statement by the Farm Board that its wheat holdings would not be sold under 85 cents a bushel would mean "millions of dollars to the farmers."

E. Haldeman-Julius, book publisher of Girard, announced today he would run next year as "a third party candidate" for the Senate, and said, "I feel Curtis will be my opponent."

Senator George McGill, of Wichita, Democrat, is expected to be a candidate for reelection. He has been outspoken in his criticism of the Farm Board's handling of the wheat problem.

intention of standing by her husband through his difficulties. He "had been spending all the money he could get" on Elsie, she said.

Detective Sergt. Robert E. Barrett was told by witnesses that the girl had returned to Owens the registration card of his automobile on Saturday, saying she "was through with him."

Owens is said to have told the girl that he had $2,500 in a tin box which he would give to her if she would marry him. On several occasions in the past few weeks, police say, the man had offered her money.

When he appeared at the girls' home yesterday he asked Mrs. Campbell whether he could see her sister. He went to the girl's room and asked her to drive him to Colonial Beach. The girl refused, saying Owens was "too old for her."

Owens then asked for a farewell kiss, which was also refused. Then he opened fire.

On the way to the Fourth Precinct Wilmer said to Owens:

"That's the last person you will ever shoot."

"'You don't know. I may get you," Owens is said to have replied.

JOB DRIVE PLANNED BY DISTRICT GROUP

Midsummer Campaign to Begin July 20; Report Made on Situation.

Plans for a midsummer job campaign were announced yesterday by George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary of the District Committee on Employment, to open on July 20 and to continue until August 15.

"The committee feels that unless some such job campaign is undertaken, many persons now unemployed will be unable to get any work during the summer and will face the coming winter with debts and with even less confidence than at the approach of last winter," he said.

A $20 gold piece will be presented by Mr. Adams personally to the person who submits the best slogan for the drive. All contributions must be in hands of the employment committee, which has headquarters in room 24, District Building, before July 20. Slogan writers should have the Washington bicentennial celebration in mind when writing contributions, Mr. Adams added.

Simultaneously a detailed report of expenditures of the committee from November 20, 1930, when it was organized, to May 31 last, was issued. Eighty-four per cent of the $12,493.76 expenditures was listed as pay roll.

A total of 314 men were given 21,398 hours of work, the report stated. The minimum daily wage (paid in only three instances), was $2.50, and the maximum (paid in one instance) was $6.66. The average daily wage was $3.96. A standard 8-hour day and 6-day week were followed.

During the spring clean-up drive the committee procured jobs for 391 persons and created a demand for many more through its publicity, the report adds. It also distributed $7,787.50 in gifts to the Federal-District, the Junior League, and the Y. M. C. A. employment bureaus.

U. S. Council Certifies New Standard Brooms

Erwin Richard, of Red Hill, Pa., president of the Broom Institute, yesterday presented to assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein the first broom certified by the National Standards Council as complying with the institute's new standard specifications.

Twenty-four brooms made by institute members were officially labeled with the National Standards Council's certification seal at the presentation. Representatives of the Bureau of Home Economics, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the Census Bureau, the Tariff Commission, the National Standards Council and the American Economics Association were present.

Navy Captain Wins Commendation.

(Associated Press.)

Capt. Edward J. Marquart, of Valparaiso, Ind., commanding the light cruiser Louisville, was commended yesterday by Secretary Adams for the "splendid manner" in which he directed the rescue of passengers from the steamship Harvard, which ran aground near Point Arguello, southern California, May 30.

Lake Cargo Rate Fight Is Reopened

19-Year-Old Controversy Being Fought Over Before Commerce Heads.

(Associated Press.)

Northern and Southern coal operators and carriers resumed before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday a 19-year-old controversy over rate differentials in lake cargo shipments.

Both sides in presenting arguments to the commission for and against an increase in the 35 per cent per ton rate advantage held by the Pennsylvania and Ohio companies on rail transportation of bituminous coal to the Great Lakes for shipment to the Northwest said that upon the commission's decision rests the future of the dwindling industry in their respective fields.

The case is an outgrowth of a compromise agreement among Southern carriers in 1928 to provide a reduction in a 45-cent differential between the two fields as ordered by the commission the year before.

They said also the Northern roads had other commodities to haul besides coal and were not as greatly dependent upon its transportation.

RELIEF FOR TAXPAYERS.

Termination of the fiscal year makes it possible to do a little stock-taking on the United States' financial status. Every one has known that the Government would end the year in financial straits. Now that the worst is known the administration can tighten up its belt and prepare for the future.

In view of the abnormal conditions which prevailed during the last year the status of the Treasury is by no means discouraging. Receipts amounted to $861,000,000 less than for the previous year; expenditures totaled $226,000,000 more. Congress made available large sums for relief of farmers and war veterans and for building to aid the unemployed, in spite of the fact that income taxes and customs duties underwent a drastic slump. The surprising thing is that the deficit is not more than $903,000,000.

It would be inaccurate to say, in the language of the street, that the Government "went in the hole" by that amount. Even though the Government did not have sufficient funds to meet its expenditures $440,000,000 was paid on the public debt in accordance with law. Hence, the actual net increase in the national debt was only $463,000,000. Moreover, the balance in the general fund was $153,000,000 larger than it was a year ago.

These figures are especially important to the public, because they form the basis on which arguments will be made for and against higher taxes. Under ordinary circumstances it is necessary for the Government to live within its means, and when that becomes impossible higher taxes or new sources of revenue are the only alternatives. It is recognized, however, that the slump in revenue will probably be temporary, and that higher levies upon incomes would have an adverse effect upon business recovery. The most propitious policy might be rigid economy in Government expenditures and maintenance of the existing tax rates even though that course should result in another deficit a year from now.

Payments on the public debt this year ought to be suspended. If President Hoover's proposed intergovernmental debt moratorium becomes effective, taxpayers of this country will sacrifice about $250,000,000 for the rehabilitation of Germany. It is not to be supposed that the administration would favor higher taxes for the purpose of reducing America's national debt while promoting a debt holiday in the rest of the world. Congress may not find it advisable to change the statutory requirements of the sinking fund. But the Treasury can borrow money for the sinking fund at extremely low interest and repay it when the national revenue has returned to normal.

Having reduced the national debt by nearly $1,000,000,000 per year for ten years, the Government can well afford to allow taxpayers a moratorium during these hard times. Last year's addition to the debt is small in comparison with the enormous surpluses that have been poured into the debt retirement fund in the last decade. The surplus from one prosperous year might completely eliminate last year's addition to the debt. At any rate the status of the Treasury is not desperate. There is no occasion for pushing new tax measures through until the outcome of this distressing economic period has been determined, and then there will probably be no need for higher levies.

ONLY ONE HINDENBURG.

The President of the German Republic has reached his eighty-first year and his countrymen are beginning to talk of a successor. It is not that they want to replace him, for he is the idol of the nation, but the talk of the last few weeks shows they are looking ahead. This "Grand Old Man of Germany" still looks as robust and solid as ever, but the news reels show him seeking a banister or the arm of an aid as he descends a long flight of steps. It is perhaps in such ways only that he reveals his age.

Mentally Hindenburg is the same. He has never been a brilliant man. His claim to importance lies elsewhere. Like his father and grandfather, Paul von Hindenburg was a soldier by profession. He was commissioned at the age of 18 and served in wars against Austria and France, being regularly advanced until he became a general in 1905. He retired from the army in 1911.

When the Great War broke out he was summoned by the emperor and immediately resumed active service against the Russians. Hardly had he taken command when the victory of Tannenberg was won. Though the plans and execution were due to his subordinate generals, who had planned the campaign before the arrival of Hindenburg, the glory went to the commander. A burst of enthusiasm spread over the country and Hindenburg became the man of the hour. Legends and praise surrounded the figure of the somewhat embarrassed general and he became the national hero.

During the German revolution, when many prominent personages fled, Hindenburg remained and offered his services to the new republic. It is this steadfast devotion to duty and plain reliability that have made him a good public servant and a capable general. Hindenburg, the hero, means much more to the German people than does Hindenburg, the statesman. Nevertheless, he is the rudder in the perilous voyage of the German ship of state. To find a similar candidate for the office he holds will be difficult, indeed.

WHY POST AND GATTY WON.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty are being duly acclaimed for having set a wonderful record of flight around the top of the world in less than nine days. It may be said that a combination of flying skill, expert navigation, good weather and good luck made it possible. But that is not all of the story. They were successful largely for the same reason that Admiral Byrd flew over the South Pole on the one day in a whole year that it could have been done. It is no secret that success in both instances was made possible by thorough preparation and adequate financial backing.

Post and Gatty have marked another important milestone in the advance of aviation. As a science and as an industry aviation has reached the point where it needed just such a demonstration of the possibilities of flying 15,000 miles without a change of men or machine. This remarkable feat will give confidence to passengers, encouragement to builders and inspiration to engineers. Flying has come to stay and the measure of its growth during the next decade is just beginning to be foreseen and appreciated.

Without the least disparagement of this pioneering flight, timely warning should be given numerous ambitious emulators who will appear in the enthusiasm of the moment and attempt new records. Post and Gatty dreamed of their flight for years; they spent months in tests and in making plans; their modest backer, F. C. Hall, furnished probably $100,000 to make their dreams come true That is what preparedness means.

Let no inexperienced fliers, however brave and venturesome, believe that they can mount any plane and hop out over the ocean to new conquests of time and space without the chances of disaster being much greater than hopes of success. An occasional sensational flying feat is an aid to the progress of aviation; the sacrifice of amateurs unprepared for such risks, whether they seek glory or gain, can only retard the development of transportation by air.

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.

The University of Virginia at picturesque Charlottesville is host to the Institute of Public Affairs for its fifth session. This conference differs from the Williamstown Institute in that its deliberations are largely devoted to questions of local, State and national government, while the discussions of its New England prototype generally concern foreign problems.

Discussions center about nine principal round table groups, some of which broaden the scope of the conference by considering such subjects as adult education, child welfare, federation of women's clubs and public personnel administration. Various diplomatic representatives of Central and South American countries will go from Washington to particpate in the discussion of Latin-American relations and affairs. The 100th anniversary of the death of James Monroe will be commemorated in a special program on Independence Day, at which Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr., will speak on aspects of the Monroe Doctrine.

Already there have been warm sessions at Charlottesville over the prohibition question. Former Senator James W. Wadsworth, jr., of New York, delivered an address in his usual vigorous style in opposition to the eighteenth amendment. "The plain truth," he declared, "is that national prohibition is a failure. It has failed to establish total abstinence as the generally prevailing rule of conduct, but it has brought upon us evils greater than those from which escape was intended. It is a fundamental error in the structure of our Government. We have had trouble ever since we put it in our Constitution and will not escape from this trouble until we take it out completely."

The president of the national W. C. T. U., Mrs. Ella A. Boole, defended prohibition "as the result of 150 years of experiment in various ways to regulate the liquor traffic." It has been found impossible, she said, to bring about temperance by moral suasion.

So the merry controversy goes on. The historic halls of the University of Virginia ring with eloquence and learned debate. Politicians, educators, diplomats, business men and propagandists let off all the histrionic steam that they have accumulated during the year. Pent-up souls relieved of their burdens will return to their routine work after a fortnight of fulminations and the world will proceed much as before.

It is unfortunate that the country does not have more institutions like those at Charlottesville and Williamstown. Every State needs one. Think of how much time could be saved in Congress and the State Legislatures if politicians and the inventors of political ideas were given opportunity to unburden their souls in public forums.

Of course, the people are too busy with their own affairs to give much attention to the wisdom that flows from such gatherings. But perhaps that would not seriously impair their usefulness.

COMBATING EPIDEMICS.

During the last year there have been a number of studies presented on the advance of the South. It has been pointed out in this connection that malaria, pellagra and other diseases prevalent in many of the Southern States have had an enervating effect on a large part of the population. This has had a marked influence in retarding the economic development of various sections. A steady improvement is noticeable in most of the States, however, with better health conditions resulting in the amelioration of living conditions as well.

The commendable strides made in disease control in Louisiana is pointed out by the president of the board of health of that State, Dr. J. A. O'Hara. Typhoid fever, which was once a scourge of the State, has been reduced to a minimum through the supervision and improvement of water supplies. Only in areas where drought has caused unusual conditions has the disease not been brought under control.

The board of health has also done valuable work in the sanitation of oyster and shrimp plants. It maintains a special laboratory boat which is used for inspection of the waters in the producing areas as well as for the instruction and information of the packers. Not only has this supervision improved the quality of the products, but it has resulted in expansion of the industry.

The relatively few deaths from malaria in the last year show this dread sickness to be vanishing. In some of the great swamp territories that breed the infected mosquito carriers it has been impossible to obtain complete drainage, but through education of the people and screening of houses the number of victims has been steadily reduced. As the program for proper drainage and sanitation proceeds Dr. O'Hara expects malaria to be entirely eliminated.

Immunizations is part of the program of health in Louisiana. Free biologicals are furnished on request to those unable to pay for them. Free antityphoid vaccine is provided at the request of a physician and other biologicals are supplied at cost. The fine progress in health conditions testifies to the effectiveness of its program.

One of the remarkable things about the round-the-world flight is the way in which Wiley Post was able to write a "personal" account of what happened in addition to flying an average of about 2,000 miles per day.

MISLEADING COMPARISONS

From the New York Herald Tribune.

It is to be sincerely regretted that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in a speech in the House of Commons should have undertaken to show that Great Britain, in the language of the Associated Press, "is the only world power which has reduced its naval and military expenditures in recent years, while the United States, France, Italy and Japan were increasing theirs." Such statements are not only misleading, but also provoke invidious comparisons at a crucial moment in international relations. If, as reported, his statements were based on the so-called "budgetary" method of computation in vogue at Geneva, we have one more reason for not wishing to see that system applied to the United States.

For few things are easier than to make our modest defense establishment look large by measuring it in dollars and cents instead of in men, guns and tons. Our soldiers and sailors are better paid, better fed and better clothed than those abroad, and the material they use, be it ships or ordnance, is manufactured by laborers who in turn have a higher standard of living than their European counterparts. If Mr. MacDonald says, therefore, that the United States has not reduced its military or naval expenditures it does not follow that we have not reduced our Army and Navy. For example, the United States, as a result of the Washington conference, scrapped 17 old ships, totaling 267,740 tons, and 13 ships in construction, totaling 552,800 tons, whereas Great Britain scrapped only 24 old ships, totaling about 500,000 tons. The administration, morever, has reduced the personnel of the Navy by about 4,000 men and is contemplating a cut in the strength of the Marine Corps.

It is, therefore, clear that we have reduced in quite generous measure. Moreover, we have reduced in spite of the fact that we are by no means up to the British standard of quantity either from the military or the naval standpoint. Mr. MacDonald failed to mention that the United States Navy at the first of the year was about 13 per cent below the British strength and that it will probably be 20 per cent below at the beginning of next year. In view of the fact that parity with Great Britain is our settled policy and that Mr. MacDonald himself urged us to take parity "heaped up and flowing over," one may ask whether he expects us to achieve it by scrapping rather than by building.

Where the Army is concerned, no mention appears in the reports of Mr. MacDonald's speech that our active Army and reserves represent about 994 soldiers per billion dollars of national wealth, whereas the land forces of the British Empire represent the impressive total of more than 5,000 soldiers per billion dollars to be defended. If the United States is made to appear militaristic by the Geneva budgetary method, a glance at the figures by way of an American budgetary system is more reassuring. Such a glance reveals the United States with the surprisingly low figure of seven-fiftieths of 1 per cent of its national wealth devoted to defense, whereas the British Empire on the same basis devotes twenty-fiftieths—or nearly three times as much—to this end.

Comparisons such as those Mr. MacDonald attempts not only tend to create bad feeling, but are impossible to make with any hope of true accuracy. The business man who has tried to compare the performance of separate companies knows that the task can not be done properly unless the methods of accounting are precisely the same. Clearly our Federal system of accounting can have no exact counterpart abroad. Mr. MacDonald's comparison is unfortunate in still another way. After indicating that no reductions could be expected from Great Britain at the Geneva conference next February, he went on to express sympathy with the unwillingness of France to reduce her military establishment. If neither Great Britain nor France is in a position to reduce, the question presents itself as to who will and as to what nation Mr. MacDonald has in mind.

This is no time for trick figures. On the well-established basis of soldiers and sailors and guns and tons, the United States is way below parity on the naval side and one-half the strength laid down in the national defense act where the Army is concerned.

Man Doesn't Live by Bread Alone in an Age of Gasoline.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A RECENT magazine article written by a world traveler endeavors to prove that the automobile is a foolish extravagance and an instrument of evil to corrupt the poor.

While in America the traveler lives in a village of 53 households, which he offers as a typical and horrible example.

There are 52 automobiles in the village, used chiefly for trivial errands to a near-by city, and because the people spend their money for gasoline and care only for cars, the village has in the last ten years sent only eleven youngsters to high school and one to business college.

I think the traveler's village is not typical. I also live in a village, though its households outnumber his three to one. And here, also, almost everybody owns a car of some kind.

But though the people are poor, and few of those who work for wages or salaries get as much as $100 a month, there were twenty-seven of the village girls and twenty-two of the boys in college this year and the high school graduates an average of fifteen every year.

If the automobile affects education at all, it gives the youngsters a glimpse of the outside world and quickens their ambition to "be somebody."

The cheap automobile must answer for much.

It kills many people who might survive if only the rich had cars.

It is an aid to crime.

It consumes money that might be spent more wisely for books, homes and dental work.

But who has a right to tell the poor how they shall spend the little they have, and what right have the rich not shared by the poor?

Every publication you open berates the farmer for owning a car. Why shouldn't he own one? Has he less right than others to enjoy the good things of this world?

If a poor family had rather own a car than a home, whose business is it? If people can get more happiness out of life by owning a car and paying rent than they can by owning a home, in the name of common sense let them buy a car.

There is a joy and a feeling of care-free independence in cruising the highways in one's private vehicle that nothing else can afford.

Let the poor share it if they can.

Life is more than a dutiful business of "getting ahead." It is a brief period in which to enjoy the privilege of living. If a beggar can enjoy a rose more than a sandwich, let him have the rose.

A Bear by the Tail.
Minneapolis Journal.

President Hoover's request that the Federal Farm Board adopt and announce a definite and not-to-be changed policy for the handling of its wheat surplus found the board in a plight much like that of the man who grabbed the bear by the tail. Whether it holds on or lets go, it is in for trouble.

As Congressman Andresen, of Minnesota, said the other day, the mere existence of the board's hoard of more than two hundred million bushels of wheat is depressing current prices. But the sale of the board's wheat, either in a much to be feared sudden dumping or by the dribble method which the board has seemed to favor, would also adversely affect prices.

So, no matter what the board does about its wheat, the farmer with his 1931 crop to sell is damaged by the fact of the board's having stabilized the market for the 1930 crop, unless the board, in desperation, goes back into the price pegging business. Whether this year's losses through the price depression forced by the weight of Government holdings more than offset last year's gains achieved through the price peg, must remain, of course, a matter of conjecture. Nobody may say for certain just what wheat would be selling for today, outside the shadow of the two hundred million bushel cloud.

France Casts the Die.
Atlanta Constitution.

The delay in reaching an accord with France upon the terms of the Hoover moratorium plan was predicted by The Constitution when it was first released from the White House.

It may well be that President Hoover, acquainted as he is with French, temperament and customs, expected the hesitation and therefore is relying upon the timely visits of Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson among the financial authorities of England and Europe.

Certain it is that the quickening pulses of finance and business factors in those countries show how non-official sentiment banks hope upon the plan for a general economic revival during the year when intergovernmental debt payments are suspended.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Americans Who Go Abroad Are Urged Not to Disgrace Their Country by Taking Licenses They Would Shun at Home.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter of William T. Ellis, of Swarthmore, Pa., in your issue of July 1, deserves to be deliberately read by every American citizen. It rings true to genuine Americanism in all our history.

At the same time, it is exceedingly regrettable that so many Americans misrepresent true Americanism when they go abroad. This applies both to tourists and those who go for the transaction of business. Too many people take license and misbehave when they go away from home thus leaving an unfavorable impression of the country where they live.

In this connection it is gratifying to note the improvement of the public spirit in a year's time. When the President launched the movement last year for relief of drought sufferers and the unemployed there was an immediate favorable response, but the air was soon filled with the jangling voices of partisan devilry. We are facing the proposed moratorium for relief of Germany in a far more harmonious mood. This indicates that we have learned and grown in personality. More learning and growth will help us all.

Correspondent Lauds Character of Veteran Doorkeeper Who Knew How to Smile.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: So "Old Mac," the doorman of the National Press Club, is dead. The world is the loser when death takes a smile out of it.

It was my privilege a long time ago in the old Press Club to be served breakfast by "Old Mac" nearly every morning.

A smile went with that breakfast without any extra cost, and it certainly was my fault if I couldn't start the day right.

"Old Mac" also had a pleasant word for everybody, and he liked nothing better than to be allowed to dispense a little of his "cyrology" on the method of living and why.

He liked very much to quote from the Bible. Once or twice I asked him for the chapter and verse, and he had that as readily as the quotation. I know that he did because once or twice I checked him up.

This Negro had seen much history made here in Washington and had seen a good deal of the people who helped to make it, but despite such an atmosphere, he always wore a smile that made him famous, along with a gracious manner which made him beloved to so many.

Yes, sir, when you take a smile out of the world, the world is the loser.

Philadelphian Praises Hoover War Debt Moratorium, But Thinks Recovery Depends Upon Individual Effort.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If a referendum proves anything, the response to President Hoover's proposal to suspend war-debt payments for a year is the most popular thing the world has seen since the war started and we all went into it. Now we know the cause of our financial troubles. It is war debts and not prohibition, as a few fanatics would have us believe. But unfortunately we think more of our friends, the enemy, than we do of the some 2,000 home-buyers that are to be sold out as the next month opens. Why not a moratorium for them?

Joking aside, what we will do with the year is the real thing that matters. Will we celebrate it by going on another "boom and bust" and find ourselves worse off than ever, because delaying a debt does not pay it? Or will we start right now to demand some action that will both remedy our condition and prevent such future ones? You guess.

BALLAD OF CREDIT.

Young Betty Green once longed to be
A wife instead of maiden,
With charms the men delight to see
She knew herself well laden.

But millionaires were far and few Between, as goes the saying,
And all the men that Betty knew
Had debts they were not paying.

There came a man to Betty's door
Who wore a ragged collar,
Said he: "Though I am very poor,
I do not owe a dollar.

"No bill collectors bother me
At morn, at noon or sundown;
From galling debt I'm wholly free,
That's why my shoes are run down.

"Be mine, be mine, Miss Betty Green;
I'll cease to play the rover."
A debtless man she's never seen,
Said she: "I'll think it over."

She called on merchants far and near.
The day was bright and sunny;
They said: "When he comes buying here
He has to bring the money."

And every tradesman that she met
With vigorous language cussed him
And cried: "That bird is out of debt
Because no one will trust him."

She said: "I thought to owe was bad,
But I was then a dumb thing;
Today I've learned and I am glad
That debts are proof of something.

"They've put a notion in my head."
And this is how she said it:
"The man that I shall choose to wed

HOUSE OF COMMONS FIST BATTLE SCENE

Uproar Ensues as Speaker Has Member Carried From His Seat.

London, July 2 (A.P.).—A rough-and-tumble fight, unprecedented for more than a quarter of a century, took place today in the staid old House of Commons, mother of parliaments, when Left Wing Laborites resisted the suspension of one of their members.

Later, after order was restored, the government escaped defeat by only 5 votes on an amendment to the Snowden land-tax bill, which would have exempted garden cities and garden suburbs from the tax. Several Liberals voted against the government.

When the melee was at its height, with fists flying and members kicking, wrestling and tearing clothes and hair, the Speaker was forced to adjourn the session because of the general disorder. This was the first time this action has been taken since the great battles of Irish Nationalist days.

The trouble was ended after the offending member—J. McGovern, of Shettleston, Glasgow, who had defied the Speaker, was removed bodily from his seat and ejected.

After a twenty-minute recess the Speaker reconvened the House and pronounced suspension of McGovern for the remainder of the session.

Throughout most of the fight, which was between half a dozen Left Wing Laborites and attendants, the Conservative members sat aghast and thunderstruck. Finally their shouts were added to the confusion. From one of these benches one member shouted:

"Wring his neck!"

When peace was restored, one of McGovern's stanch defenders, George Buchanan, a fellow Glasgower, was weeping. Others had their clothes and collars in tatters, with eyes blackened and hair awry.

The disturbance arose over the preaching of the gospel on Glasgow Green. McGovern asked if the secretary of state for Scotland was prepared to investigate the arrest of four lay preachers for a breach of the city law forbidding meetings on the green.

Dissatisfied with the secretary's reply that he would investigate, McGovern remained on his feet despite shouts of "order" from the Conservatives. Prime Minister MacDonald then moved the suspension of the member and was upheld by a vote of 315 to 16.

Still McGovern refused to leave and the speaker said:

"I must ask the sergeant-at-arms to remove the honorable member."

A large attendant took McGovern's feet and another his head and started toward the door.

"Be a man," someone shouted from the Labor benches and McGovern's friends charged to the rescue. In an instant the house was in an uproar and the free-for-all was on.

A half an hour later the house was back to discussion of land taxes, as though nothing had occurred.

Arms Stand Part Of Church Policy

Methodist Episcopal Board Will Forward Program to Geneva Parley.

Lake Junulaska, N. C., July 2 (A.P.).—The Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South today decided to include a positive declaration on disarmament in its platform of policy and principles which will be the basis of activities for the coming year.

The policy will contain sections on prohibition, peace, racial and industrial relations, a spokesman for the board said. Bishop James Cannon, jr., is chairman of the group.

An outline of the board's position on disarmament will be sent to the world conference on disarmament at Geneva. The board's full position will not be announced until the platform of policies is completed.

Dog Survives Plunge Over Falls at Niagara

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 2 (A.P.).—A police dog went over Niagara Falls today and lived to bark about it.

The dog was playing in the river above the falls, dangerously near the brink. Tourists, fearful for his safety, tied him to a tree. He broke the rope, leaped over a railing and into the river.

The current carried him to the brink and he was swept over.

The dog, which has been named "Lucky" as a result of his adventure, landed in a pool some distance from the rocks below the cataract and swam about for half an hour before Edward Kavanaugh waded into the lower river and pulled him ashore.

Waterpower Gain For World Cited

Hydroelectric Plants Show Doubled Output During Last Decade.

(Associated Press)

The world's undeveloped electrical water power was said yesterday by the Geological Survey to have been doubled in the last ten years.

Estimates showed that from a developed horsepower of 23,000,000 in 1920, hydroelectric plants on the five continents had reached a horsepower of 46,000,000 by the end of 1930.

Although separate figures of gain were not given, the survey said Europe had slightly exceeded the increase shown by North America during the past four years.

The total developed water power, however, was contrasted with an available potential almost ten times as great. The survey gave 447,000,000 as the world's possible total.

MACDONALD PRAISES AMERICA AND HOOVER

there was no difference in the imperious nature of the cause, no difference in our common determination to lay our heads together to find a solution, and we are grateful that in the latter stages of those deliberations your President was good enough to send Mr. Hugh Gibson to Rome and Paris to help us.

"So far as we are concerned, we want to gather with you the same laurels of moral conquest in the future, and our only rivalry is to be the first in gathering them."

Mr. MacDonald spoke earlier in the evening than he had expected to so that he might attend a session of the House of Commons.

Roy Atherton, American charge d'affaires in London, presided at the dinner, and Senator Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia, was one of the speakers. Albert Halstead proposed a toast to the chairman and Amos C. Dean a toast to the guests. Ishbel MacDonald, the ambassadors from Spain and Portugal, Lord and Lady Jellicoe, and the Viscount and Viscountess Astor were among the 350 who attended.

FRENCH NAVY PLANS BATTLESHIP REVIVAL

Senate Paves Way as Reply to New German "Vest-Pocket" Warship.

Paris, July 2 (AP.).—New life was given tonight to the French government's proposal to build a battleship immediately as a reply to Germany's new "vest-pocket" cruiser Deutschland.

By a vote of 165 to 131 the Senate approved Naval Minister Dumont's plea for the right to introduce as soon as possible a bill for laying down a battleship of the line. This type of vessel was abandoned by France after the war.

The Chamber of Deputies had previously approved the 1931 naval building program but had voted to defer laying down the battleship until the project had received further consideration.

Long debate preceded the vote by which the Senate today took an opposite stand. During that debate it was made clear that the building of the battleship was "designed as a reply to the construction of the Deutschland."

Calls Treaty Violated.

Minister Dumont said the sole reason for such a battleship was Germany's new construction program which, he charged, surpassed the limits prescribed by the Versailles treaty.

German plans call for a navy 25 per cent greater than the treaty permits, the minister declared.

"This is not a parry that we are organizing, but a parade," he said.

"Germany has annexed to her 1931 budget a replacement program comprising 8 battleships, 8 cruisers, 25 torpedo boats and 25 destroyers."

M. Dumont told the Senate that the method by which Germany has "twisted the Versailles treaty" should be uncovered. He said that a second Deutschland will shortly be built by Germany and remarked that English experts, in limiting German cruisers to 10,000 tons, believed they were restricting the German navy to coastwise vessels. The Deutschland is a 10,000-toner.

U. S. and Britain Criticized

"Peace must be preserved," he said, "but we must not permit those who could be the adversaries of peace to be tempted by recourse to violence. French armaments must not remain disorganized."

Henry de Jouvenel suggested that a building program would put France into an armaments race, and asked what would become of the Franco-Italian naval accord.

"I am working with all my heart for the Franco-Italian accord," said M. Dumont.

Senator Jean Beaumont demanded to know why the United States and Great Britain have not notified Germany that she was compromising the limitations policy, and "why didn't the United States give her the necessary warning when she was notifying America of her misery?"

Siamese Royalty Guests On Roy Howard's Yacht

Glen Cove, Long Island, July 2 (A.P.).—King Prajadhipok of Siam and his queen, with other members of the royal party, made an unheralded visit to the New York Yacht Club here today. They came here aboard the yacht Jalmarong as guests of Roy W. Howard, of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

The king and his entourage boarded the boat at the American Yacht Club pier at Rye Beach shortly before noon. They proceeded from here by motor to the Creek Club at Locust Valley, where they were luncheon guests of Henry P. Davidson, jr.

COAL MINE PARLEY CALLED BY LAMONT

(Associated Press.)

A meeting of bituminous coal mine operators was called yesterday by Secretary Lamont for July 9 in an effort to find a basis for conferences on conditions in the industry.

The Secretary wrote about 25 of the leading operators asking them to meet here. The call grew out of a letter from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, asking President Hoover to assemble a conference for consideration of the industry's problems.

The President replied last Monday that the "administration is desirous of lending every possible assistance to any constructive program put forward by operators and miners."

He then turned the subject over to Secretaries Doak, of the Labor Department, and Lamont, of the Commerce Department. Lamont's letters followed as the first step. Should a considerable group of the operators be unable to attend, the meeting may be postponed to a later date.

The coal industry has for several years been in a condition which labor leaders and operators have declared serious. Recently there have been serious labor troubles, especially in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky. Conciliators of the Labor Department have been settling strikes. Secretary Doak said yesterday, "at the rate of one a day."

"But," he added, "that doesn't solve the other problems of the industry."

Reports to the President's emergency employment committee have been that conditions in some of the coal fields have been critical for many months due to inability of operators to supply enough work to provide a living for their miners.

Investigators for the committee reported several months ago that in many places charity funds were being used to provide food for men who had been out of work for months.

RECIPES OF POST ON VACATION TRAIL

Housewives Depending on Tasty Dishes Described in Contest.

The Saturday Food Page of The Washington Post is following its readers on the vacation trail. Housewives who have learned to depend on this page for tempting and novel recipes with which to enrich the diet of their households are asking that The Washington Post be sent to them at their temporary addresses at seashore, in the mountains and at their country homes.

In a letter received yesterday from Mrs. Leon R. Wood, of 2518 Seventeenth street northwest, a constant contributor to this page, this opinion is set forth. Mrs Wood wrote:

"Just a line to let you know how much I have enjoyed the special Saturday Food Page in The Washington Post every week. I am sending in two recipes this week, as it will be my last chance to contribute to the page. We leave for Massachusetts this next Saturday, where we will spend a month. We will have The Post sent on to us, as we all enjoy the paper so much.

"I was so pleased with the interesting and attractive little book that I received as a prize for a recipe of mine published in The Post."

It is such appreciative letters as this which makes the work of editing this page such a delight. Our prize recipes this week are of special interest to housewives and utilize many of the foodstuffs advertised on the Saturday Food Page.

HOME-MADE STEW.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

2 cups cooked cold meat (diced)
1-3 package Mueller's macaroni (cooked)
1 can tomato soup
1 cup water
½ pound bacon
1 small onion
¼ green pepper (chopped)
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper

Cook the bacon till crisp; remove it from the pan, add the sliced onion and brown, remove the onion, if preferred. Combine the diced meat, macaroni, tomato soup, water and green pepper with the bacon fat. Add Worcestershire sauce and seasonings and simmer for 15 minutes. Just before serving break up the crisp bacon over the stew.

WALNUT COFFEE CAKE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
½ cup strong black Wilkins coffee
1¾ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup black walnut meat and 3 egg whites beaten and added last.

Bake in loaf in slow oven.

MRS. R. DEANE SHURE.
8 Pine avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

FLAKY PUFFS.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

Add one cup boiling water to one tablespoon of butter. When the butter is melted mix in one cup of Washington self-rising flour, slowly beating all the while with a fork until smooth and away from the sides of the pan. Take from fire and drop in three eggs, one at a time, whipping rapidly. Set aside until cold, then fry in deep lard or Crisco, allowing fifteen minutes for each three or four puffs. Drain on brown paper on the oven door.

Lemon Sauce.

Strain juice of 1½ lemons and add to it one cup powdered sugar and half a cup boiling water. Pour over puffs when ready to serve.

MRS. HERBERT A. EHRMAN.

MOCHA TART.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

4 eggs
1 tablespoon mocha essence or 2 tablespoons Swing's cold strong coffee
Few grains salt
1 cup sugar
1 cup Washington plain flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

Separate eggs, beat yolks until light, add mocha or coffee, salt and sugar gradually, beating continually; add flour and baking powder sifted together, fold in stiffly beaten whites, mix thoroughly without beating. Spread in two well-buttered layer pans. Bake in slow oven ten or fifteen minutes, starting at 300 degrees F., increasing temperature last half of baking to 375 F. Whip one-half pint of cream, add one-third cup powdered sugar and one tablespoon mocha essence or two tablespoons strong Swing's coffee. Spread between layers and on top of cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Makes two layers in 9-inch pans.

Seat Pleasant, Md.

PEANUT BUTTER TIMBALES.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

2-3 cup Schindler's fresh toasted peanut butter
½ cup Schneider's bread, crumbed and sifted
1½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs, beaten but not separated

Mix all ingredients and bake in timbale moulds for about ½ hour.

Put greased paper on bottom of timbales.

Serve hot with cream sauce.

MRS. ALETTHA S. EVANS, 3208 Jocelyn place northwest, shows The Post's cameraman how she makes Mocha chocolate fudge.

Confection Is Delightful in Porch Parties and Other Fetes.

This week's prize-winning recipe is one that will meet with instant favor these hot summer days. It is a recipe for mocha chocolate fudge, a delightful concoction to serve to friends who drop in for a chat or to give the family while enjoying the breeze on the front porch at night.

Mrs. Aletha S. Evans, 3208 Jocelyn place northwest, is the author of this prize-winning recipe, which entitles her to the $5 first award given each week for the best recipe including some article advertised regularly on The Post food page. Her recipe is as follows:

2 square unsweetened chocolate
1 cup rich milk
2 tablespoons strong coffee
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup Frazier's chopped nuts

1½ cups granulated sugar
1½ cups brown sugar

Put sugar, milk and shaved chocolate into pan. Stir mixture and cook for a few minutes, then add coffee made from Swing's Java and Mocha Brand and continue cooking until it forms a soft ball when tested in cold water.

Take from fire, add butter and flavoring, beat until creamy and add Frazier's nuts if desired. Pour into greased pan. Cool and cut.

HONEY-NUT SANDWICHES.
(Honorable Mention.)

Mix M. B. Frazier's chopped nuts, pecan meats, almonds or walnuts, with just enough L. A. Zirkle's White Clover Honey to act as a binder, and use as a filling between Schneider's new-size Dandee Slices, buttered.

MRS. HELEN LOOMIS.
104 Seventh street southeast.

WASHINGTON PIE.
(Honorable Mention.)

1 cup sugar
1½ cups Self-Rising Washington Flour
1 egg in cup, fill cup with milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Blend ingredients well.

Bake in two Washington pie tins.

Filling—⅔ cup sugar, 1 heaping tablespoon cornstarch, 2 even tablespoons cocoa, ½ cup Asco Evaporated Milk, cold. Mix together, then add 1 cup boiling water. Cook in double boiler until it thickens, then add butter, size of a walnut. Fill when warm between and on top.

MRS. LEON R. WOOD.
2516 Seventeenth street.

APPLE ROLL.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 cups Washington Self-Rising Flour
1 heaping tablespoon Crisco
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups milk

Filling.

4 large apples
1 heaping cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons soft butter
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

To Mix

Put the biscuit mixture after it is mixed on the floured board, "pat" out to one-half inch thickness; spread with the soft butter; next put on the apples which have been cored, and finely chopped (if the skins are fair, leave them on); then the sugar and cinnamon. Roll up like a jelly roll; cut inch-thick slices off; place flat down in a "well buttered" agate piepan; sprinkle a little sugar over the top and make.

Sauce.

Boil 2 cups granulated sugar in 2-3 cup of water 6 minutes; add the strained juice of a whole lemon and a quarter teaspoon of nutmeg; serve everything hot.

MRS. R. A. QUIMBY,
902 Conard Apartments

Dish if Properly Prepared Will Leave Appetite Asking for More.

Left-overs need not be a "complaint" dish if they are properly prepared. You will be convinced of this statement after you have tried this recipe from the National Live Stock and Meat Board—and so will your family.

For one pound cold minced beef allow two ounces raw liver. Melt one tablespoon butter in a saucepan, into this slice an onion and let it cook gently for ten minutes. Then remove the bits of onion with a fork. Now put in the liver, cut in fine pieces. Cook slowly for five minutes, then add enough stock or water to cover. Season with one-half teaspoon mixed spices. Add plenty of salt, but no pepper. Next stir in the minced beef which has been well mixed with a heaping tablespoon of flour. Put the pan over the flame and stir until the hash just boils. Add a little more liquid, if necessary, and cook gently until the hash is warmed through.

This, then, is the hash which is used to make the "meat loaf." Cut the top crust off a new loaf of bread. Scoop out the inside, leaving only a hollow shell. Fill with the hash and put the top crust back. Pour left-over gravy over the loaf until the crust is well soaked. Put in a buttered tin and bake in a quick oven until the crust begins to brown. Slice down through the loaf and serve hot.

ALTERNATE COLD MEALS ADVOCATED

Will Not Keep Family Cook Too Long in Overheated Kitchen.

How to select foods wisely and also serve them in such a manner that they will conserve the health of the family and yet not keep the family cook too long in an overheated kitchen is the problem in many American homes at this season of the year.

The question has been studied by the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture which suggests as a remedy the practice of alternating cold meals with hot meals that will provide cold servings later on.

It is pointed out by the bureau that the delicate flavor of lamb makes it a favorite hot weather meat and its present low cost brings it within reach of all pocketbooks. Breast of lamb can be bought for about 12 cents a pound throughout the country and shoulder averages about 20 cents a pound. Either cut can be stuffed and served cold but the shoulder makes a much more satisfactory cold dish.

Peas Easy to Cook.

New peas or some other fresh vegetable make an easy-to-cook and refreshing vegetable for a hot day. Rice is a pleasant variation from potatoes, but make a gravy from the lamb drippings for many Occidentals do not relish rice unless it is served with sauce or plenty of butter. In low cost meals it is obvious that gravy is more economical than butter. It also carries with it some of the nutriment of the meat. Cook enough rice to serve next day with scalloped tomatoes, cold meat, green lettuce salad, and diced pineapple.

Fresh pineapple is inexpensive just now, costing about 10 cents apiece, which makes it availabe for the low cost meal. Cut it in small pieces and serve it with other fruits in a fruit cup or sliced and eaten alone, with or without sugar, depending on individual taste and the ripeness of the fruit. It makes a good dessert to follow the stuffed shoulder of lamb.

Since our family this week is composed of two adults and one child, a 3-year-old, there will be plenty left over for another meal. The 3-year-old, by the way, may have everything in this dinner, including the pineapple, but in smaller amounts, the bureau's child-feeding expert says.

Egg Salad and Muffins.

The supper of egg salad and muffins will not require any cooking. Make enough muffins at breakfast so there will be some left for toasting or warming over. The eggs should be cooked while the meat is roasting. And while we are on the subject of eggs the bureau warns against overcooking them, which toughens the whites. The bureau prefers the name "hard cooked eggs" to "hard boiled," since it advises simmering, not boiling, for both soft and hard cooked eggs.

The cost of filling this market basket for one week for a family of three averages $4.92 from figures gathered in 13 different cities throughout the country. The average priced store was used for this study rather than a more expensive source. Following are the cities and the prices according to this classification: Chicago, $4.61; New Orleans, $4.61; St. Louis, $4.71; Detroit, $4.80; Dallas, $4.81; Pittsburgh, $4.83; Boston, $4.90; Kansas City, $4.93; Charlotte, $5.01; Philadelphia, $5.09; Atlanta, $5.20; New York, $5.46.

For a family of three, including two adults and one child, should buy every week:

Bread, 10-15 pounds; flour, 1-2 pounds; cereal, 3-4 pounds; whole fresh milk, 9-14 quarts. Or canned evaporated milk, 9-14 tall cans; potatoes, 8-10 pounds; dried beans, peas, peanut butter, 1-2 pounds; tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruit, 4 pounds; other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruits, 12-14 pounds; fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarin, butter, &c., 2 pounds; sugar and molasses, 2½ pounds; lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs, 3-5 pounds; eggs (for child), 3.

Cornmeal Muffins.

2 cups cornmeal
½ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups sour milk
2 eggs
2 tablespoons melted fat

Sift the dry ingredients and add the milk. Add the well-beaten eggs and the fat. Pour into very hot, well-buttered muffin pans. Bake from 25 to 30 minutes in a hot oven (400 to 425 degrees Fahrenheit).

Roast Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb.

Select a shoulder of lamb weighing from 3 to 4 pounds. Have the butcher remove all the bones and the fell. Save the bones for making soup. A lamb shoulder may be stuffed and either left flat or rolled. The flat shoulder is easier to sew up than the rolled, and the pocket holds twice as much stuffing. Either of these completely boned stuffed shoulders can be carved straight through in attractive slices of part meat and part stuffing.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle the inside of the pocket with salt and pepper, pile the hot stuffing in lightly, and sew the edges together. Rub salt, pepper and flour over the outside. If the shoulder has only a very thin covering of fat, lay several strips of bacon over the top. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear for 30 minutes in a hot oven (480 degrees Fahrenheit). If bacon is laid over the roast, shorten the time of searing so as to avoid overbrowning. Reduce the temperature of the oven to 300 degrees Fahrenheit and cook the meat at this temperature until tender. From two and one-half to three hours will be required to cook a medium-sized stuffed shoulder at these oven temperatures. Serve hot, with brown gravy.

Forcemeat Stuffing.

2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter or other fat
¼ cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 sprig parsley, cut fine
⅛ teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon savory seasoning
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt the butter in a skillet, add the celery and onion, and cook for two or three minutes. Add the bread crumbs and seasonings and stir until well mixed.

Flavor of Oysters Easily Dressed Up

To many people the flavor of oysters with very little other "dressing up" is preferred. Panned oysters answer this requirement for simplicity of seasoning. They are very easy to prepare, but they must be served promptly to be enjoyed. You can be generous with the butter, because oysters have relatively little fat of their own, and when they are served on toast the butter will moisten it appetizingly. Directions are from the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture:

¼ cup butter.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.
Toast.

Drain off the liquor from the oysters and look them over carefully for bits of shell. Brown the butter lightly in a heavy skillet, add the oysters and parsley, and cook at moderate heat for about 5 minutes, or until the gills of the oysters begin to curl. Add salt if needed. Serve at once on slices of crisp toast on a hot platter, and sprinkle lightly with paprika.

SOUTH RIVER BRIDGE PLAN BOOSTS BEACH

Woodland Sites May Double in Value as New Span Improves Road.

Good news for those who either own or are planning to own lots at Woodland Beach. The Washington Post's summer home site on South River in Maryland, is the announcement from the Maryland State Roads Commission in Baltimore that work will be started within 60 days on a new $750,000 bridge across South River on the way to the beach.

Erection of this bridge not only will speed up traffic on Maryland State highway No. 2, a portion of which leads to the Woodland Beach site, but is also expected to increase prpoerty values considerably throughout that section.

New Span 50 Feet Higher.

According to announcements from Baltimore the bridge will be almost a duplicate of that across the Severn River at Annapolis. The span will be at least 50 feet higher than the present wooden structure and as a result will eliminate several bad turns in the road.

Woodland Beach, rapidly developing into quite a community of summer home owners, is only a few minutes by automobile from the South River Bridge as it is located on two coves of the river to the east. Excellent paved roads lead to the beach and when the new bridge is constructed the path to it will be perfect.

Persons who invest in Woodland Beach lots now will benefit by the probable increase in value, whereas those who wait and are forced to buy from individual lot owners, may find themselves paying double or more than double what the property is being sold for at the present time.

All Lots One Price, $93.

All lots at Woodland Beach are priced at $93, no more, no less. However, this amount does not have to be paid before making a selection of the site for your future summer cottage. The small sum of $9 plus the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post will enable you to "choose your spot" and begin work at once in erecting your home. After that you may pay $3.50 a month until the balance has been settled.

At this price, lots at Woodland Beach are bargains which ought not be overlooked. If you have not seen this garden spot of Maryland, tomorrow or Sunday will be excellent days in which to do so. There will be a large corps of salesmen on the ground both days to show you around and all cars on the W. B. & A. will be met at Camp Parole with transportation to and from the Beach.

Lecturer Explains Biography Vogue

Dean Notz Says It Means World Yearns for Individuality.

The world is yearning for individuality, in protest against present-day standardization, Dean William Frederick Notz, of Georgetown University, yesterday told his summer class of students at George Washington University.

Dean Notz, one of a group of experts gathered at the university for its summer symposium on world affairs, said the current popular craze for biography is an indication of the new yearning. He told students that the progress of the world today is in the hands of a comparatively small group of national leaders.

The speaker, who has just returned from a tour of Europe, said that England, under any other leader than the present British premier, might have experienced revolution as a result of the current unrest. He commended Briand for his "high idealism," and characterized President Hoover's proposed moratorium as "particularly opportune."

Born Slave, Negro Is Retired, Aged 70

21 Years' Service Marked by Ceremony Held in District Building.

Samuel E. Jones, 70 years old, born a slave, was honored by Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and his colleagues yesterday as he retired from the District service with a record of 21 years as a messenger in Maj. Robb's office.

Not once in the score of years was he late in opening the office, nor was he ever reprimanded by a superior, Jones said after he had been given a purse at a ceremony in the District board room. For six years before entering the District service he was in the Postoffice Department.

A native of Charles County, Md., Jones came to Washington as a boy. He now lives at 1246-A Carrolburg place southwest. Francis Wells, a veteran messenger in the office of Daniel E. Garges, presided at the ceremony.

President Misses Aspiring Aviator

Police Take Youth Off Picket Fence at White House to Gallinger.

An aspiring transatlantic flier, who wanted to get a pilot's license from President Hoover, was arrested early yesterday while perched on top of a picket fence, surrounding the White House, where he was waiting to meet President Hoover.

Carl G. Belton, of Mount Airy, N. C., was unable to get a license from the aviation officials when he told them he had no plane nor had he ever flown in one.

Policeman R. A. Chambliss arrested him and turned him over to Detective Sergts. Howard E. Ogle and Oscar W. Mansfield. He told them he was inspired by the thought of the world flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

His father, he said, is a Baptist minister in Mount Airy. He was committed to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

New Dog Tax System Scrapped; Old Revised

The District Tax Assessor, William P. Richards, yesterday scrapped the new and highly complicated system of distributing dog tax tags after obtaining several thousands of the forms from the Government Printing Office.

Consequently the old system, with less red tape, is to be installed again with some modifications. The printed forms, which were paid for out of District funds, will be thrown into the waste basket and the loss will be charged to experience.

Baltimore Pair Drives To Capital for Wedding

A Baltimore couple, Kenneth S. White, employe of the Bureau of Buildings in Baltimore, and Miss Cesarine Breuilhaud, an instructor in French at Goucher College, were married yesterday by Municipal Court Judge Robert E. Mattingly at his office.

The couple drove to Washington for the service. The bride gave her age as 30, and the bridegroom said he was 29.

Mellow, mild tobaccos that need no parching

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that parching would ruin the flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

Heating to that extent is an emergency measure resorted to only as an attempt to take part of the bite and burn and sting out of harsh, strong tobaccos.

We do everything to bring you Camels in factory-fresh condition, preserving for your enjoyment the natural moisture together with the rich, rare flavor and aroma of those choice tobaccos.

That's why Camel smokers hold so persistently to Camels. They simply can't enjoy the stale, flat smoke from dried-out, moisture-robbed tobacco.

You see, every Camel package is now a humidor that excludes dust and germs and guarantees factory-fresh Camels to every smoker.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. After you have discovered how mild, how cool they are to your throat, then leave them for stale hot smokes—if you can.

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one.

Mrs. Borah Goes Soon to Idaho Home

Senator Takes House in Boise; to Travel Over State.

MRS. WILLIAM E. BORAH will close her apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue about July 15 and will go to Idaho to join Senator Borah, who has been there several weeks. Mrs. Borah had at first planned to spend the summer in the East, visiting in New Hampshire and other places along the coast, making a short visit to Boise at the end of the summer, but Senator Borah has taken a house in Boise and he and Mrs. Borah will make their headquarters there.

The senator will travel through the State and later will go on his annual fishing trip far up the Snake River. Fishing and riding are two favorite sports of the famous solon, although he maintains that the former gives him more time for meditation while affording recreation as well.

Early in September Senator and Mrs. Borah will go to the latter's former home in Moscow, Idaho, where they will attend the dedication of the Borah Foundation at the University of Idaho. September 4 will be the day of the ceremonies, and will draw a large crowd from all over the State. Senator Borah will deliver an address. Mrs. Borah also is closely identified with the State, her father having been Governor of Idaho for many years.

Hoovers to Be Hosts To World Fliers.

Mrs. Hoover will be hostess with the President at luncheon on Monday at the White House in honor of the round-the-world fliers, Mr. Wiley Post and Mr. Harold Gatty. A number of noted aviators have been invited to meet the fliers.

The President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guest Mrs. Evelyn Wight Allan, of Brooklyn, an old friend of Mrs. Hoover.

Associate Justice Pierce Butler, of the United States Supreme Court, and Mrs. Butler were in New York yesterday for the wedding of Miss Martha Knox, daughter of Judge John Clark Knox, of the United States court for the southern district of New York, and Mrs. Knox, to their son, Mr. Kevin Butler.

Justice and Mrs. Butler went to New York from Buena Vista Springs, where they are occupying the Griffith cottage for the season. Mrs. Butler spent some time in their Minnesota home before going to the resort where Justice Butler went the first week in June.

Miss Knox attended the Lincoln School and the Sarah Lawrence College. Mr. Butler was graduated from Princeton in 1928.

Miss Lafount Is Married to Mr. Romney

Ceremony Takes Place in Chi Omega House in Salt Lake City.

Married yesterday in Salt Lake City, Miss Lenore Lafount, daughter of the Federal Radio Commissioner and Mrs. Harold A. Lafount became the bride of Mr. George W. Romney, of Salt Lake City. The ceremony took place at noon at the headquarters in Salt Lake City of the Chi Omega sorority, of which the bride is a member. A reception was held there last evening.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, made on princess lines with a long train. A tulle veil was arranged becomingly around her head and held by tiny clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John Scowcroft was matron of honor for her sister and the bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Lafount, another sister of the bride; Miss Daryle Bagley, Miss Dorothy Boud and Miss Isabell Barton, all of Salt Lake City.

The bride's attendants wore coral and green net frocks, and carried an arm bouquet of pastel color flowers.

Mr. Miles Romney was best man for his brother.

After a wedding trip, Mr. Romney and his bride will be at home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. N. Dotson, sister of the bride, who makes her home in Washington with her parents, was unable to go to Utah for the wedding.

The engagement of Miss Lafount was announced May 31 at a luncheon given by her mother at the Congressional County Club, when assisting were Mrs. Dotson and Miss Ruth Lafount.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Frank Sullivan of San Francisco.

Senator Pat Harrison, who has been staying at Wardman Park Hotel during his visit in this city, has returned to his home in Gulfport, Miss.

Mrs. E. L. Naiden, wife of Maj. Naiden, U. S. A., has returned from a visit of three weeks in the North. She attended the reunion of her class at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., and visited with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Morgan at their home in Garden City, Long Island.

Miss Edith Eustis, daughter of Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis, who has been in Europe for several months, returned Wednesday on board the Mauretania to New York and will join her mother at their country home, Oatlands House, Oatlands, Va.

Judge and Mrs. Warren Olney, of Berkeley, Calif., entertained at dinner last evening at the Carlton. Judge and Mrs. Olney are stopping at the Carlton during their stay in Washington.

Mrs. Louis Tytus is passing the summer at her camp in Canada, and Mr. Tytus will join her there later for a short holiday.

Capt. Walter Lee Sherfey, of San Juan, Porto Rico, is at the Powhatan.

Takes Piano Lessons By Way of Airplane.

Miss Frances Gutelius will go to Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J., early next week, where she will be the guest of Mrs. Carol Burbank. Later Miss Gutelius will motor to New England to spend several weeks. Yesterday she completed her round of airplane trips to New York, where she has gone each week-end to take a special course in piano under Harold Bauer.

Lieut. Richard H. Lane, of Gibson City, Ill., and Lieut. Wilbur S. Jones, of Wheeling, W. Va., are at the Powhatan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Escavaille, jr., will leave Monday for a six-week motor trip to Denver, Colo., and the Rocky Mountains. Their son left early in the week for Camp Overall, Va., where he will spend eight weeks.

The Phi Delta Sorority held its late summer dinner dance last evening in the Palm Court of the Shoreham Hotel. About 75 members of the sorority were present at the event.

Ovation Given To Mrs. Wilson At Warsaw

Dedication of Monument to Husband Planned for Tomorrow.

The Polish Ambassador and Mme. Filipowicz, who sailed for Europe a short time ago, will arrive in Warsaw today to be present at the unveiling ceremonies of the monument erected to Woodrow Wilson, which will take place at Poznan tomorrow.

With them in the party will be President Moscicki and Mrs. Wilson, guest of the Polish nation, at the president's palace. Mrs. Wilson's arrival in Warsaw prompted an ovation from the Polish people, her reception mounting almost to one of royal welcome with cries of "Long live Mrs. Wilson," repeated by passersby. She was met at the station by President Moscicki's adjutant and his son, Michael, with the entire staff of the American Embassy, headed by Ambassador John North Willys. With her were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Baruch, of New York.

Several important guests who had expected to attend the ceremony will not be present. Attached to the absence of Ignace Paderewski, pianist, who contributed the monument to the American President, is great regret, as it would have been the former premier's first visit to Poland for twelve years. Mrs. Paderewski is seriously ill at their Switzerland villa.

Gen. John J. Pershing, who has been in Europe for some time, had planned to go from Paris to Poznan for the activities, but now finds it impossible.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Murray" (sometimes spelled "Murrey") is of Celtic origin. In most cases it may be traced back to two Irish family names meaning "the descendant of Muireadhach" and "the son of Muireadhach." The personal name "Muireadhach" may be translated "the mariner" and "the lord." Sometimes "Murray" stands for the Irish "Mac Giolla Mhuire," which means "the son of the servant of Mary." The personal name "Mary" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and means "bitter." "Mac Giolla Mhuire" occurs in Scotland also, where it is generally given the English form "Morrison" as a result of the mistaken belief that "Morrison" is the same as "Muire's son." Finally, there is evidence that "Murray" was sometimes given to families who once lived in Moray or Morrach in Scotland. This place name is of Celtic origin, and may be translated "the settlement near the sea."

The family name "Ralston" (also spelled "Rawleston") is of English origin and means "the enclosure of Raoul." The personal name "Raoul" has come into English through the French, but it may be traced back ultimately to two old Germanic personal names meaning "swift wolf" and "counsel wolf."

The family name "Kraft" is of German origin, and means "strength." Some of its commonest variations are "Krafft," "Kracht" and "Krefting." A German document of the thirteenth century mentions a certain Grave Kraft von Toggenburc. Although the spelling "Craft" is sometimes found in Germany, many German families have adopted that spelling since coming to the United States or Canada.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

She Watches the Boy Friend.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I have been going with a certain boy for several years and until now have been just good friends. Now I feel that I am really in love with him. He seems to enjoy my company and is a weekly visitor, but when we are out anywhere he cuts up and dances with other girls more than with me. Sometimes he will leave me sitting alone for almost an hour. Then he will come back again and dance with me. The other night I got very angry and have not seen him since. I am undecided now as to whether I should just not date him for a few weeks or what I should do. Will you please help me as I always have a special interest in your advice. We are both very young as yet and have no intention of marrying. Another thing I would like to ask you about. I am really a good looking girl, am considered so everywhere I go, but it seems that I just can't be popular. Will you tell me what I can do to become a "good mixer" and how I should act in order to gain new friends. Thanks just lots for any advice you will give me and I assure you your help will be greatly appreciated and followed.

UNDECIDED.

You are too solemn. Stop it. You go to a party and instead of having a gorgeous time smiling at new boys and making their hearts go ga-ga, you hunt a good location for observing the Boy Friend and his activities. That is not the idea of a party at all. I have a friend who does that sort of thing and I have stopped asking her to parties. Any one at a party who is not a help is a hindrance. And one sulker can spoil a whole evening. If a woman starts out to have a perfectly miserable time, how can the people she meets or dances with have any other kind of time? Every party is a chance for a girl to advertise. There she is in all her glory. Let her do her stuff. Instead of watching to see how somebody else is doing his. First thing she knows the B. F. is at her elbow wanting to know if she is going to stay all night.

If you want to be popular, learn to smile right into people's eyes. Everyone, man, woman and child loves to meet another's eyes, smiling, admiring, hailing in friendly greeting. Half the world accepts introductions as if going under the knife. Painfully. Watch the ordeal sometime. The one who smiles and seems to enjoy the introduction is one out of twenty. I always watch for that kindred spirit and cart him off. Invariably such a one is worth talking to. Begin to use your gifts of soul. Smiling is one of them. Most people merely smirk at best—which is an insult to any discerning soul. If we exploited our souls as we do our bodies we would be astonished at our own lure.

Get busy. You have a world of discovery ahead.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, July 2.

REMEMBER the time, long years ago, when you never went into a subway or street car (if you ever went into them at all) without seeing one or more (mostly more) women busily plying their knitting needles? Well, if certain signs aren't wrong they'll soon be doing it again—happily engaged in turning out smart sweaters for themselves or relatives. For sweaters of all kinds, according to the Paris haut couturiers, are once again to be the very smartest possible things for informal daytime wear.

And they don't necessarily have to be hand knit, either. Machine knit costumes consisting of skirt and cardigan and tuck-in sweater-blouse are just as chic. But, oh, how different from the sweater skirt affairs of other days. The new ones are gay and youthful—two qualities the heavy, matronly looking ones never had. The sweaters of the cardigan jacket type are in gay, bright colors contrasting with the knitted or fabric skirt and they can have short gay sleeves and nipped-in waists or brightly contrasting belts.

Agnes-Drecoll showed two sweater-skirt outfits both completely hand knit in a rather open stitch. The sweaters were of the slip-on type and so light and graceful in appearance—no material could have been more "slimming" in effect. One was in brown with a white knitted band in the middle of each arm and a white belt, and the other in navy blue with a deep white collar and revers and white cuffs—both ideal for city wear.

The open cardigans in lively colors to be worn with a white skirt for summer are much shorter than those of old and replace jackets of self-material in many models. And, of course, the very lacy hand-knitted blouse sweaters either for tucking in one's skirt or wearing over it continue favorites. Schiaparelli has hand-knitted sweaters to accompany almost all of her trouser-skirt suits for active sports. And all kinds of novelty and fantasies in weave enliven them.

• • • •

For a formal evening, the best thing you can do is to select an evening ensemble, of which both the gown and the wrap are examples of gracious dignity. I have sketched for you today an ensemble from Redfern that shows, in its lines, this dignity. The evening wrap, with its flowing sleeves, softly draped neck and bloused back, is of heavy brown satin, lined in yellow. 'N' this yellow lining shows at the back and sleeves in a very interesting and decorative way. The frock is of yellow crepe romain, with unusual yoke and skirt incrustations, skirt godets for fullness, and a split to just below the knee, through which the brown slip shows. The soft cowl decolletage is very smart now, as is the new and incrusted belt.

• • • •

And, when you're planning your clothes for the very formal dance or reception or noteworthy theater opening, don't include the slightest note of fluffiness or laciness. Formal clothes must be beautiful and dignified to be happy at formal evening occasions.

The Dare department of The Washington Post has a perfectly marvelous surprise waiting for your stamped, self-addressed envelope this week. It's the leaflet that is being fought over by clever women everywhere—for what woman wouldn't just die to get a leaflet telling how to make a three-way gown, in an evening, Sunday afternoon, and less formal afternoon version, as she preferred? Especially as the material required is surprisingly little, and the method of making it, or them, astonishingly simple.

• • • • •

And there are always interesting surprises in the weekly Dare fashion letter, to be found only, in the Capital, in the Sunday Washington Post.

Au revoir.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

—By JANE LESLIE KIFT—

ROCK GARDENING.

THIS is a fascinating subject which unfortunately is being overdone in America. The gardeners of the Old World have always made rock gardens, but they have taken many things into consideration and as a rule the rock gardens abroad are a part of the landscape, never a thing apart as they are so often in this country.

Today I wish to discuss the rock garden as a companion to a water garden or even a small pool.

Such a garden, if it is to have real charm, must be irregular. It is anything but lovely when made in any definite shape. The aim is to attain a natural effect and we all know that when we come upon a stretch of wildings rambling over a rocky ledge, it is never circular nor square. Usually, also, it is in some parts sunny and in others shady.

Of course, we can not regulate the sun in an artificial rock garden, but we can and must, if we are to be successful, consider the matter of light. If the only place we have available is sunny, then we must plant the space between the stones with sun-loving plants.

When starting such a garden we should excavate the site to a depth of 3 feet or even more. Then fill the space dug with stone to the depth of 1½ feet. This will insure perfect drainage.

On top of the stones place some of the soil excavated and let it settle for about ten days. Then set the rocks in position. Never use too much stone, as it will detract from the beauty of the plot. Native stone is always to be preferred, as it seems to fit the surrounding landscape. Of course, this is frequently impossible, for many gardens have few stones anywhere in the immediate vicinity. In this case flat limestones, porus sandstone or tufa usually looks well. Boulders with one or two flat sides are also well suited for this purpose. Always place the largest stones at the bottom and bury the largest side in the soil. Never use too much stone, and place what you do use so the stones all point skyward.

Siberian iris, cowslips, yellow calas, forget-me-nots and violets.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Larger Homes Urged In Cosmopolitan Talk

Larger and more ideal homes is an outstanding American need, the Rev. Niles Carpenter, head of the department of sociology of the University of Buffalo, yesterday told the Cosmopolitan Club at its luncheon at the Carlton Hotel.

Dr. Carpenter is here with the Home and Housing Commission, a White House organization striving for this ideal. He said the trend toward apartments is an obstacle in the path of its accomplishment, urging more interest in the home "as the basis of American life."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE surest way not to catch a frisky horse or a playful dog is to chase him. How many times have you seen a horse lured within range of the halter by the complete indifference of the man anxious to catch him—or a pup hoist by his own petard when his curiosity has brought him too close to the youngster waiting to grab him, although apparently engrossed in something else?

Well, that seems to be one of the surest methods of acquiring a fat movie contract, too. To paraphrase one of Edward Eggleston's favorite aphorisms, them as don't seek, gits!

One of the first to prove conclusively that indifference to a movie offer is one of the most unfailing of the baits was Frank Fay, the droll stage comedian and master of ceremonies par excellence. When his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, went to the West Coast to execute a picture contract, Fay went along to be near her and enjoy a sort of vacation in southern California. He made no move to secure employment before the cameras and when finally approached laughed at the offer and named a salary so high that he was confident it would be refused. But it wasn't, and there you are!

More recently Chic Sale has undergone the same experience. When the master impersonator of bucolic types moved his family to California a few months ago, he wanted to live in Beverly Hills, a formally landscaped little town full of formal houses, formal gardens and formal people, but insisted that he must have a "Midwestern type of house, something like what they have in Illinois." Nobody thought he would succeed in finding such a place, but he did—remote from traffic, surrounded by a picket fence, with fruit trees growing in the yard and a hutch for the goat. Here he expected to enjoy himself between engagements in vaudeville, or on the legitimate or light musical stage.

And do you think those picture people left him alone in peace? They did not. They came a good deal nearer leaving him alone in pieces!

The first offer was for a series of two-reel comedies. Two of these have been completed. In the meantime, Sale has just finished his first feature production, "The Star Witness"—a novel comedy-drama of an old soldier who refused to be intimidated by a gang of kidnapers.

Maybe this system doesn't always work, at that. I've been ignoring offers of a trip to Europe for a good many years now!

My high-strung fellow Hoosier, Mr. George Jean Nathan, is at it again. Before sailing for London to assume the post of guest critic on the Daily Express for a period of six weeks he took occasion to do a little more prognosticating with regard to the future of the cinema, one of his pet aversions since the days of its infancy, Miss Lillian Gish to the contrary notwithstanding.

To representatives of the press Mr. Nathan pointed out that five years ago he had prophesied that the silent movies were doomed. Now he says that in another five years the talkies will be as much an anachronism as silent pictures are today and that the stage will be "all there is, there isn't any more"—or words to that general effect, if any.

In commenting upon Mr. Nathan's latest sounding off, Martin Quigley, foremost editor and publisher of the trade press, has this to say:

"Like Mr. Shaw and a number of other professional expressers, Mr. Nathan very often says things because it is his business to say things—and for no other known reason or provocation. There are few people of equal intelligence as thoroughly and extensively misinformed about the motion picture. A less brilliant mind could never be so far wrong so often."

But, in the large view, silent pictures ARE defunct, are they not?

Jack Hurford, assistant manager of the Fox, calls up to say hasta luego, or something equally as thrilling, as he dashes for his New York train preparatory to sailing late today for an outing in Bermuda—the lucky onion!

The Fox, by the way, beginning today, is presenting the perfect subject for a distinction-without-a-difference note.

The original booking for this Fourth of July week was "Hush Money." This, however, was looked upon as a title just a shade out of line with the spirit of the week when President Hoover will have grammar school representatives and educators from every State in the Union in town for a national demonstration of the value of the sound motion picture as an instrument of education.

So they booked "The Holy Terror."

And should Hardie Meakin's face be red!

The Meakin household yesterday took possession of its new home at 3943 Livingston street, Chevy Chase, after ten years of cliff dwelling, Mr. Meakin having selected Thursday as moving day because it is the last day of his theater's show week and the day upon which he has to make all of his weekly reports to the New York home office of Radio-Keith-Orpheum—thus rendering it impossible for him to be on hand to do any of the dirty work. And I hope Mrs. Meakin sees this.

Those thunder showers certainly didn't cool it off in great shape!

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

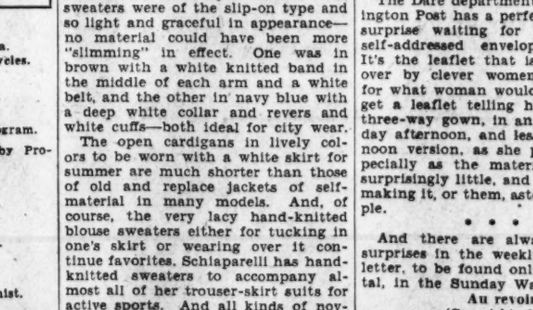
THE PLAY IS THE THING.

IT is useless to bid a hand to the utter limit of its trick-taking capacity unless in the play the Declarer is able to extract the last possible trick from the card combinations he holds in the closed hand and the Dummy. It is chilly comfort, indeed, to realize as the scorekeeper is jotting down a penalty that sounder tactics would have resulted in game and rubber. Sometimes the most careful planning and most accurate play go for naught. These are the times when the Goddess of Chance is in one of her capricious moods but many a player bemoans his ill luck when he should be examining critically his play and studying the means to improve it. Bad breaks in cards are less frequent than bad "breaks" in play.

Recently I sat as a "kibitzer" in a Bridge club and watched the play of a rubber, which had been marked throughout by spectacular competitive bidding. Both sides were vulnerable when North dealt this hand:



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass(1)	Pass	1♥(2)	Pass
2♠(3)	Dbl.(4)	Pass	3♦
3♥(5)	Pass	3NT(6)	Pass
Pass	Dbl.(7)	Pass	Pass
Redbl.(8)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North actuary has an Opening bid. His hand contains 2½ honor-tricks plus a Queen and a biddable major suit. His partner, however, was overbold in his bidding and North felt that he should season the combined bidding with a pronounced dash of conservatism.

2—South's Third Hand bid is indicative of the spirit shown by the player throughout and bears out the statement in the note above.

3—North having passed an Opening bid and holding so much more than his partner can visualize, now makes a Jump or Forcing Takeout. This bid commits both partners to keeping the bidding open until a game contract is reached.

4—East was a player fond of making unsound Doubles. He felt, however, that it could do no harm and might act as a deterrent of a game bid by North and South.

5—North holds adequate support for his partner's bid suit and shows this fact by his bid of three hearts.

6—South indicates that his bid is a minimum and the heart suit probably of only four-card length by his bid of three notrump.

7—East's Double is entirely unsound so far as values are concerned but had a rather sound basis in psychological factors. He felt there was a good chance to defeat a contract of four spades. He correctly read North and South as holding seven hearts. This would give his partner five hearts. Thus, if either North or South can be "frightened" into returning to the suit, East feels sure that either four hearts or four spades can be defeated.

8—North reasons that his own bidding has been absolutely sound. He believes there is a good chance to make the contract and that, at worst, it can be defeated only a single trick. With this situation the Redouble, risking the loss of an extra 200 points to gain a possible 310, is a sound risk.

West opened his fourth best diamond and East's Queen was captured by the Ace in the closed hand. South now led a club, which West, of course, won with his singleton Ace. Sensing the spade situation, West, whose last entry has been extracted, now leads a spade, which East takes an. returns his last diamond. East had hoped for another spade in the West hand, but West, in with the diamond King, is unable to lead that suit. His own hand is hopeless so he makes no attempt to clear the diamonds, but leads a heart, which was won with Dummy's Queen and the 2 club tricks cashed. The Declarer now has a perfect reading on the make-up of the hands. He returns to his own hand with a small heart and takes his last heart trick, following it with the diamond Knave. East is forced to discard one of his established clubs in order to prevent the making good of all of North's spades. North now leads his last club and East for the last 2 tricks is forced to lead helplessly up to the K 10 of spades in the Dummy, giving South his redoubled contract of three no trumps.

Such playing situations as is described above are of quite common occurrence. The trouble is that we are prone to miss them because we are not alert to watch every development of the play interpret the message conveyed to the expert player by the fall of every card. There are two types of players who have great difficulty in the manipulation of the cards in the closed hand and Dummy. One is the player who sees in the play only a crude laying down of Aces and Kings; the other is the player who attempts to make a problem of the play of simple hands. The expert is the player who plays simple hands in a simple manner, but is always alert for the unusual situation and knows how to cope with it when it arises.

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 4:15 p. m. to 7:50 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 9:50 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:50 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:25 p. m.

The astrological signs of July 3 indicate a morning of trifling worries, which can be classified as pinpricks, and an afternoon and evening of unalloyed pleasure and enjoyment. The later hours of the day favor lovers, and an engagement made under such auspices will be productive of happiness.

A child born on this July 3 will cause, in its youth, a great deal of worry to its parents, as a result of its truculent disposition. In later years this attitude, although never eradicated, will be ameliorated. It will be ambitious, acquisitive of learning, aggressive and a hard worker.

If born on July 3, your nature is frank and open; your character above board; your disposition congenial; your mannerisms simple and engaging; your temper equable. You are an avowed foe of anything and everything that is sham. You despise hypocrisy, and never put on side. In all respects you are natural, and there are few, if any, skeletons in your cupboard.

Needless to say, you have a host of real friends; one and all appreciate your whole-souled sincerity, and many unload their troubles on you.

Successful people born July 3:
Anna D. Olesen, lecturer.
John Singleton Copley, artist.
Richard H. Clarke, author and lawyer.
Ripley Hitchcock, author and critic.
Henry Grattan, Irish patriot.
Mary Lowe Dickinson, author.

Hoover Left Turn Suggested for Fall

Adoption Today and Delay in Effective Date Is Recommended.

Substitution of the standard Hoover left turn for the present rotary turn, announced several months ago by former Traffic Director W. H. Harland, probably will be adopted today by the District Commissioners, but it will likely not become effective until September.

William A. Van Duzer, director of the Department of Vehicles and Traffic, made this recommendation in a communciation yesterday afternoon to Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner. The proposal was the first recommendation of the new traffic director, who took office Wednesday.

Reason for the recommended delay in the effective date of the change, it is understood, is to give motorists ample time to become familiar with the Hoover turn before being compelled to adopt it. Autoists under the new system, which is really the old system, will pull up to the center of the intersection instead of to the side and await a "go" signal.

It will be to your advantage to watch the Real Estate offers in Post Classified Ads.

Gen. Gibbs Becomes Phone Company Officer

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—Gen. George Sabin Gibbs, of Harlan, Iowa, who retired from the Army June 30 after serving as chief signal officer, has become vice president of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., in charge of its telegraph communication units.

Gen. Gibbs, a graduate of the University of Iowa, enlisted in the Army during the Spanish-American War and served in the Philippines. On his return to the United States he was commissioned first lieutenant. He was one of three Army officers who built the first telegraph lines across Alaska and he served in France during the World War as assistant chief signal officer of the American Expeditionary Force, in general charge of all communications in the zone of the armies.

Chinese Pay Tribute To Inspector Burke

Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, was yesterday given a basket of flowers by the members of Washington's Chinese colony.

Inspector Burke had the Chinatown beat 25 years ago when he was a rookie policeman. The presentation was made by Charlie Soo, head of the On Leong Tong; George Wen, secretary of the tong, and Charlie Moy, also associated with the tong.

Summer Schools Will Open Monday

Large Enrollment Looked For in Vacation Classrooms.

Vacations may be in full swing, but that won't interfere with school bells ringing again next Monday morning and children trudging off to classrooms when summer schools open for a six-week term.

Fifteen grade schools will be open, three junior high and one senior high. Summer school for senior high school pupils will be at Central. Grade classes will be from 8:30 o'clock in the morning until 12:30 o'clock, while the high school classes will be from 8:30 o'clock to 12:45 o'clock.

E. J. Lockwood, new director of summer and evening schools, said yesterday that a large enrollment is expected for the summer classes.

CHILD ENVOYS MEET WALES, M'DONALD

Good-Will Group Finds Prince and Premier Interested in Peace Tour.

Special to The Washington Post.

London, July 2.—Fondest hopes of the "Envoys of Friendship," the group of young Americans from the United States, were fulfilled today when they were received at St. James Palace by the world's most eligible bachelor, the Prince of Wales.

There had been some interest among the "envoys" over the possibility of being received by King George, but it was of a perfunctory nature, and there was a general brightening of faces, a smoothing of hair and a great air of expectancy when Col. James A. Moss, president general of the United States Flag Association which is sponsoring the trip, told the "envoys" that they were to meet the world's most popular prince.

It might be said that the prince lived up to his world-wide reputation. Known as the busiest man in Great Britain, with practically every minute of his time for every day for weeks ahead definitely filled, the prince threw himself heartily into the spirit of the mission of the "envoys," asking them many questions regarding their aims and evincing an astonishing knowledge of the objects of the trip.

Children Are Delighted.

The children explained that they, representing the youth of America, brought a message of good will to the children of England, hoping to establish a friendship among the young people of today that would result in the elimination of war in the future, when these same young people are in control of the destinies of their various countries. They were delighted with the thoughtful interest shown by his royal highness and the general topic of conversation for the balance of the day concerned the prince.

Later today the "envoys" went again to the House of Commons, where they were personally received by Premier Ramsay McDonald, Laborite head of the British government. Like the Prince of Wales, the premier was interested in the mission of the children and asked many questions regarding their plans, showing that he has kept in close touch with the progress made by the youngsters so far in England.

British Tour Forecast.

He expressed the hope that the good will visit could be returned next year by a group of British children, representing the various portions of the empire, and was assured by Col. Moss that such a group of children would receive a warm welcome from the youth of America.

The young Americans, two of whom, representing the schools of the District of Columbia, was selected in a contest held by the United States Flag Association with cooperation of The Washington Post, are enjoying every minute of their stay in England, and every minute is filled. Spots of historic interest, famous buildings, and other Old World attractions furnish a complete daily program, and in the intervals they are talking with their British "cousins" and paving the way for that friendship which, it is hoped, will do much to avert wars of the future.

The "envoys" leave for France next week, where they will be received by the president of that country and will be entertained by him at a luncheon.

Delta Sigma Ends Session With Ball

Fraternity Votes to Hold 1932 Convention in Los Angeles.

Dancing brought the thirty-fourth annual convention of Delta Sigma Fraternity to a close at the Mayflower Hotel last night, when the program was broadcast to chapters throughout the country by Station WJSV.

There was a sightseeing tour yesterday morning of Washington and environs, and a luncheon at the Mayflower. Later in the day the final business session was held.

The new president of the fraternity is Harry Goubeaud, of Flushisg, N. Y. Vice presidents of the different sections are Raymond Gannon, of Dallas, Tex.; Harry Pawlik, of Wheaton, Ill., and Maurice Woods, of Los Angeles. Kendell D. White is the retiring president. The fraternity voted to accept the invitation of the Los Angeles delegation to hold the next convention in that city, and it is expected that it will take place next June, while the Olympics are going on.

Tennessee Legislature Makes No Deficit Plans

Nashville, Tenn., July 2 (A.P.).—The sixty-seventh session of the Tennessee Legislature paved the way for adjournment today without providing for a deficit facing the next biennium which Gov. Henry H. Horton has estimated at approximately $9,000,000.

An agreement for sine die adjournment prohibits this session from further consideration of revenue or road bills aimed at providing for the deficit. An extra session is inevitable, but spokesmen for the administration said it could not be called for several weeks.

She is the daughter of Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. B. H. Meyer.

KAPPA DELTA OWNS $1,000,000 PROPERTY

Sorority Votes to Widen Its Student Loan Fund Activities.

Property holdings to the value of more than a million dollars are now credited to Kappa Delta, national college sorority, according to a report presented to its convention yesterday at the Wardman Park Hotel. Twenty-four houses, seven lodges, and four lots comprise the real estate owned by the sorority.

In an attempt to alleviate the business depression as it affects its own members Kappa Delta voted to to strengthen its student loan fund. Fifty-one girls have been assisted in completing their college educations during the last two years through this revolving fund.

The establishment of two $500 scholarships for members of the order were announced yesterday. One of them is an anonymous gift named in honor of Miss Rebecca Smith, former national president, and the other is named in honor of Miss Bess Cowley, sorority social worker in charge of the sorority aid at the Richmond Hospital for Crippled Children from 1921 to 1929.

Following the business sessions a combined boat and bus trip was taken to Mount Vernon. The sorority will conclude its twentieth convention with the election of officers this morning, and the formal banquet tonight, when the new officers will be installed.

Motorcyclist Accused In Collision With Auto

Charges of driving a motorcycle with dead license tags and without a permit were lodged against Walter W. Bowie, 38, of Sixteenth street near D southeast, yesterday after he was in collision with an auto at Fifteenth and A streets southeast. He was slightly hurt.

According to police, John Schlaefli, 40, of Brandywine, Md., was driving the car which struck Bowie's motorcycle.

Dismissal of Wife's Suit For Divorce Is Asked

The dismissal of his wife's suit for a limited divorce was asked of the District Supreme Court by Percy James Osterhoudt, of P street near Sixteenth street northwest. The court is also asked to compel the wife, Nellis Walton Osterhoudt, of Nicholson street northwest near Sixteenth street, to return to him the furniture she allegedly removed from their apartment.

Mr. Osterhoudt asserts that his wife left him without just cause, and that he spent $7,000 on her. The wife has $1,600 in a building association, and besides owns some stock, the husband declares through attorney Godfrey L. Munter.

Divorce Plea Hits Spending by Mate

Mrs. Beatrice Dear Seeks Decree From Husband, Now in Reno.

Mrs. Beatrice Milstead Dear, of Monroe street near Thirteenth street northwest, yesterday filed suit for divorce from her husband, Richard Douglas Dear, whose address is given as Reno, Nev. Mrs. Dear claims, through Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, that her husband has spent over $100,000 in seven years.

In her complaint the wife charges that in December, 1929, she was awarded alimony of $500 a month by the circuit court at Leesburg, Va. She declares that since last November, her husband had paid her nothing and she was compelled to vacate her apartment.

The court is told that in the spring of this year, Dear telephoned her that he was going to South America but that later she was served with divorce papers from Reno. She denies that her husband is a resident of Reno, and the court is asked to enjoin him from prosecuting his suit there.

Constitution Avenue Opened.

Newly widened and paved, Constitution avenue between Fourteenth street and Virginia avenue was opened for traffic yesterday by the District highway department. The thoroughfare is 80 feet wide.

Henry Lansburgh Tablet Received

Memorial to Civic Leader Will Be Placed in Almas Temple.

The bronze memorial tablet to Henry Lansburgh, "Call Me Henry," the work of Joseph Anthony Atchison, sculptor, was received from the foundry yesterday by the committee, of which Isaac Gans, of Saks & Co., is chairman and Frank E. Chiselli, vice-president of the Federal American National Bank, is treasurer.

The memorial is being presented to Almas Temple, 1315 K street northwest, by the many friends and admirers of the late Mr. Lansburgh, he having been at one time potentate of this temple. Robert S. Regar is the present potentate.

"The charitable spirit of Henry Lansburgh has left an enduring mark on those who knew him, for it was broad and generous regardless of race, color or creed," say the sponsors of this memorial. He was nationally known as a civic leader and a man, as the inscription on the tablet reads: "Who was girded with charity, and whose willing hand extended always toward his fellowmen."

Butter Dealer Fined In Short-Weight Case

Milton Kessler, manager of the District of Columbia Butter Co., was fined $25 in Police Court yesterday for selling short weight packages of butter, but the fine was suspended because the butter had been packed by a Cincinnati concern.

George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights and measures, held that the dealer was negligent in not checking weights of packages he sold. Ninety-four out of a shipment of 96 packages of butter were found to be slightly under weight by an inspector of the weights and measures office.

Half-Brother Gets Estate of Thode

Reserve Officer Who Took Own Life Wills All to Henry Witt.

The estate of Lieut. Col. Joachim Thode, of the Army Reserve Corps, who shot himself to death while seated on the steps of the Corcoran Art Gallery late Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, is left to a half-brother, Henry Witt, of Silver Hill, Md., according to the will filed for probate yesterday. No estimate of the estate accompanied the petition.

Funeral services will be held at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. Witt. The victim, who was 54 years old, was born and educated in Schleswig-Holstein, Germany, and came to this country in 1899.

He was a member of the Spanish-American War Veterans, the Army and Navy Club and the Columbia Lodge of Masons. Despondency over his inability to obtain employment was given as the motive for suicide.

Chum of Buffalo Bill Dies.

Davenport, Iowa, July 2 (A.P.).—Col. Joseph D. Barnes, 88, boyhood chum of "Buffalo Bill" Cody, died today. He was prominent in G. A. R. circles. The two men were boys together at Le Claire, Iowa, where Col. Barnes erected a monument to the famous scout and showman.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennsky

A HORSE ON YOU.

WHEN THE GREEKS BUILT THEIR HUGE HORSE TO CONCEAL SOLDIERS, AND TRICKED THE TROJANS INTO DRAGGING THE HORSE INTO TROY, THEY GAVE US THE EXPRESSION "HORSE ON YOU" TO APPLY TO A CAST OF DICE OR A TRICK IN WHICH WE LOSE.

ALMIGHTY DOLLAR

WASHINGTON IRVING INVENTED THIS EXPRESSION IN DESCRIBING THE PEOPLE OF A CREOLE VILLAGE WHO FELT A GREAT CONTEMPT FOR MONEY.

ROSEMARYS FOR LOVE

THE ANCIENTS CALLED THIS FLOWER ROSEMARINUS (SEA ROSE) FOR ITS SUPPOSED RESEMBLANCE TO DEW OF THE SEA. VENUS, GODDESS OF LOVE, WAS SAID TO HAVE SPRUNG FROM THE SEA, SO THE ROSEMARY WAS SACRED TO HER AND BECAME A SYMBOL OF LOVE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

TO PREVENT SUNBURN.

A CORRESPONDENT asks for an article on sunburn. He has two reasons for the request. Summer time is here and the subject should interest many people. His second reason is personal. Two years ago he was out in the bright sunlight and then got wet. In consequence his skin blistered. Since then it has been very sensitive and even a slight exposure causes trouble.

So far as the personal problem is concerned, the answer is simple and it should be satisfactory. Our friend should begin now to tan himself. He should start with exposures of his feet and legs for, say, ten minutes daily. The sun rays should not come through glass. Next, the arms should be exposed, then the front and back and finally, the head.

The duration of exposure should be gradually increased. The plan is to tan the skin without irritating it. While tanning is going on there is no objection to the use of ointments. Once the skin is well tanned there is no danger that any reasonable amount of exposure will cause blistering. This is a troublesome and time-consuming method, but there is no other that compares with it. It is almost true that this gentleman's only alternatives are to carry it out, to keep out of the sun, or to put up with blistering.

The skin is very similar to a photographic plate in its physiology and chemistry. It has the power of being acted upon by sunlight, of picking out of the sun ray certain of its ingredients—or almost—and of making necessary elements out of them. Thus come some of the most necessary vitamins. In one way or another these sun provoked skin products promote growth, keep the bones and teeth in health, build up bodily tone and vigor, help resist scurvy and some infections.

However, every remedy is also a poison. The pendulum swings in two directions, not one. There is always danger of getting too much of a good thing. To protect against sun debauchery nature provides protective pigmentation of the skin. One type of this is tanning. In a well tanned skin there is a pigmented curtain that prevents the underlying tissues from becoming intoxicated by too much light.

Skins vary in their sensitiveness to light. Some are very tolerant. Others very intolerant. A hitherto tolerant skin can be sensitized so that a small dose of light blisters, just as a nose can be so sensitized to pollen that a small dose of ragweed causes hay fever. In some way water seems to add to the sensitizing capacities of light.

The process of gradual desensitization of light described above is akin in principle to the desensitization methods empioyed to prevent hay fever.

REMEDY IN RELAXATION.

W. H. T. writes: I am troubled at times with a terrific pounding sensation in my arms and legs, particularly while lying down. I am unable to relax and feel an uncomfortable rigidity in my neck and jaws. Will you please tell me the probable cause? I am 50 years old and seem to have a good heart.

REPLY.

Of themselves these sensations are of no consequence. As symptoms they are of some importance. Probably you think of symptoms as indicating nothing except disease. In this instance the symptom indicates a condition—tension. The remedy is relaxation. Relaxation is a matter of practice and training.

FIND THE REAL CAUSE.

K. B. M. writes: Does it mean "nerves" when one constantly suffers from a dull headache and dark rings under the eyes?

REPLY.

"Nerves" is a very elastic term, and I presume an able-bodied stretcher could make it cover dull headache and circles under the eyes. Any person with either of the symtoms mentioned and "nerves" should try to find what is wrong.

FANS MOVE ON CLEVELAND FOR TITLE FIGHT TONIGHT; NATS WIN, CUT LEAD TO 3 1-2 GAMES AS MACKS LOSE; FOUR 'DARK HORSES,' WITH 71'S, TOP FIELD IN U. S. OPEN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

OFF THE CHEST—The Schmeling-Stribling fight tonight . . . Maxie holds two distinctions . . . The only champion to inherit the title on a foul . . . and the only modern champion to go into a bout on the short end of the betting . . . What are the odds on a "no contest" decision? . . . Not as short as they should be . . . Stribling should win . . . He hasn't been hit by a strictly right-handed punches since his cradle days . . . And Schmeling's left is as useful as a tail". . . There's a baseball mystery extant . . . What's keeping Dave Harris on the Washington bench? . . . A .372 average man who has hit all kinds of pitching . . . And the Nats retreating rapidly from a contending position . . . The three-game series with the Athletics next week begins to look ominous . . . The A's are now in a position to deal a mortal blow . . . To the Nats . . . Mack has released Shores . . . Despite this three-man pitching staff . . . He's got plenty of confidence in his big three . . . Here's a tip . . . Let Mack release Rommell, Mahaffey and MacDonald . . . And rid his team of all its losers . . . One from the record books . . . The A's haven't been shut out this year . . . Here's another . . . The Red Sox pitchers haven't turned in a shutout . . . Here's another . . . Fitzsimmons and Thurston have been the only National League pitchers to hit a home run this season . . . There are plenty American League pitchers who have homered . . . Ruffing, Ferrell, Earnshaw, Uhle and Brilheart . . . Zachary used to have the range of the left-field wall here . . . And Johnson hit a homer in the pinch in St. Louis in 1924 to help win the pennant . . . Bullet Joe Busch was a hitting pitcher . . . And the Yankees used Sam Jones as a pinch hitter . . . There was another great hitting pitcher . . . Babe Ruth . . . Uhle is the best of the present crop . . . Lloyd Brown used to hit . . . When he played the outfield for Memphis . . . He still takes a grand cut . . . But that's all . . . He's the best fielding pitcher in the majors, however. The Nats have four infielders when he's in the box . . . But he has a bad habit . . . of grooving the ball . . . And forgetting the corners of the plate . . . That's always bad . . . Sometimes fatal . . . Griffith has told him . . . And he's promised to reform . . . Jones doesn't pitch many good ones . . . But he bears down until two are out . . . and then eases up . . . Joe Turner inherits "Rickard's luck." . . . Thunderstorms postponed the fights at Laurel Wednesday night . . . And yesterday dawned beautifully for Turner's wrestling show . . . There is to be no wrestling-boking war here. . . . Turner and Gerrin will stagger their dates . . . A $1,200 advance sale is reported for the bouts at Laurel tonight . . . It may be a good fight . . . If Corri decides to fight . . . De Beve, in the semifinal, will give the fans a show . . . With his trick punches . . The Open is under way at Inverness . . . The narrow fairways are supposed to be made to order for Armour's accurate irons . . . The amateurs are eclipsed . . . With Bobby Jones on the sidelines . . . And Voigt out . . . But lots can happen in 72 holes of medal play . . . Wood and Shields in the finals at Wimbledon . . . Looks like a toss-up . . .But they ought to get the singles assignments in the Davis Cup matches against England and France . . . But they don't team so well at doubles . . . And Van Ryn and Lott will probably play . . . Mutuel betting is introduced in New Hampshire . . . At the Rockingham track . . . But the New Englanders go in mostly for harness racing . . . The bookies here are shunning wagers on the half-mile tracks in Canada and the West . . . Too many betting coups . . . It's hard to get a bet down in No. 1 Precinct, anyway . . . The "joints" are closed . . . And transactions are made on the curbs . . . Four tracks have applied for licenses in Florida . . .The mutuel bill was passed over the governor's veto . . . He was influenced by the counsel of the attorney general of Kentucky . . . Who was charged with treason by Kentucky newspapers . . . Who pointed out that a certain per cent, more than 60, of the horses racing were bred in Kentucky . . . And that thoroughbred breeding is still Kentucky's greatest industry . . . What with the drought having ruined the crops . . . And the depression having sent market prices skidding . . . But Stribling ought to win . . . Unless Schmeling tags him with a right in the early rounds . . . Whereupon you may read about the grandest back-pedaling performance in prize ring history. Stribling can ride his bike if the occasion demands.

Dutra, Barron, Guest, Williams Leading at Inverness.

Favorites Close Up; British Threat Is Diminished.

Boomer, the Anglo-French representative, required an 85, Arthur Havers, one-time British open champion, exploded with an 86, and the veteran George Duncan staggered through the stifling heat with an 87 to increase the gloom surrounding the camp of the visitors.

American Favorites Still Contenders.

Meanwhile, the prime American favorites, though failing to furnish fireworks for the smallest open championship galleries in many years, moved into contending positions after a struggle with the rough and the bunkers. On the heels of the four leaders was Al Espinosa, the Castilian Spaniard, with a 72 that would have been a stroke or two lower but for two putts that rimmed the cup.

Two strokes behind the pace-setters at 73, in addition to the British pair, Robson and Davies, were MacDonald Smith, the Scotch stylist; Billie Burke, the sharpshooter from Greenwich, Conn., who starred at Scioto last week; Joe Turnesa and Henry Ciuci, of the Metropolitan New York group, and Frank Walsh, of Chicago.

Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen each posted 74, serving warning of their challenge to retain championship honors. A stroke behind them came Tommy Armour, the British open champion, whose 75 represented a shaky start and put him alongside Leo Diegel and George Von Elm, two of the West Coast's star entries. Light Horse Harry Cooper registered 76, Horton Smith 77, while Denny Shute, of Cleveland, and John Golden, of Patterson, N. J., damaged their prospects with 79 each.

Bobby Jones Joins Sweltering Fans.

Bobby Jones joined the sweltering spectators in weather that ran a sun temperature of 105 before a breeze brought some relief, but they weren't interested in such little known players as Mortie Dutra, Guest, Williams and Barron, with the result they missed seeing the finest golf of the day.

All four coleaders missed at least one good chance to trim off a stroke that would have knocked down Old Man Par, and given the round an undisputed pace setter. Guest three-putted the seventh and seventeenth, otherwise playing such machine-like golf he was only once off the fairway from the tee. Williams, otherwise putting so sensationally he used up only 27 strokes on the 18 greens, missed a 6-footer on the 210-yard eighth for his par 3.

Dutra's First Shot Out Of Bounds by Inch.

Barron approached magnificently, but missed a 2-foot putt for a deuce on the 146-yard thirteenth hole. Dutra's first tee shot was out of bounds by the slender margin of an inch, with the result he was handicapped with a 6 at the outset. He got back these two strokes with a brace of birdies on the fifth and ninth, playing all the other holes in even par.

Sarazen admitted he felt the effects of the heat, despite frequent applications of his ice-water bottle, but blamed his ill luck on the greens for not scoring better. Armour, as a precaution against inaccuracy, used his No. 1 iron off a dozen tees, but failed to rid himself of a disconcerting tendency to hook off the fairways and into trouble.

TRIBE BEATS MACKS BY 12-4 SCORE

Walberg Routed by 7-Run Attack in 6th Inning.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 2 (A.P.).—Four Philadelphia pitchers were ineffective against the Cleveland Indians today, and the Tribe won the third and final game of the series, 12 to 4.

Jimmy Foxx got his fifteenth homer of the season in the second, and Earl Averill got his thirteenth and fourteenth in the third and seventh. Bishop also clouted a circuit drive.

The Athletics got thirteen hits against nine for Cleveland, but the Indians scored even when hits were missing. In the seventh they got three runs off four walks and a fielder's choice.

Earnshaw Relieves Walberg in Sixth.

Walberg started the game for the Macks, but was relieved by Earnshaw in the big Cleveland sixth inning after yielding eight hits and four bases on balls. Krause walked four straight men in the seventh after Earnshaw had been sidetracked for a pinch hitter. McDonald finished the game.

Hudlin, given good support, pitched winning ball after the Macks' 4-run splurge in the second inning.

The Macks' lead was cut to 3½ games as the result of Washington's victory at St. Louis.

Crowder Hero In Beating Browns

Burke Pounded Out; Cronin, H. Rice Hit Triples.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, July 2.—After a belated start, which saw the enemy jump into a four-run lead, the Nats showed a flash of their best form this afternoon to end their Western invasion with a 13-to-5 victory over the St. Louis Browns. As the Mackmen were beaten in Cleveland, the triumph netted Washington a one-game gain in the race and cut the Elephants' leading margins to three and a half games.

Walter Stewart and Bob Burke started on the hill for their respective teams, but it proved to be a bad day for southpaws and neither lasted.

"General" Alvin Crowder relieved Burke and pitched fine ball, well deserving credit, which went to him, for the victory. Art Stiles and Chad Kimsey finished the game for the Browns.

6 Extra-Base Hits Among Nats' 14.

Of the fourteen Washington hits, six were for extra bases, with Manush, Harry Rice, Hargrave, Kuhel and Crowder getting two safeties each. Harry Rice and Hayes each drove home three runs. Goslin, with a double and two singles, led the Browns' attack.

Stewart started off as if his "jinx" of other seasons was with him and it looked as though the Nats were in for a bad beating when his mates gave him an early four-run lead, while knocking Burke out of the box in the third. However, the Nats kept pecking away and nudged Stewart off the hill in the sixth when they went to the front.

Burke's wildness was largely responsible for his troubles, as he was invariably behind the batters in the ball and strike count and several of the hits made were due to the fact that he was forced to groove the ball. In the second, Ferrell walked and this was turned into a run when followed by Burns' double and Levey's long fly.

Burke Fills Bases In Third.

After Goslin singled with one gone in the third, Burke filled the bases by passing both Kress and Ferrell, singles by Bettencourt and Burns driving home three runs and Burke off of the hill. Crowder stopped this onslaught.

Both teams molded a run in the fourth, Manush's double, a helpful out and Bluege's long fly letting the Nats break the ice, while Schulte's opening two-bagger, a sacrifice, and Goslin's single gave the Browns theirs.

The next two rounds netted the Nats five runs and put them one to the good. By this time, Stewart showed signs of wear and tear in the sweltering sun, for he was wild as well as ineffective. With one dead, Hargrave up for Spencer, walked and Crowder's single, Hayes' double and Manush's long fly gave the Nats two runs. Cronin walked later in the round, but Harris could help none.

With one in the morgue in the sixth, Stewart walked both Harry Rice and Kuhel. Hargrave then cleared the bases with a double to right-center to tie the score and

AWAITING THE GONG AT CLEVELAND

MUNY TITLE TO VIRGINIA WILLIAMS

Mrs. Hill Beaten by 5 and 3 in Final at Rock Creek.

THE women's public links golf championship was won yesterday by Miss Virginia Williams in the final round played on the Rock Creek Park course against Mrs. Mae Hill. With a card of 43 for the first nine Miss Williams reached the turn 3 up and ended the match on the fifteenth green, 5 up and 3 to play.

In the qualification round Mrs. Hill was the medalist with 86, leading Miss Williams by one stroke.

The new public links champion, who is only 17 years of age, became prominent among the women golfers last year when in the competition for the cup donated by Mrs. William S. Corby she won the low gross prize, negotiating the Columbia course in 43—46—89.

Won Competition at Congressional.

She was also the winner in the match play against par last September on the Congressional course, being 3 up on par. This year she played in and won the Kenwood Women's Club championship, playing the eighteen holes in 40—45—85. She also won the Scotch foursome, with J. O. Rhyne as her partner, played on the Congressional course last month. She is a frequent player on the Congressional course, her father being a member of the club.

Miss Williams left last night for Chicago to play in the women's junior championship of the Western Golf Association.

Barnes Eliminates Grant In Clay Court Tourney

St. Louis, Mo., July 2 (U.P.).—Eliminations of the defending champion, Bryan M. Grant jr., of Atlanta, and two spectacular five-set victories by the Pacific Coast stars, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, featured today's quarter final play in the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament.

Bruce Barnes, of Austin, Tex., eliminated Grant in straight sets, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3, and was first to qualify for the semi-finals.

Vines defeated Donald Cram, of Nashville, Tenn., 1—6, 6—4, 7—5, 6—8, 6—4. The Tennessean put up a terrific battle before yielding to his more experienced opponent.

Gledhills, Santa Barbara, Calif., staged one of the greatest rallies of the week when he downed Wray Brown, of St. Louis, Missouri State champion, 1—6, 2—6, 6—1, 6—4, 6—4. Berkeley Bell, of New York, was the other semi-finalist, defeating Chicago's star, George J. Jennings jr., 6—1, 6—3, 6—1.

Managers Predict Knockouts With 2 Fighters in Seclusion

CLEVELAND, July 2 (A.P.).—From what the managers had to say tonight it appeared there would be two knockouts tomorrow night when Champion Max Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling meet for the world's heavyweight championship. The fighters were in seclusion tonight, but each of their managers freely predicted his scrapper would win by a knockout.

"Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the challenger, said: "W. L. will win the title on a knockout within five rounds. He is in perfect shape, ready and eager. He has never been boxing better nor punching harder. I am certain he will bring the title back to America and to Macon, Ga."

Joe Jacobs, manager of the champion, insisted Schmeling would be the one to win by a knockout, but he said the fight might go ten rounds. "Max will take the fight on a knockout within ten rounds," Jacobs said. "He is in much better condition than when he fought Sharkey last June. He is much stronger, and his punching is heavier. He will clip the Southerner with a few of those right hands and it won't last long."

Schmeling and Stribling Fight for Clouded Title Promoted by Dummy Firm

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 2.—The clouded title of heavyweight champion of the world will go into competition tomorrow evening in a fight between Max Schmeling, the present holder, and Willie Stribling, of Georgia, in the great new Municipal Stadium of Cleveland. The bout will be of fifteen rounds or less and the gate receipts, notwithstanding the most elaborate and determined ballyhoo ever exerted for a prize-fight production, are not likely to pass $300,000 as against earlier estimates of $600,000.

The fact that Jack Sharkey beat Stribling and lost to Schmeling only by an erratic foul after punching him savagely and with impunity for three rounds, naturally detracts from the dignity of this prize fight. The further fact that the Sharkey-Schmeling fight was designated as a heavyweight championship bout by the New York prize-fight commission in payment of a political obligation and without regard for the realities, further beclouds the championship pretensions of the present affair.

American Conquests Of Max Few.

Schmeling, a German with a vague facial resemblance to Jack Dempsey, is 26 years old now and claims to have had about 50 fights. Most of his opponents were German boys, and novices in a land where fist fighting was a novelty. His American record consists principally of a decision over a common journeyman named Joe Sekyra, a knockout over Johnny Risko and a decision over Paulino Uzcudun, both of them passe at the time, and his negative victory over Sharkey.

Stribling has been fighting about ten years and is notoriously bashful when he is fighting first class men in important bouts. He has won about 100 fights by knockouts but the word mediocre would flatter all but a few of his victims. Against Tommy Loughran, Paul Berlenbach and Sharkey he showed the timidity that now enters into the probabilities to weigh against his obvious superiority over Schmeling in experience, ring guile and practical boxing skill.

Stribling Handsomest Of Pro Athletes.

He is about 27 years old, a daring, even reckless aviator, a magnificent physical specimen, the handsomest professional athlete of his time, and, counting his childhood experience as a boxer in bouts against his younger brother, Herbert, when the family were touring the United States and Europe, he has entered the ring, to put up his hands for pay more than 1,000 times. The Stribling family were acrobats in vaudeville when the two boys were children and they used to close the act with a precocious boxing bout which Herbert, being the smaller, in compliance with sound theatrical principle, always won by a synthetic knockout.

Pegler Picks Stribling To Win Title on Points

Cleveland, Ohio, July 2.—Willie Stribling is a better boxer than Mr Schmeling. He has had about six fights to Schmeling's one without being hurt. Schmeling has fought twice in two years. He showed the need of experience in his bout with Sharkey a year ago. He excels Stribling only in his willingness to stand up to a beating. Physically, they are an even match. Willie notoriously clinches or goes away when he is being punched. Schmeling is the better puncher. Because of Willie's superior experience and skill, I pick him to win on points. Once in an important fight, with the title and a great fortune to win, Willie should be willing to stand and fight, in violation of a lifelong custom.

WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Stribling 5-4 Choice Over Schmeling

'Gate' May Not Exceed $400,000 Despite Ballyhoo.

Little Betting Noted; Lower-Priced Seats Sell Slowly.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 2 (A.P.).—The fighting clans moved in on Cleveland today, through the air, over the Midwest highways, by train, as a blazing sun poured down on the approaching climax of another world heavyweight championship picture.

Tomorrow night, on the eve of the great national holiday, Max Schmeling, the black-browed, plunging German, will defend his title against young Bill Stribling, the lean, handsome youngster from Macon, Ga., in Cleveland's new municipal stadium, and to the old-timer the scenes shifted back easily to another big day in Ohio's fistic history.

Almost to the day, on July 4, 1919, Jack Dempsey, then the young man mauler, hammered down the great bulk of Jess Willard at Toledo, about 120 miles from here, in the same kind of killing heat that has been blasting down on the Midwest for the past two weeks. That day Dempsey inaugurated a golden reign of unprecedented power and magnificence, and tomorrow night, in the new steel and cement amphitheater that is Cleveland's greatest pride, two youngsters of another fighting era hope to start out in the footsteps of the warrior they now call the old man mauler.

Strangely enough, in the second heavyweight title battle Ohio ever has seen, the gate receipts will no more than equal the $452,000 the young Dempsey and the fading Willard drew on the sun-swept plain at Toledo. Despite the feverish ballyhoo that always accompanies a heavyweight title tilt, unprecedented use of the radio for publicity purposes, the flying squadrons that have combed the nearby Pennsylvania and Ohio towns in search of customers, and Stribling's flying stunts, there seemed no prospect of more than $400,000 in the till tomorrow night when the warriors open their fifteen-round duel on the shores of Lake Erie.

Old Man Depression, enemy of the entire Nation for the past year or two, has stepped into the fight picture to make more impressive than ever the $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 gates of the Dempsey era.

Cleveland is tremendously interested in the battle of the drawling Southerner and the dogged German, proud of the opportunity to entertain champions again, but old Joe Faithful, who pays the freight by filling the moderate priced seats doesn't seem to have $5.49 or $12.50 to spare this season. Every indication is that he will take the family to the lake shore tomorrow night and tune in on the radio broadcast of the NBC networks, while he seeks relief from the killing heat in the cooling breezes on the front porch air. George Blake, of Los Angeles, who flew into town today from Chicago to referee the bout, had a rules conference scheduled with the warriors at the same time. There will be no fouls recognized from low blows, the wounded principal having only the right to rest five minutes before continuing.

WAR WHITES POLOISTS WIN ARGENTINE CUP TOURNAMENT

Blues Beaten In Finals, 12 to 6

2-Goal Handicap of Losers Is Offset by Brilliant Play.

Mrs. Hoover Among 2,000 Spectators at Match.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

THE War Department White Polo Team captured its second title in a week yesterday when it triumphed over the War Blues in the final match for the Argentine Cup, 12 to 6. Sunday the White four stopped Third Cavalry in the finals of the War Department Polo Association's annual invitation tournament.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover headed a gathering of about 2,000 that witnessed the hard-riding contest between the two War Department teams. After the match the winners were presented with the Argentine Cup by Senor Don Pablo Santos Munoz, charge d'affaires of the Argentine Embassy.

Instead of the closely contested game that was anticipated by polo critics, the match was decidedly one-sided after the third period, when the White mallet men scored five goals to take a 9-to-3 lead, the Blue squad having a two-goal handicap.

Spectacular Riding Exhibited.

Neither team displayed any marked team work, but seldom have local polo fans been treated to more spectacular riding, and judging from the reaction of the spectators this is what is appreciated and looked for on the Potomac Park Field. Maj. Devers' pony took a bad spill late in the game and the fans displayed keen interest in the major's cool roll from his scrambling mount.

Col. Chaffee added one goal to the Blue handicap in the first period as the White four went scoreless to give real hope to the followers of the losing team. But in the second stanza Maj. Eager and Lieut. Rogers, of the Whites, scored two goals each to put the ultimate winners in the lead. Rogers counted first and then Maj. Eager scored one of the best goals of the afternoon from about 40 yards out. Just a minute later, Maj. Eager scored from a scramble to equalize and shortly before the period closed Lieut. Rogers put his team in the lead.

The third period was a complete rout for the Blues. Maj. Eager counted for three markers and Lieut. Rogers and Maj. Patton for one each to put the game on ice for the White squad.

Spectators Are Given Good Show.

The fourth, fifth and sixth chukkers saw but comparatively little scoring but some exceptional riding. With a safe lead, the White horsemen contented themselves with riding the Blues off the sphere at every opportunity, and in behalf of the losing squad it may be mentioned that it met the Whites at this game in great fashion. Ponies and mallets clashed frequently to give the fans a good show, although little real polo was played.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ANOTHER double feature, together with a 2-mile steeplechase event, will head the card at Arlington Park today. The remainder of the program has attracted large fields of second-class platers, but nevertheless should provide some interesting and spirited contests.

The twin attractions, both allowance affairs, will bring together some speedy equines to contest the honors. In the 6 furlongs of the Omaha Purse, fifth on the card, a choice field of ten 3-year-old speedsters is scheduled to match strides. The Idaho Purse, a 1-mile gallop for 3-year-olds and upward, to be run as the sixth, brings out six evenly matched steeds to contest the $1,600 purse.

EPITHET, clever 3-year-old from the Warm Stable, with 115 pounds, holds a slight edge over his nine opponents in the 6 furlongs of the Omaha. In the Inaugural Handicap, with its seventeen starters, the son of Epinwald suffered early interference. In this small field he figures to gain the award. OUTBOUND has turned in some splendid efforts in recent races and is the one to fear. MARTHA JONES, from the Looney & Jones string, appears best of the others.

A select group of six milers will face the barrier in the Idaho Purse, sixth event, which carries an $1,800 purse. Under the conditions HIGHFOOT, fleet colt from the Valley Lake Stable, lightly weighted with 100 pounds, is the selection. This son of High Time stepped 6 furlongs in 1:11 2-5, which attests to his fitness. PANCHO should furnish stern opposition. KARL EITEL, the Mrs. Denemark horse, closed considerable ground in the Inaugural and at the added distance should get into the money.

FIRST RACE — RARA AVIS has shown the most consistent form of the thirteen juveniles which will contest the 5½ furlongs of the first race. On her last winning effort, the O. H. Berz youngster stands out among her opposition. UNENCUMBERED, winner of his last in slow time, is the place selection, with ESCOBA LAND as the show possibility.

SECOND RACE—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clarke's entry of CONTRITION, CRUMPLER and MADIOLA holds a decided edge over the eight fencers which will contest the two miles infield event. ICICLE raced well in his Belmont Park campaign and figures next best, with TOD SLOAN as the show selection.

THIRD RACE—Fourteen 2-year-olds will battle it out over the five-and-a-half furlongs of the third, under claiming conditions. NEWGRO, a recent graduate, showed speed in her maiden victory, and should repeat against this mediocre field. MINTON is on edge and figures to force the pace. SANS COIN, from the Audley Farm, has SHIVA to beat for the minor award.

FOURTH RACE—A limit field of twenty maiden 3-year-old and upward platers will parade to the post in the seven furlong dash of the fourth event. HIS LAST showed an excellent effort to finish third last start and with slight improvement, the Mrs. J. Hertz 3-year-old should graduate. EIGHTY TWENTY weakened last outing and should last to gain the place. THUNWIN displayed rare courage to finish second to Traumel. The J. Lowe plater is the show choice.

SEVENTH RACE—The seventh race and eighth race will be decided under the same conditions. Each event has received twenty entries in the mile gallop. WATERPORT, from the popular Mrs. Denemark stable, a double winner at Washington Park, is given the call in the seventh.

EIGHTH RACE—In the final event, MILE PLAY appears best of this cheap band of platers and should annex the purse. ALLEGRETTO is attaining his best form and may finish in the runner-up position. MISS PERFECTION turned in a fair effort last start and should gain the minor award.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MODERN QUEEN, $8.02; $4.00, $3.20; ALL ROWES, $6.44, $4.24; PANDIS, $3.58.

MODERN QUEEN, off well and racing in a forward position, came fast upon reaching the stretch to take a good lead and show the way to the finish. ALL ROWES was never far from the pace and was also going well at the end. PANDIS headed SEVEN VEILS at the stretch turn, but soon tired and could not hold first two. WHITE FLYER was going well at end. SEVEN VEILS ran a good half mile then tired badly.

SECOND RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out the chute). Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:50½. Winner, Nevada Stock Farm's ch. c. (3), by Ladkin—Minefield. Trained by R. F. Carman, jr. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALBAZANO, $7.04, $3.86, $2.90; TORCHFIRE, $10.24, $5.36; DIS DAME, $3.80.

ALBAZANO, after being shuffled back early, gained steadily in the last half mile and, easily best, passed TORCHFIRE in the stretch and was going away at the finish. TORCHFIRE displayed the most early speed and while unable to resist the winner, held others safe. DIS DAME was close up at all stages and lasted to hold HALF DAY. TRANSGRESSION weakened in stretch. BROWN MILLS, DIRECTLY, SAM GILMORE and GARRICK were in close quarters during the running.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:21½. Winner, J. F. Schorr's b. c. (2), by Wayrood—Paradox. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46 2-5, 0:59, 1:05 4-5.

†Warm Stable entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTDEN, $10.32, $4.70, $3.36; SAZERAC, $5.70, $3.92; MAD WIND, $4.40.

PORTDEN, always closest to the pace, caught VISHNU tiring in the last furlong and took a good lead, but was forced to do his best near the end to withstand the closing challenge of SAZERAC. Latter came fast in the last half mile and was going strongly at the finish. MAD WIND was slow to get going, but made up much ground rapidly at the finish. VISHNU tired badly after leading into the stretch by a good and finished sixth last. SUNNY WORLD tired and closed some ground. SUNNY WORLD had early speed, but tired. SOPHIST met with some early interference. AMERICANA was shuffled back after the start. ROKEBY was in close quarters next the rail in the early running.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:47. Off at 3:50½. Winner, Rosecroft Stable's b. g. (5), by Whiskaway—Ruth Ware. Trained by E. Hayward. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:12.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KNIGHT COMMANDER, $5.48, $2.76, $2.38; CHEERS, $2.66, $2.28; FLAG TIME, $3.62.

KNIGHT COMMANDER, never far from the pace, came to the outside of CHEERS at the stretch turn and, passing the latter in the run home, won easily. CHEERS, off quickly, raced WAYNE into submission, but could not withstand challenge of the winner. FLAG TIME met with some interference around stretch turn, but continued gamely and was going well at the end. NELLIE CUSTIS displayed early speed and may have needed the race. WAYNE stopped badly. ANNAN, although apparently outclassed by the company, showed a creditable effort.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out the chute). Purse, $2,000. Wabash Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:16. Off at 4:16½. Winner, J. R. Thompson, jr.'s br. h. (5), by Sun Briar—Lady Ii. Trained by V. Crane. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $350; third, $175; fourth, $75. Time, 0:23, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:38 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MINOTAUR, $27.34, $9.86, $6.80; SISTER ZOE, $6.02, $3.82; MORSELL, $4.80.

MINOTAUR moved up strongly on the outside approaching the far turn and, after bearing in rounding the bend, causing PANSY WALKER to pull up sharply and placing MORSEL in close quarters, got to the front entering the stretch and lasted to hold SISTER ZOE. Latter came with a great burst of speed in the final furlong and was gaining rapidly at the end. MORSEL saved ground where possible and stood a hard stretch drive gamely to finish close up. HOT TODDY weakened in the run home. NED O had early speed, but tired approaching the final bend. PANSY WALKER was practically eliminated when she was blocked rounding the far turn.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,600. Wisconsin Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:46. Off at 4:48. Winner, Jones Stock Farm's b. c. (4), by Luculliite—Personnel. Trained by B. A. Jones. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:46 4-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:52 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LAHOR, $5.36, $3.16, $2.54; SUITOR, $6.66, $3.96; JEM, $3.82.

LAHOR, off well, and showing good early speed, remained close to AMYVALE in the early running and, taking command when the latter tired, assumed a good advantage and held SUITOR. The latter was quickest to break, but was forced back to last place when in close quarters turning into the back stretch. He came again in the outside when clear and made a game bid in the stretch, but could not overcome the early interference. JEM showed improvement and, racing into contention on the back stretch, was close up thereafter. AMYVALE was rushed to the front in the first quarter and had little left for the final drive. TREK loomed up dangerously after going half the distance, but hung in the stretch run.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $1,500; claiming; for 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:15. Off at 5:16. Winner, W. E. Hupp's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOB'S PLAY, $20.68, $8.14, $5.34; ENGLEWOOD, $11.56, $8.24; CHAS. CLARKE, $14.58.

BOB'S PLAY came into contention in the first quarter and, taking a good lead after leaving the back stretch, held sway to the finish to win under urging. ENGLEWOOD came fast in the last half mile and was gaining on winner at finish. CHAS CLARKE saved ground around stretch turn to best the others. CLARET showed good early speed,

ROBINSON AND STONE WIN ARMY DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

Unseeded Duo Beats Hills And Hobbs

Late Rally of Majors Futile; Succumb 6-2, 6-3, 7-5.

Volleying and Smashing of Lieutenants Swings Victory.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

"OFTEN a bridesmaid, but never a bride," that trustworthy old bromide, might well be dusted off and brought out in the strong light again to fit the occasion of yesterday's tennis match at Columbia Country Club, in which Majs. J. H. Hills and L. S. Hobbs lost in the final round of the doubles championship of the United States Army to the unseeded and unsung team of Lieuts. S. K. Robinson and J. N. Stone.

Seeded No. 1, and decisive winners in their early round matches, Hills and Hobbs were looked on as at least probable winners of a tournament in which they have twice been finalists and twice semifinalists. But Old Lady Fate, aided and abetted by some stellar overhead and volleying work on the part of Robinson and Stone, gave the decision to that team by the scores, 6—2, 6—3, 7—5.

Hills and Hobbs Rally Too Late.

Only in the last set of the match did Hills and Hobbs make a real contest of it, so concentrated and consistent was the attack of the two young airmen. The inoffensive services of the losers forbade their coming to the net and that barrier was taken in nearly every point by the team that won.

Once encamped at the net, Robinson and Stone were a pair of volleying and smashing demons, but under able control. On the deepest lobs their opponents sent up the eventual winners were content only to put the ball back in play and wait for a shorter and more killable shot. Short balls were dealt with in tremendously decisive fashion.

Hills Retrieves in Brilliant Style.

Maj. Hills turned in a good exhibition of retrieving seeming placements off the racquets of Robinson and Stone, but these were not conducive to the winning of many points. Hobbs was bothered by the failure of his service, his double fault on the final point of the match being a key to his double faulting propensities throughout the match.

The winners were presented with silver vases and the runners-up with smaller trophies after the match by Brig. Gen. B. D. Foulois, assistant chief of the Army Air Corps.

Maj. Van Vliet to Play In Leech Cup Matches

Maj. Robert C. Van Vliet, twice champion of the Army, yesterday notified Maj. J. H. Hills, captain of the Army's Leech Cup Tennis Team, that he would be able to play against the Navy July 18 at the Chevy Chase Country Club in the annual interservice matches for possession of the nationally known cup.

Van Vliet's unexpected presence in the Army line-up distinctly enhances the team's chances to even the score against Navy, who last year defeated them, 8 matches to 1. Van Vliet, now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., was unable to appear for either the Army singles or doubles tournaments and was believed to be definitely out of competition for the year. He was not originally named among the players chosen to make up the Army squad this year.

All nominees for berths on the team have been instructed to appear at Columbia Monday at 10 o'clock to begin training for the match.

Janet Stultz Winner In Alexandria Swim

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., July 2.—The first aquatic meet of the year was held at the swimming pool this morning when youngsters of the Alexandria High Playgrounds competed for honors in a sereis of events.

Miss Janet Stultz, a future "Gertie Ederle," was the surprise performer of the races. This young lady copped first place in three of the four events staged for the girls.

The honors for the boys were split up, with different youngsters winning first place in the five races.

"Prex" Wilson, director of the municipal pool, stated entries were piling up for the water carnival on Saturday, July 4, and he expects this to be the best event ever held under the auspices of the recreation department.

Thomas Yields Red Sox On 3 Hits, One Deserved

Chicago, July 2 (A.P.).—Tommy Thomas pitched one of his finest games today, limiting the Boston Red Sox to three singles, two of them scratches, as the White Sox took the final game of the series, 2-0. Thomas faced only 30 batters.

Boston's only legitimate safety was a single to center by Earl Webb in the seventh.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

MAJ. GEN. CHARLES LEE, who joined the American Army at the outbreak of the revolution, was made an officer in the British army at the age of 11. Lee first distinguished himself fighting with Burgoyne in Portugal. He took part in several battles in America's war for independence, but was suspended after the battle of Monmouth. He died in Philadelphia October 2, 1782.

HOMER GIVES GIANTS 3-2 VICTORY

Hogan's Clout Evens Cards' Series and Reduces Lead.

NEW YORK, July 2 (A.P.).—J. Francis Hogan, the Giants' catcher, clouted a home run in the fifth inning today with two mates on base and gave New York a 3-to-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Giant victory ended the series all square and again reduced the Cards' lead to 1½ games.

The Cardinals hit Fred Fitzsimmons hard, but good support and three fine double plays kept him out of trouble.

Robins, Outhit, Bunch Hits to Beat Reds, 4-3

Brooklyn, July 2 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds outhit the Robins today by a 10-5 margin, but three timely doubles in the sixth inning produced three runs and enabled Brooklyn to win the game, 4 to 3. Silas Johnson was the victim of the extra-base smashes by Frederick, Herman and Bressler, which were combined with a pass to Bissonette. Babe Philips, Brooklyn starter, was erratic and gave way to Fred Heimach in the seventh.

Today's victory gave the Robins the series, 3-1, and a record of thirteen victories to four defeats in their home stand against the West.

Yanks Rout Tigers, 13-1; Ruth Hits 19th Homer

Detroit, July 2 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees carried a big punch in their bats today and Ed Wells kept the Tigers from doing much hitting, and the Yanks overwhelmed Detroit, 13 to 1.

The Yankees put the game away in the fifth inning when they scored six runs on five hits, a walk and an error. Babe Ruth walloped his nineteenth home run of the season with Byrd on base in the eighth, and Ben Chapman followed with another four-bagger.

Cubs Defeat Phils, 2-1, On Cuyler's Hit in 11th

Philadelphia, July 2 (A.P.).—Bob Smith bested Ray Benge in an eleven-inning pitchers' duel here today and Chicago defeated the Phillies by the score of 2 to 1.

Cuyler's hit drove Grimm over with the deciding tally. The Cubs scored first in the opening inning when Taylor tripled after English had singled. The Phils tied the count in the fifth inning on a hit by Mallon, a base on balls to Brickell and a single by Klein. Smith limited the hard-hitting Phils to seven blows.

HOUGHTON IS LEADER OF D.C. TRIO

Special to The Washington Post.

INVERNESS COUNTRY CLUB, Toledo, Ohio, July 2.—The Washington district has two players in the running for the national open championship in the thirty-fifth annual tournament on this course, but their chances are slim.

Al Houghton, of the Kenwood Country Club, set the pace for the trio from the National Capital by scoring 77 on the first eighteen-hole round today, while J. Monro Hunter, of Indian Spring, was a stroke back.

Freddie McLeod, the veteran from Columbia who was a national champion before several of the contenders were born, shot a neat 39 for the first nine, but faltered and fell by the wayside when a 43 on the second nine game him an 82.

Houghton Equals Par on In Nine.

Houghton late in the afternoon obtained his 77, which was only 6 strokes back of the leaders, by playing par golf on the second nine after requiring 41 swings going out. His first nine showed two 6s and as many 5s.

After turning for home Houghton dropped a par 4 on ten, scored a birdie 3 on eleven and engraved another staggering 6 into his card on the long twelfth. He went 1 over on fifteenth, but on eighteenth shaved his score again by laying his second dead to the 325-yard pin and sinking a pretty downhill put. Houghton's card:

Out ..... 5 4 3 4 6 4 6 4 5—41
In ..... 4 3 6 3 4 5 4 4 3—36—77

Hunter Starts With Birdie.

Too many 5s and a jarring 7 on the fourth told the story of Hunter's failure to get closer to the leaders. He started sensationally with a birdie 3 on No. 1. Then came two smart pars only to be followed by the 7 when he found the rough and traps. Hunter's card:

Out ..... 3 4 3 7 5 4 4 4 4—38
In ..... 5 4 5 3 4 5 4 5 5—40—78

McLeod did fairly well in getting a 39 on the first nine, but his game collapsed on the homeward trip. He took 6s on twelve and fourteen and a 7 on fifteen, winding up with a 43. McLeod's card:

Out ..... 5 3 3 5 5 4 4 5 5—39
In ..... 4 5 6 3 6 7 4 4 4—43—82

NATS DEFEAT BROWNS BY 13 TO 5

brought home the run which put the Nats in the van on Crowder's single and Hayes' long fly.

Nats Score Trio In Seventh.

In the seventh the Nationals became three up, scoring two runs after two were dead. Bluege singled, Harry Rice tripled and Kuhel doubled in rapid order.

Any doubt as to the ultimate result of the contest was removed by the Nats in their eighth, when they scored four more runs, again after two men were out. Three St. Louis errors helped materially. Manush beat out a bunt and he and Cronin scored on the latter's triple and Goslin's error on it. Then successive "boots" by Levey put West and Bluege on the runways and Harry Rice singled both home. He was out when he tried to stretch the drive into a double.

After a triple by Pinch-hitter Jenkins had been wasted in the home half, the Nats added another marker to their total. Kuhel and Hargrave opened this ninth with successive singles. Crowder advanced both along on a sacrifice and the first-sacker registered on Hayes' helpful out. The ladies' day crowd became quite excited in the home ninth when Melillo's opening single and Goslin's double put men on third and second with none out, but Crowder wiggled out of this hole in fine style, tossing out Kress on a tap to the box, holding Ferrell to a pop-fly and Bettencourt to a looper to Manush.

In the Wake Of the Game

Special to The Washington Post.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, July 2.—Heartened by today's victory here and the Athletics' defeat at Cleveland, the Nats were to entrain for the East tonight for their doubleheader with the Yankees in New York on Saturday.

Manager Johnson made three shifts in his line-up today, but stated that they were only temporary and were decided upon merely to give Sammy West and Buddy Myer, both of whom are pretty well worn out because of the heat, chances to rest. Harry Rice played center and Jack Hayes second. Dave Harris was used in right but because a southpaw pitcher opposed the Nats.

"Uncle Nick" Altrock did not leave here with the Nationals tonight. He went to Detroit to participate and clown in an "old-timer's" game there Saturday. Fred Marberry left with his mates, but will continue on to Washington to rest up for his pitching assignment against the Athletics in Washington Sunday.

Pitcher Irving Hadley, who has shown worlds of stuff since being relegated to relief roles, probably will draw a starting assignment against the Mackmen in the three-game series in Griffith Stadium next week, Manager Johnson intimated today.

At one time, Hadley seemed to have the Athletics' "goat," beating them quite regularly. Late last season he defeated them handily, while he downed them, 7 to 1, his first start against them this year. In his present form, he should give them quite a battle.

Manush raced over toward center to make a gloved-hand back-handed grab of Levey's liner to rob the batter of an extra-base hit in the second. The catch also enabled Burke to pull out of the hole at cost of only one St. Louis run.

The heat was so intense that while Crowder was warming up after replacing Burke on the hill in the third the whole Nat infield hustled to the shade near the stands back of third.

Crowder walked Bettencourt opening the fifth, but snappy fielding turned Burns' tap which followed into the first double play of the game, Kuhel to Cronin to Kuhel.

Of the Nats' first nine hits, six were for extra bases, Harry Rice getting a triple and Manush, Hayes, Kuhel, Spencer and Hargrave cracking out doubles.

They made four more runs in the first half of the eighth.

PALISADES WANT GAME.

The Palisades A. C. is seeking a game to be played tomorrow morning at 10 a. m. as part of the field day exercises to be held on the Palisades field. Manager Hager would like to hear from a strong club at Cleveland 21333-J. He also desires the following players to report at the field tomorrow morning at 10 a. m.; Lynch, White, Barnes, Beach, Ball, Creamer, Gorman, Dyer, Mattingly, Pierce, Sallee and Hoover.

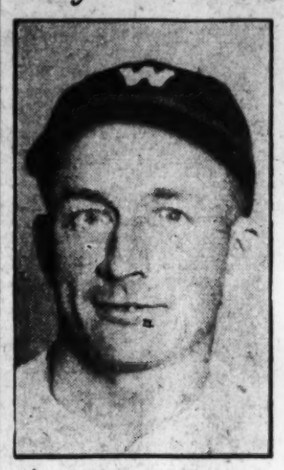
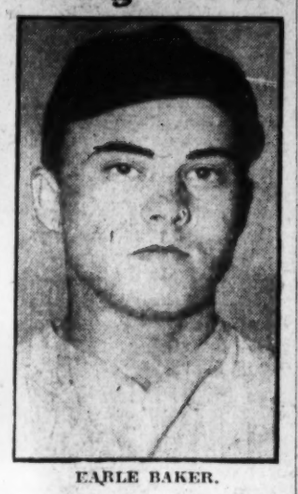
Takoma Tiger Nine Profits By Chance Meeting of Pals



PAUL JAMES.



EARLE BAKER.

Friendship, Born in Blue Ridge League, Leads to Baker and James Putting Suburban Club on Baseball Map.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

A FRIENDSHIP struck up between two baseball players while with the Frederick club of the Blue Ridge League in 1926 is largely responsible for the two-year reign, which may soon be three, of the champion Takoma Tigers in the Montgomery County section of the Capital City League.

The friends, Earle Baker and Paul James, captained and managed the Tigers in their successful drive for the Metropolitan crown of the Capital City League last season, and are again at the helm of what has been an unusually successful season to date.

Baker originally hails from Frederick, Md., where he first learned the art of holding down first base. In 1926, he received a tryout with his home-town team, and among the other players on the roster was James, a candidate for the outfield. After leaving the team, James returned to Takoma Park, and the comradeship which had existed between the two appeared ended. In 1927, however, Baker moved to Takoma Park, unaware that his friend also lived in the community.

Signed With Tigers In 1929.

A chance meeting one day resulted in their signing with the Tigers for the 1929 season. James had been playing with the Georgetown A. C. and Baker with the National Circles, managed by the late Willie Andrews. The Tigers had just been organized for the season and were not meeting with much success. Baker and James began a campaign to get the team into the Capital City League which The Washington Post was organizing in Montgomery County.

The entrance of the team into the league was a boon to not only the Tigers, but to baseball generally in Montgomery County. With Baker on first base and James in center field the team had found the necessary punch that was lacking in its early season games. The Tigers won the first series in their section of the league, but in the intercounty playoff with Bowie for the Maryland title they were defeated, winning only one of three games.

Last year, with James and Baker elected to manage and captain the team, respectively, the champions of the Montgomery County section improved to such an extent that they not only won their sectional honors, but were victorious in the play-off with the District and Virginia representatives for the Metropolitan title.

Another championship, its third in a row, is the goal of the team this year, and unless a Mack truck runs over the boys, or the Chevy Chase Grays make good some of those dire threats they have been making in the Tigers' direction, it seems that the Takoma nine will repeat.

James had announced his retirement from the game during the past winter. Sick of the game, and not as good as he formerly was, so he said. As soon as the warm weather arrived and the ball began cracking against the bat, however, he was back in his old moth-eaten uniform rarin' to go. When it was thought that he really would retire, his friend Earl was elected to manage the team. Earl is contented with the captaincy, though, and working with James as pilot he believes the team can accomplish more.

His idea seems to be correct, for working together they have instilled a winning spirit in the team that has always brought victory when defeat seemed almost certain.

The Takoma Club is not a world beater, nor does it claim to be. As long is it retains its two most valuable cogs, however, it will make trouble for teams both in and out of the league.

Marines Beaten, 7-5, By Naval Hospital

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., July 2.—Scoring two runs in their half of the ninth inning, the Naval Hospital Team, of Washington, today defeated the Marines by a score of 7-5 in a closely contested game.

The visitors fought an uphill battle, coming from behind on two occasions to overtake their rivals. Each team hit frequently but the Hospital nine bunched theirs at opportune moments. Williams hit a home run for the winners.

MISS JACOBS BEATEN IN ENGLAND

Shields-Wood Lose to Borotra-Brugnon in Straight Sets.

By FRANK H. KING.

LONDON, July 2 (A.P.).—For the first time in the history of Wimbledon championship tennis play, two German girls will face each other across the net tomorrow for the women's title on which Suzanne Lenglen and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody held lease so long.

This was determined today as Hilda Krahwinkel, a feminine Frank X. Shields in stature, defeated Helen Jacobs, 10—8, 0—6, 6—4, in a startling upset and Cilli Aussem disposed of Mme. Rene Mathieu, France's last representative in singles play, 6—0, 2—6, 6—3.

Miss Aussen, although lacking the stature and strength of her countrywoman, is an exponent of a varied and subtle game and is favored to defeat Miss Krahinkel.

STOCK MARKET SAGS IN LISTLESS TRADING

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—With the intergovernmental debt question still hanging fire, Wall street was unable to muster up much interest in the stock market today.

Although prices advanced along a wide front during the morning, the gains were narrow and a downward drift set in by early afternoon, carrying through to the close, which averaged about a point lower.

It was the dullest session since June 19, the day before the heartening news of President Hoover's plan became public. Sales totaled only 1,300,000 shares, which meant that traders were merely marking time pending developments abroad. The relative steadiness, however, indicated confidence in an eventual settlement was dominant.

Wheat Gains Narrowly.

Wheat gained narrowly in response to weather changes. Corn was slightly irregular, while cotton accompanied stocks lower, losing 85 cents to $1.65 a bale net.

Utility shares took the most prominent place in the morning rise, although the advance hardly exceeding a point. U. S. Steel's best price was 104¼, up 1, but it closed at 103¼, off 1. There were similar losses in such industrials as General Electric, Westinghouse, National Biscuit and Allied Chemical. Radio was temporarily active. Coppers softened on word that some metal had been sold at 8¼ cents, a drop of ¾ from last week's high. Rails were heavy, meeting short sales on the theory that a freight rate increase was not in immediate prospect. Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Atchison lost about a point and a half net.

A rise of nearly $45,000,000 in the Federal Reserve system's holdings of Government securities strengthened the belief that the central banks had decided to support the cause of easy money by substantial operations along that line. The last previous statement had shown an advance of not quite $20,000,000, the first increase for nearly a year, and the large gain this week seemed to bear out previous deductions.

Influence on Credit.

By buying "Governments" the reserve can exercise a forceful influence on credit; perhaps the banks now feel that the time is ripe for a considerable expansion.

After more than two months of successive weekly declines, brokers' loans finally turned upward mounting $73,000,000. The long drop had carried comparatively little weight. But a reversal of the trend has been awaited in speculative circles as a barometer of public and professional participation in the buying side of the market.

The weekly statement of the Reichsbank revealed that the $100,000,000 international credit had been instrumental in carrying Germany through her mid-year difficulties. As it was, the reserve ratio dropped to 40.1 per cent against the legal requirement of 40 per cent; but the bank gained in both gold and foreign exchange holdings. The Bank of England's ratio was off sharply, which probably explained why the discount rate held at 2½ per cent.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. The mark sagged half a point and the peseta was heavy, while sterling and the French franc gained, the former rising 3-32.

BOND PRICES HIGHER ON ACTIVE MARKET

Rails, Industrials, Utilities Gain at Close; Foreigns Advance by Groups.

New York, July 2 (A.P.).—The action of the bond market today was encouraging. From the opening to midday trading was quiet and price gains, although fairly general, were so narrow as to afford no reason for enthusiasm. In the afternoon the trading pace accelerated considerably and higher prices appeared throughout the list.

Average closing prices for railroad, public utility and industrial issues all showed gains. The foreign group scored irregular gains also. The upward movement among corporate issues was broad.

Issues of such diversified investment standing as American Smelting 5s, Alleghany 5s of 1950, Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Canadian Pacific 4½s of 1960, Chesapeake & Ohio series A 4½s, Erie 5s of 1967, Eastern Cuba Sugar 7½s, several Missouri Pacific loans, Nickel Plate series C 4½s, Philadelphia Electric 4s of 1971, Public Service Electric & Gas 4s of 1971, North American Edison series C 5s and Shell Union Oil 5s closed higher after large sales.

This catalogue is not intended to be inclusive. Many other bonds closed higher and a few of them made net gains of 1 point or more. Texas Corporation 5s featured the industrials by their activity and closed unchanged after temporary recessions.

Foreign obligations advanced by groups. For instance, loans of Argentina, Germany and German corporations and governmental subdivisions and Brazil and its provinces were higher, with few exceptions. Loans of Chile and the Chile Mortgage Bank were generally lower. Activity was concentrated pretty much among Chilean, Argentine and Brazilian issues and in French 7½s.

United States Treasury and Liberty loans were dull most of the time. Total sales in several of them consisted of a few small transactions. A sale of $110,000 par value Fourth Liberty 4¼s with a seller's fourteenday option for delivery was reported. Prices were steady to firm.

BANKERS TO STUDY SECURITIES' LAWS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

While the District of Columbia Bankers Association went on record yesterday as favoring a complete study of other States' laws regulating sale of securities, preparatory to framing a suitable local securities law, it has not yet decided how the study will be made.

The meeting of the association was called at the suggestion of President Francis G. Addison, jr., Security Savings & Commercial Bank, chairman of the association's law and legislation committee. This committee does not favor the pending Blaine bill regulating the sale of securities in Washington, but realizing the approved Capper bill has little chance of enactment, recommended employment of counsel to prepare for the association's approval a satisfactory securities law.

Mr. Addison asked that the meeting be called for association members to vote on a special assessment covering a retainer's fee, so that employed counsel would have time to study and digest other States' laws and prepare a bill for introduction at the next Congress.

Honor Construction List.

The Building Trades Employers Association of Washington, D. C., with the aid of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Architects, has prepared an "honor construction list of Washington, D. C.," which was made public for the first time last night at a meeting of the association in the Roosevelt Hotel.

President E. H. Rosengarten presided at this "progress dinner meeting" of the organization and presented a copy of the honor construction list to each member present. The title page of the list sets forth: "The Building Trades Employers Association, Inc., believes that all of the elements which go to make up a building project should be given the most thorough consideration before the architect, the builder, or his subcontractors are selected. The firms and individuals listed herein are those whose work has earned for them the highest place in their respective fields of design, construction and craftsmanship.

"Patronage extended exclusively to the individuals, firms or corporations listed herein offers the most certain means of securing for the owner: Sound design and plan, economy and rapidity of construction, good materials and craftsmanship, immediate and lasting satisfaction."

Guide for Public.

The honor construction list is to be distributed to all agencies having to do with building and is planned as a guide to the public. The association invites the public to write or telephone its executive secretary, Charles J. Columbus, at the office of the organization, 907 Fifteenth street northwest, for advice and counsel in all building matters.

Charles A. Carry, a director of American Security & Trust Co., National Capital Bank, East Washington Savings Bank and National Capital Insurance Co., has been elected to the board of the Eastern Building and Loan Association.

The safe deposit section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association has organized for the new administrative year with the election of the following as an executive council: Earle M. Amick, Riggs National Bank; J. M. Boteler, National Savings & Trust Co.; Frederick H. Cox, Commercial National Bank; H. W. Ireland, American Security & Trust Co., and Joseph D. Yerkes, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.

The council has elected the following as officers of the section: Mr. Yerkes, chairman; Mr. Ireland, vice chairman; Mr. Amick, secretary.

In a letter of appreciation mailed to customers, Robert C. Jones & Co., Inc., investment bankers, with offices in the Shoreham Building, state: "The volume of our investment business for the first half of our fiscal year has exceeded every expectation.

"We wish to take this occasion to express our sincere appreciation to the banks and to the private investors of Washington for the confidence they have shown in us, and to assure them of our untiring efforts to render courteous and sound investment service."

Sale of Sunset Oil Made As Bonds Change Hands

Los Angeles, July 2 (A.P.).—Sale of the Sunset Pacific Oil Co., formerly the Julian Petroleum Corporation, through a change in ownership of its bonds, was announced here today by W. H. Meserve, vice president of the First Securities Co.

He refused to name the purchaser which he identified only as "one of the larger oil companies." He declined to comment on reports that it was either the Associated Oil Co. or the Union Oil Co., of California. Meservey announced his company had disposed of its portion of the $10,000,000 first mortgage bonds of the Sunset Pacific which it acquired when the bonds were issued early in 1929.

TRADE BAROMETER TO BE BUREAU AIM

Frederic Feiker, Commerce Chief, Plans to Serve U. S. Business Needs.

(Associated Press.)

The development of a dependable business barometer for the American merchant and manufacturer is the objective of Frederic M. Feiker, new chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Commerce Department.

Outlining his ideas in an interview yesterday, he said his first activity would be a study intended to coordinate the bureau's activities and extend its work so the business man may look to it for leadership in both domestic and foreign trade.

Mr. Feiker, who took office Wednesday, is the first man ever named head of the bureau whose connections have been primarily with domestic business. Although coming from outside the department, he is well acquainted with its work. He was assistant to Herbert Hoover when the latter was Secretary of Commerce, and he helped develop the commodities divisions.

He also served on the census of distribution committee and the Louisville conference on retail distribution, and in an advisory capacity in selecting department personnel.

"The bureau has several hundred activities under way," Mr. Feiker said, "and the first thing is to study these and coordinate the work so we will know exactly what we are doing.

"It is my idea we should plan ahead, rather than talk about palnning. We want the merchant and manufacturer to look to the department for leadership. Not the leadership in authority, but through showing the best practices in business.

"We can not show each individual unit in every industry the best business practices, but we can serve committees representing individual lines of business.

"It is our hope," he said, "to get up an organized relation between trade groups in this country, on both export and domestic trade.

"Manufacturers have learned to look to the department for foreign trade policies, and are just beginning to come to it on the question of domestic trade.

"We ought to talk less about planning and do something. Just because plans haven't been called 20 or 30 year plans is no reason little attention should be paid to them. We must plan ahead."

DUMMY FIRM SPONSORS FIGHT

Stribling - Schmeling Fight Tonight for Clouded Title.

about the advance sales of tickets at every asking since the promotion began. Mr. Jacobs insists that Mr. Carey should have exaggerated the figures to stimulate public interest.

Agreement Reported If Max Loses.

There is a report current in Cleveland that if Stribling should win the title from Schmeling Jacobs, by prior agreement, will become a silent partner in the ownership of Stribling as a business property. Although such an arrangement might seem scandalous to persons unfamiliar with the business custom of pugilism, it is a common practice, nevertheless. Often a champion refuses to fight an opponent unless the opponent agrees to divide the proceeds of the title with him. I don't believe such an arrangement exists here, though. The Striblings have always maintained a family front against the world.

I seem to be taking a very matter of fact attitude toward this prize fight contrary to the hoop-la tradition, but the facts of the case are as they are and they are not such as to create an emotional furore. Here is a champion who won the title sitting down after receiving a severe beating, defending it against a young man notoriously shy in crises of the ring, in a bout which shows unmistakable symptoms of commercial disappointment.

Garden's Dummy Firm Is Promoter.

The producers are the Madison Square Garden firm, of Ohio, a dummy subsidiary of the New York Garden. The staff of the New York Garden firm was moved to Cleveland some weeks ago and since then the publicity department has been doing heroic things to stimulate interest. So that the smaller newspapers which abound the territory around here would not be deterred from publicizing the fight by considerations of expense the Garden staff set up a veritable newspaper shop and has been sending out mats, cuts and layouts free. There are half a dozen experienced sport writers on the Garden staff turning out copy by the yard, and a staff cartoonist has been executing optimistic drawings.

The appointment of George Blake of San Francisco, known to pugilism by the highly distinctive title of Honest Man, to referee the fight, can not be accepted as complete assurance that the verdict will harmonize with the actual score. Mr. Blake will be only one of three officials and the character and competence of the two judges will be important considerations. Moreover, it seems impossible in the present rough-and-tumble state of the rules for any referee to impose an adequate penalty on a fighter who deliberately cripples his opponent with one or more low punches, a series of thumb jabs in the eye or other foul.

Fouled Fighter Given Five Minutes.

If a fighter be hit low, in the present patched-up state of the rules he is given credit for winning the round in which the foul occurred and is allowed not more than five minutes to recuperate from a punch that may have disabled him. The miscreant may be disqualified for committing any of the other fouls but nowadays a referee finds himself reluctant to disqualify a fighter in a bout of such prominence. The customers travel long distances, pay high prices and come to the ring with high expectations. When a claim of foul is allowed they feel that the result has been inconclusive and go away with a sense of having been defrauded.

Joe Jacobs and the Striblings have been the parties to a picturesque feud of several years duration. Jacobs took Mike McTigue, then light heavyweight champion, to their home town, Columbus, Ga., to fight Willie and Willie was still a high school boy, and, for safety's sake, imported his own referee from Jersey City, N. J. Stribling appeared to have won the fight and Harry Ertle, the imported referee, dutifully awarded the decision to McTigue. For this all members of the Northern party were threatened with lynching and chased over the roads to the northwest by a vengeful party of indignant Georgians. It does not appear that the Striblings made any effort to deter their friends and neighbors.

Maybe Jacobs Will Get Even.

"I have found," Mr. Jacobs ruminates, "that if a guy does me dirt and I wait long enough, things always go to evens. Maybe I get even with the Striblings now."

Mr. Jacobs for a long time was associated in the principal business with Mr. Pete Riley, late manager of Jack Delaney, the light heavyweight. In consideration of certain curious events, Mr. Delaney ceased to operate in New York and Mr. Riley continued his operations only as a silent partner of Mr. Jacobs. Mr. Riley of late has been associated with an interesting New York character known as Little Augie, whose visit to Schmeling's training camp the other day occasioned some agile eyebrow lifting by newspaper correspondents there. Mr. Boo Boo Hoff also dropped in.

So, altogether, this prize fight may be said to conform to the old, interesting formula which demands a certain degree of suspicion and apprehension.

K. C. INSECTS WIN DUEL.

The Knights of Columbus Insects yesterday won a well-played game from the Joe Judge Insects by a score of 1 to 0, on the Monument Grounds, Donnelly, of the victors, and Russell, his opponent, staged one of the pretties kid pitching battles seen on the sandlots this season. Donnelly held the losers to two hits, while Russell granted only five.

FRIDAY MORNING — The Washington Post. — JULY 3, 1931

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

25 Local Men Sign Up for Cavalry Service in Troop at Fort Myer.

Citizens Military Training Camps got under way yesterday at four Army posts in nearby Maryland and Virginia, as 141 Washington youths, together with "trainees" from other sections of the Army's Third Corps Area, were mustered in for a month's rigorous training.

At all four of the camps, Fort Myer, Eustis, Meade and Hoyle, citizen enlisted men were "processed" as they would be in time of draft, or any other national emergency. This morning at 7 o'clock most of them will be put through their first drill.

The largest number of Washington enlistments at any one camp was reported at Fort Eustis, Va., where 70 local boys signed up for infantry training.

Fort Myer Enrollment.

Fort Myer, nearest to Washington of all of the Army bases, reported that about 25 Washington civilians had reported for Cavalry training.

At Camp Meade, where infantry and signal corps training is given, 35 local men had enlisted, and at Fort Hoyle, 11 were enrolled in Battery F of the field artillery.

All day Regular Army men assigned to C. M. T. C work at the five camps were busy with registrations, medical examinations and assignments to quarters. Under the routine followed, civilians reported to a headquarters tent, where papers were examined and assignments made. They were remitted all expenses they had entailed in going to camp.

Routine for Examination.

Runners conducted the newcomers to their company quarters, where luggage was deposited and preparation made for medical examination. Next a bath was in order, and then a thorough physical overhauling. After that the embryo soldiers received their uniforms, and returned to quarters to become acquainted.

The civilians will hear their first reveille at 5:45 this morning. Roll call will follow at 6, breakfast at 6:15 and drill at 7. Afternoons at most of the camps will be devoted to athletics, and at a number of the posts special Fourth of July exercises are scheduled tomorrow. Those seeking leave can return home over the week-end, beginning at noon tomorrow.

Fort Myer officials are planning Fourth of July exercises for their citizens military training group at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, at the Arlington amphitheater. At 10 a. m., there will be an impromptu field meet, and at noon a 48-gun salute will be fired to the Union.

Although a citizens military unit was formally organized at Fort Washington, enlistments there were limited to Pennsylvania civilians. Fort Humphreys, also in the Third Corps area, was not used as a C. M. T. C. base.

Citizens' military training camps opened yesterday for the Third Corps Area students at Fort Myer, Va., where youths filed in from the District, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and parts of New York State to begin a month's military training. No. 1. The first stop was at the base hospital, where a thorough physical examination was administered. A. R. Patterson, 1026 Fifteenth street northwest, is emitting a loud "aah" for Maj. Val C. Miltenberger, medical officer. No. 2. The next important step was a free meal from Uncle Sam, the first of the camp. William M. Areheart, a local boy, on the right, is about to put away a lot of chow with some of his buddies from the neighboring States. Sergt. Richard S. Cassidy, mess sergeant, is shown standing on the left.

State Legion Body Aids Norfolk Fete

Virginia Posts Will Send Two Floats on Tour to Detroit.

Richmond, Va., July 2 (A.P.).—W. Glenn Elliott, adjutant of the Virginia Department of the American Legion, said today that the Department plans to enter two floats depicting events of the revolutionary period, designed to create interest in the Yorktown sesquicentennial, in the grand parade of the national legion convention in Detroit next September.

Wade I. Morton, of Norfolk, has been named chairman of a committee to make arrangements. The Legion commitee will confer with celebration officials concerning the type of floats best fitted for display before the legionnaires from every State in the Union.

Cost of the two floats will be approximately $1,300, and Chairman Morton has suggested that each post hold a popularity contest to help defray necessary expenses. With the convention just a month before the Yorktown sesquicentennial, the Virginia department officials plan to have the floats stop in each town on the route from Detroit to Virginia.

Woman Given 5 Years On Perjury Conviction

Norfolk, Va., July 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Skaggs, charged with perjury in connection with her testimony against a Negro, who was convicted and later acquitted of a criminal assault charge against her, was found guilty by a jury this afternoon and her punishment fixed at five years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Skaggs in testifying in her own defense in the prejury trial insisted that she told the truth when she charged that the Negro, William Harper, attacked her. The defense in the two Harper trials was largely based on testimony that Mrs. Skaggs was near Elizabeth City, N. C., at the time of the alleged attack.

Broadway Minister Heads Young People

Staunton, Va., July 2.—The Rev. Scott Hutton, of Broadway, was elected president of the Augusta Baptist Association Young People's convention here today, succeeding Stanley Nichols, of Clifton Forge. Four vice presidents are LeRoy Reynolds, Clifton Forge; Wrenn Bellao, Rockingham County; Maude Manley, Lexington; Gladys Hoy, Staunton. Mary Hughes, Staunton, was named secretary-tressurer.

The Young People's convention will meet next year in Clifton Forge.

VIRGINIA VETERINARY GROUP WILL GATHER

Program for Convention to Be Held in Richmond Is Made Public.

Blacksburg, Va., July 2 (A.P.).—The program for the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Virginia State Veterinary Medical Association, to be held in Richmond July 9 and 10, was announced here today by Dr. I. D. Wilson, professor of animal pathology at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and college veterinarian. He is secretary of the association.

Dr. J. P. Hutton, of the division veterinary medicine at Michigan State College, will conduct clinics at 9 and 2 o'clock Friday at the veterinary hospital of Dr. J. P. McDonough, president of the association. H. L. Price, dean of the school of agriculture at V. P. I., will speak about "The Fifth Estate and the Veterinary Profession," and Dr. J. E. Schillinger, in charge of disease investigations of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, will speak about "The Fur Industry of the United States" at a banquet to be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Business of the association will be conducted at Thursday morning's session after Mayor J. Fulmer Bright, of Richmond, extends the city's greetings. Dr. McDonough, as president, will respond.

That afternoon Dr. Herbert Howard, of Leesburg, will speak on "The Use of Calcium Chloride in Veterinary Practice;" Dr. Norman J. Pule, of the Lederle laboratories of Pearl Harbor, N. Y., will speak on "Canine Distemper: Its Prevention and Treatment;" Dr. ..she Lockhard, of Kansas City, Mo., will talk on the subject "Some Modern Methods," and Dr. E. P. Johnson, assistant animal pathologist of the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station at Blacksburg, will discuss "A New Method of Vaccinating Against Chicken Pox."

A luncheon at noon Friday will be given the association by Dr. H. H. Rowe and Dr. Taylor P. Rowe at the home of Dr. H. H. Rowe. Other officers of the association besides Dr. McDonough and Dr. Wilson are Dr. W. H. Grubb and Dr. F. F. Buck, vice president, and Dr. R. E. Brookbank, treasurer.

PAN-AMERICAN TALK INSTITUTE FEATURE

Virginia Public Affairs Study Group Hears Head of South Dakota University.

University, Va., July 2 (A.P.).—Suggestions for overcoming obstacles to Pan-American understanding were offered by President Herman G. James, of the University of South Dakota, and a program for dealing with facts "in today's economic muddle" was offered by Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer, of Columbus, Ohio, at tonight's session of the Institute of Public Affairs.

The evening program followed a day of round-table discussions started with an address on difficulties of prohibition enforcement by Amos W. Woodcock, Director of Prohibition, and including consideration of problems of county management and of Southern agriculture.

President James concluded his address with a plea "that without surrendering one iota of our just pride in the United States of America we recognize that all other peoples also have their achievements and their pride, and that, however the matter may appear to us, they are just as much entitled to their beliefs, ideals and even illusions as are we."

U. S. Illusions Listed.

He had said that there is in the United States a woeful lack of information and interest in Latin American affairs and suggested that certain American illusions ought to be dispelled if a better understanding is to be achieved. Illusions which he condemned were designated as those of "Nordic superiority," "Protestant superiority," "The efficiency complex" and the "purity of motives myth."

As to the second of these President James said, "I am a Protestant born and so far as I know have had no Catholic ancestors for four or five hundred years. My two grandfathers, I know, were Protestant ministers. But for countries in which the Roman Catholic Church did what was done for the native Indians in Latin America to be patronized and Protestantized by the churches of a country whose Protestant ancestors did what was done to the Indians of the United States is naturally somewhat irritating."

He explained that by the purity of motives myth he referred to the effort to make it appear that diplomacy of the United States never had a selfish motive and he cited the Mexican War as one matter about which it would be better not to push this claim too strongly.

Selfish Business Men Hit.

Mr. Wyer cited a series of "startling facts" about current economic conditions which led him to believe that the "codified experience of the past shows there is no one panacea and that the first step in solving today's acute economic suffering, resulting from our failure to appreciate man's interdependent economic relationships is to:

"1—Develop a fact-finding attitude of mind.

"2—Recognize that while science gives man more power, it has not increased his wisdom nor altered his passions.

"3—Develop creative law-minded leaders.

"4—Develop a reverent and understanding attitude toward God and the universe and an appreciation that spiritual values underly all things."

He had said that "the most dangerous individuals in this country are not the Communists, but selfish business men. Among other assertions made were that the Panama Canal is not self-sustaining and the Muscle Shoals power project represents an investment of $550 per horsepower, but an up-to-date steam plant could be built anywhere in the United States for $100 a horsepower that would generate electric power more cheaply.

Society Collects Marbles.

London, July 2 (U.P.).—Collecting marbles is a new hobby proving popular among society people, according to dealers in antiques here.

GRIFFITH IS CHOSEN HEAD OF ASSESSORS

Montgomery County Board to Begin Work at Once for 1933 Report.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

J. Hempstone Griffith, of Rockville, was appointed chairman of the newly created board of Montgomery County assessors at a meeting of the Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday. The new position carries a salary of $3,000 a year.

Two other members of the board were appointed at the same meeting, R. E. Hamilton, Drummond avenue, Chevy Chase, and Maj. Phil D. Poston, of Silver Spring, both well known real estate men of the county. The associate members of the board will draw an annual salary of $2,700.

Mr. Griffith has been county assessor for the past six years, and prior to that time was assessor for the Third Election District. He is well known in the county, and the appointment, it is believed, will be a popular one.

The new board was created in accordance with an act of the last session of the General Assembly. The county will be divided into five districts, each of which will be assessed once in each five years. By this progressive form of assessment, a trained force of assessors, who are in constant touch with conditions, will take the form of the older system of appointing a large number of assesors for each election district at the time of each assessment.

The new board is expected to begin functioning at once, as its first report to the county commissioners is due in 1933, at which time the new assessments for Silver Spring and Bethesda areas will be announced.

Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, was directed to prepare a resolution for the adoption by the board promulgating an ordinance for the regulation of roadhouses in areas outside of the metropolitan area. Closing hours and other regulatory features will be embodied in the ordinance.

Advertisement for bids on two issues of county bonds will be published in county papers today by authority of the county commissioners. The bond issues total $100,000 and will provide funds for the county police department deficit and the construction of a new county building at Silver Spring to replace the present county building, which has become too cramped in space to permit efficient work.

The police fund bonds will be issued in denominations of $1,000 each, to total $70,000. Bids will be opened at noon August 4 for both bond groups at the office of the county commissioners in Rockville, the commissioners reserving the right to reject any or all bids if they are considered unsatisfactory.

A camp meeting is being held about 3 miles from Browningsville, on the Damascus road, by the Rev. J. R. Parker, Kentucky evangelist, under the direction of the Rev. Fred R. Barnes, of the Montgomery Circuit Methodist Episcopal Church. Services are held each evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting started last Sunday and will continue for three weeks.

The Fourth of July will be celebrated with elaborate ceremonies in three Montgomery County communities, and observed in many others with less formal affairs. Takoma Park, Kensington and Cabin John plan elaborate ceremonies which include parades. The affairs are under the auspices of the volunteer fire departments in each of these towns.

Takoma Park probably will stage the most elaborate exercises, with a parade, marathon race and fireworks to attract the thousands, who annually flock to the affair. Kensington will hold a parade at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, followed with a standing hook-up contest for county fire departments and fireworks at night in connection with the annual fire department carnival.

A carnival parade of firemen and civic organizations, a horseshoe tournament, and fireworks at night are among the features of the Cabin John Park celebration. Brookmont will celebrate with a picnic, sponsored by the Civic League at Dalecarlia Reservoir grounds, with fireworks in the evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Damascus M. E. Church will hold its annual chicken supper at the church on the Fourth.

The county offices and banks and most of the mercantile establishments will be closed on the Fourth, while the country clubs expect an especially heavy rush. The amusement parks and swimming pools of the county also expect a big day.

"Hitchhiking" Bees a Nuisance.

Kelso, Wash., July 2 (U.P.).—"Hitchhiking" bees are getting to be a nuisance, according to railway expressmen. Many swarms of bees are being shipped in this section. Members of the swarms that escape being crated insist on following the shipment, rejoining their relatives and friends later, the expressmen declared.

4 PRINCE GEORGES BANKS CUT RATES

Savings Account Interest Is Reduced From 4 to 3½ Per Cent.

Four banks of Prince Georges County have announced that curtailment of income will force them to cut the interest rate on savings accounts from 4 to 3½ per cent.

Banks lowering the interest rate are the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co., the Clinton Bank, the First National Bank of Southern Maryland, and the Citizens Bank of Riverdale.

Those which will maintain their present 4 per cent rate, at least for the time being, are the Eastern Shore Trust Co., the Brandywine Bank, the Bank of Bowie and the Southern Maryland Trust Co. The Citizens Bank of Laurel, which has had a rate of 3 per cent for some time, will continue to pay this interest.

The cut in rates has been under discussion for some time, and the banks which are lowering the rate have already issued a statement through the Prince Georges County Bankers Association. They believe that the lower rates will enable them to safeguard the interests of depositors by investing in securities which pay less interest, but are more readily marketable.

On the other hand, two of the banks which are maintaining their present rates point out that their expenses are so low that they can make a profit on the same interest. The Brandywine Bank and the Eastern Shore Trust Co. point out that as the bulk of their savings deposits are in mortgages, their rates are unaffected by the depression.

It has been reported that the Southern Maryland Trust Co. is not unfavorable to a reduction in rates, but will take no action until the next meeting of the board of directors.

The resignation of Dr. Frank B. Bomberger, former assistant chief of the extension service of the University of Maryland and chief of the Maryland State Department of Markets, has been announced at the university.

Dr. Bomberger, who has been director of the organization work of the Federal Farm Board under a cooperative agreemnt with the State, resigns to devote all his time to the Farm Board work. Since February 1, 1930, he has filled both State positions and the one with the Farm Board in addition. This will be impossible in the future, as the Farm Board post of the country for long periods, the will require him to be in other parts announcement said.

Both Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the State extension service, and Dr Raymond A. Pearson, president of the university, expressed their regret that Dr. Bomberger was to leave the school and the State service. Both felt, they say, that Dr. Bomberger's field of usefulness will be enlarged by the change, however.

Dr. Bomberger is a graduate of the Maryland Agricultural College, which later became the State University. He has served the school as professor of economics, political science and history, dean of the school of rural economics and sociology, extension specialist in rural organization and marketing, chief of the State department of markets and assistant director of the extension service. He has also played an important part in the organization of cooperative marketing associations in Maryland.

When a box of torpedoes he was handling in the Brentwood Fire Department's fireworks stand exploded, Harry Simpson, a fireman, was burned about the legs and eyes, although not seriously. He was treated by other members of the department.

A fire alarm turned in by neighbors brought the Brentwood and Mount Rainier companies to the stand, although the rest of the fireworks did not explode.

One mile on the Marlboro end of the new Marlboro-Largo gravel road has been oiled, and plans are being made to oil the entire stretch next year, according to Joseph Chaney, State Roads Commission engineer at Marlboro.

The new road, which was finished this spring, supplies a direct route from the northern end of the county to the courthouse, by way of the Bladensburg-Largo road, which was completed last fall.

The following committees of the Exchange Club of Hyattsville have been announced by Dr. William Burton Spire, new president of the organization: Membership, W. D. Porter, C. G. Burton, Dr. R. A. Vawter, Dr. Hugh Cawthorne, H. McLeod.

Entertainment, B. L. Anspon, L. Dunn, W. D. Porter, Henry Hiser, Frank, Smith; educational, Leo Dunn, B. L. Anspon, Waldo Burnside; commissary, Dr. Hugh Cawthorne, Henry Hiser, Sam Harvey; auditing, S. Harvey, Daniel Fahey, jr., O. B. Zantzinger; roads, A. H. Seidenspinner, the Rev. Clyde Brown, L. Dunn, H. McLeod; welfare, the Rev. Clyde Brown, Leo Dunn, Dr. Vawter; civic, H. C. Fleming, Dr. Vawter, Elmore Power, O. B. Zantzinger, Ernest Gasch.

Publicity, Frank Smith, A. H. Seidenspinner, H. L. Leonard, H. Hiser, J. W. Rogers; park and planning, D. Fahey, jr., C. G. Burton, B. L. Anspon; industrial, C. G. Burton, H. C. Fleming, H. L. Leonard, H. Hiser and the Rev. Clyde Brown.

While there has not been sufficient rain for bumper crops in all parts of the county, the water situation is much better than it was last year and there has been sufficient precipitation for good crops, according to W. B. Posey, county farm agent.

In the northern part of the county generally there has been enough rain to serve, but below a line drawn between Oxon Hill and Croome there is a moisture deficiency, he said. And no cases of pronounced water shortage have been reported. Wells are generally in good shape, though several of those which went dry last summer have not filled.

The downy mildew, known locally as the blue mold, is no longer a factor in tobacco planting, according to Mr. Posey. This disease attacks only the seedlings in the beds, and all these have now been put down in the fields. There was a general infection of the fungus disease all through southern Maryland.

Three cases of spotted fever have developed in the county, two cases of typhoid, and three cases each of diphtheria and scarlet fever, according to the report of the county health officer for June. Only one death in the county has been reported from the spotted fever, although another died in a Baltimore hospital. This was not reported in the county, however. There were 41 cases of measles.

There were 46 deaths in the county this month, as compared to 45 this month last year. Births, however, were more numerous last year, with a total of 72, to 69 this year.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE POST-GATTY URGE.

A ROUND-WORLD flyer I would be
And fly away so fast
I wouldn't know if I were me
Or if we'd both been passed.

I'd like to rise some morn and say,
While throwing off my robe,
"Well, I'll be busy, dear, today—
I'm flying 'round the globe!"

I'd like at breakfast to display
A map, and deftly punch
A Russian town and lightly say,
"You'll find me there for lunch!"

Or, home at luncheon, I'd adore
To boast with all my might,
"I won't be back till morning for I'm off for Omsk tonight!"

Some night at dinner it—oh, man!—
Would fill my heart with pride
To chirp "I'm going to Japan
This evening—for the ride!"

HOW nice to feel the world is yours
To ramble o'er and play!
And, what is more, to know such tours
Will only take a day.

How grand to feel this earthly sphere
Is like a small green pea
Which you can circle, wet or clear,
Between the soup and tea!

How satisfying to a guy
To know, when bored by home,
That in the twinkling of an eye
He can transfer to Rome!

How grand to know that when the wife
Is nagging like a pest
A man can flee the storm and strife
By flight to Bucharest!

How fine when comes the grocer to Collect his six weeks' bill
To leave a note "Am in Peru;
If not, then try Brazil!"

SEEING AHEAD.

An apple blossom on a tree
May be naught but a flow'r to thee,
But if you're out of work and flat
It's meaning is much more than that.

THAT there are more novices on the water this summer than ever was illustrated the other day by the sight of a boat owner in a Long Island club trying to wind up the barometer.

TRAFFIC TRAGEDY.

A poor and unfortunate rover
Is Patrick McDevitt McBride,
He tooted a car to move over—
Not knowing two cops were inside!

Add similes: As nosy as a group of middle-aged women in bathing.

THE BROMIDE BORES.

Nothing in the line of chatter
Seems to make me any glummer
Than the goofs who these words scatter—
"New York's nice and cool in summer."

SPEAKING of the debt suspension, which will cost this country so many millions this year, P. Jarvis Crabb says, 'Well, it serves America right for shooting the archduke, starting the World War, invading Belgium and shooting Nurse Cavell."

Rites Set Today For 4 of Family

Father and Three Children Dead After Auto Collision; Driver Is Held.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 2.—Funeral services for Carey Brown, 35, World War veteran and Southern shop employe at Monroe, and his three children, who died as a result of an automobile accident near here yesterday, will be held Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at a local mortuary. Interment will be at Amherst.

Brown died last night at Memorial Hospital from internal injuries. At the hospital the two survivors of his party, his son, Charles, 4, and Haynes, 10, son of V. E. Tomlin, of Monroe, are expected to recover.

J. Bryan Carroll, driver of the American Oil Co. tank truck, charged with involuntary manslaughter, is at liberty under $3,000 bail. Mrs. Brown, a son, Charles, in the hospital, and Ruby, 6 months old, are survivors of the family.

681 June Brides Married Here.

The "merrie month of June" of this year brought forth to the marriage license bureau of the District Supreme Court 681 couples who sought the papers necessary to make them man and wife. The number exceeds by fifteen the number issued June, 1930.

New Postoffice Site At Danville Selected

(Associated Press.)

The new Federal Building at Danville, Va., will be located on the corner of Main and Ridge streets.

Assistant Secretary Heath announced yesterday that the Treasury postoffice committee had selected the site which was offered by Dr. S. E. Hughes and others. It measures 210 feet by 284 feet and cost the Government $110,000.

Three Men Seized At Open-Air Still

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 2.—Working at midnight last night by the flaring light of a miner's carbide lamp in the deep woods on Paradise Run, near Midland, three alleged operators of a 35-gallon, open-air still, are said to have discussed their moonshining operations freely, while Federal Prohibition Agents William R. Harvey and Harold B. Hall lay in the bushes nearby. The men were George Robertson, Wilson Ravenscroft and Isaac B. Muir, all residents of Midland.

All three were arrested when a sufficient quantity of liquor for evidence purposes had been run off and they were lodged in the Cumberland City Jail. Later arraigned before United States Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson, they posted bonds in $1,000 each for hearings later.

The prohibition officers stated that they gleaned from the conversations of the men that each maintained mash caches and that the men combined to run off the whisky from the three caches as the occasion demanded.

ARLINGTON LEAGUE READY TO FUNCTION

Better Government Group of County Organized for Coming Election.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Meeting last night in the Woodrow Wilson School, the Arlington County Better Government League, of which Robert N. Anderson, of Lyon Village, is chairman, perfected its organization. The league has seven representatives from each of the eleven voting precincts in the county.

The purpose of the organization is to study all candidates who file for a seat on the county board of five which in January replaces the three members of the county board of supervisors. It is planned to submit a list of candidates which the league considers best suited for the office to the precinct chairman for each group to study.

Arguments lasting more than two hours were heard yesterday on the demurrer filed by Burnett Miller, of Culpeper, to the notice of motion for judgment against seven members of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County by the Arlington Investment Corporation.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy stated that there was grave doubt in his mind whether there was any allegation of libel in regard to the Arlington Investment Corporation. Judge McCarthy granted Edgar W. Pumphrey, counsel for the corporation, ten days in which to file a brief.

Attorney Miller, for the defendants, declared at length that the statement matter made are all privileged ones.

"We have admitted all allegations of fact as in the notice, but there can be no recovery," he said.

The defendants showed no malice in their petition, all they asked was an investigation, Mr. Miller stated.

"I can cite authorities showing that until court acts, no privilege exists and any publication made is libelous," Mr. Pumphrey said.

The court informed Mr. Pumphrey that all it was interested in was to hear argument as to what was libelous in the petition now before the court.

Mr. Pumphrey stated if given time he could show and would file a brief, whereupon court adjourned.

The seven women in question, together with a number of members of the Arlington County Bar Association, attended the hearing.

The Arlington Volunteer Fire Department held its monthly meeting last night in the new firehouse, with all members attending.

The principal business before the meeting was the completing of plans for the annual carnival, which will be held the week of July 13.

Concluding the business meeting, James W. Head and Herbert L. Wilson, who have announced their intentions of becoming candidates for a seat on the county board, addressed the meeting at length.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Jefferson District Fire Department Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The Arlington Rotary Club held a meeting yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club with a large attendance.

Concluding a short business session, Charles W. Healey, member of the club, addressed the meeting.

In the absence of the president, Thomas W. Phillips, who is in Europe, where he is attending the International Rotary convention session at Vienna, the vice president, the Rev. Isaac Steenson, presided.

Historic "Liberty Tree" Damaged in Wind Storm

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 2.—During the severe wind and rain storm that passed over Annapolis late yesterday, the historic "Liberty Tree" that stands on the front campus of St. John's College was shorn of one of its large, limbs on the north side. The falling limb carried away a portion of the iron fence at the base of the tree, erected some years ago to prevent persons from mutilating it.

The tree, a huge poplar, is said to be more than 600 years old. Many items of minor damage were wrought by the storm in various parts of Anne Arundel County. The wind attained a velocity of 50 miles in some sections.

Baltimore Ship Starts Transatlantice Service

Baltimore, July 2 (A.P.).—Transatlantic passenger service from Baltimore was resumed late today after four years when the City of Baltimore, flagship of the New Baltimore Mail Line, sailed on her initial voyage to Hamburg.

The City of Baltimore sailed at 6 p. m. for Norfolk to take on additional freight and passengers and leave tomorrow evening for Havre, first stop in Europe. The schedule calls for an eight-day voyage to Havre and eleven days to Hamburg. The flagship is the first of five reconditioned one-cabin ships to be put in service. Each has accommodations for about 100 passengers.

Louis Boessel, 59, Dies At Home in Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 2.—Louis Boessel, 59 years old, for a number of years employed as instrument maker at the Naval Experiment Station here, died suddenly last night at his residence. Although he had been on sick leave for three months, his condition was not regarded as alarming.

Mr. Boessel is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna V. Boessel, one daughter, Mrs. R. H. Mourreau, four brothers and three sisters. For many years prior to his employment at the experiment station, Mr. Boessel was in business as a jeweler and watchmaker, a trade which he learned under his father. He was a member of the local Masonic lodge.

More than 26,000,000 motor vehicles of all kinds moved over the highways of the country in 1930, says the Federal Bureau of Roads.
